LEWIS URGES ILLINOIS MINE PACT ON WLB

Joins Operators in Asking Approval.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—John L. Lewis joined today with his traditional foes, the coal mine owners, in a dramatic bid for war labor board approval of his new wage-work agreement with the Illinois Coal Operators association.

John L. Lewis.

For almost three hours, attorneys for the union and of the largest mine owners, and finally even Lewis himself, addressed fervent pleas to the board that "for humanity's sake" the agreement be approved.

Signed July 21, it is the expressed intention of Lewis and his United Mine Workers union to make the Illinois agreement the "basic" or model contract for the coal industry.

[Interior Secretary Ickes prescribes terms for restoration of seized coal mines to private ownership. Story on page 12.]

Covers "Portal" Pay.

The agreement provides for the first time in American mining history for payment of travel time inside the mines [portal to portal pay]. For the time spent going to and from the mouth of the mine and the actual diggings, the miners are to receive $1.25 a day. Other concessions, including an hour longer work day and a six day work week, will increase the miners' pay checks altogether $3 a day.

The board has ruled that the dispute over portal to portal pay, the principal issue involved in the case, is one for the courts to decide unless the disputing parties can agree. In case of an agreement on this point between the nation's coal operators and the miners, however, the board has left the door open by indicating it will approve the agreement unless it is found inconsistent with the wage stabilization program.

Lewis told the board that American coal miners are the only miners in any civilized nation today who receive no compensation for underground travel time.

Discomforts Described.

Col. Crompton Harris, UMW attorney with a record of an outstanding victory in the courts in winning legal sanction of portal to portal pay, vividly described for the board the discomforts and dangers that beset miners going to and from the places in the mine where they are digging coal.

Lewis told the board that for only $37 a year more than was earned by the lowest classification of government clerical workers, the nation's more than 500,000 coal miners accepted risks that brought death to 1,482 and serious injury to 72,000 of their fellow workers. He said that the increased working hours called for in the new contract can only mean an increase in the accident and death rate for the miners the next two years.

Switch for Lewis.

Former Illinois State Sen. Thurlow G. Essington, attorney for the Illinois Coal Operators' association, emphasized that the new contract does not provide for an increase in the miners' wage scale. George F. Campbell, association president and author of the agreement's portal to portal pay formula, told the board association members believe the new agreement "solves our labor problems and . . . will stabilize the industry."

Lewis' appearance before the board was his first in more than a year and a half and marked the climax of a long feud that was highlighted by his declaration that the board was a "court packed against labor" and had "prejudiced" the case of the coal miners.

Dutch Submarine Scores Hit on Axis Freighter

LONDON, Aug. 3 (AP).—The Netherlands government-in-exile announced today that the Dutch submarine Dolfijn had scored a torpedo hit on a 5,000 ton axis supply ship and sunk two schooners by gunfire in recent operations in the Mediterranean.

Foe of F. D. R. Leads Returns in Mississippi

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 3 [Special].—Former Gov. Martin Sennett [Mike] Conner, known as a political foe of President Roosevelt, jumped into an early lead tonight over three other candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Returns from 545 of the state's 1,693 precincts gave Conner 19,130 votes. His opponents received the following votes in the same precincts: Lt. Gov. Dennis Murphree, 12,121; Thomas L. Bailey, long time state legislator and house speaker, 11,951, and Lester Franklin, former chairman of the state tax commission, 6,343.

May Require Run-off.

A majority of all votes cast is necessary for nomination, and a run-off primary will be held between the two leading candidates unless a majority is obtained. The Democratic nomination in Mississippi is equivalent to election.

Observers predicted a total vote of 250,000. The count proceeded slowly due to the numerous state and local offices on the ballot. This was Mississippi's first war time general state primary and 3,000 candidates were seeking offices from governor to constable.

Participation of former Gov. Conner in the gubernatorial race aroused interest due to the possible effect of his election on the makeup of the Mississippi delegation to the 1944 Democratic national convention.

Opposed F. D. R. in 1932.

In 1932, Conner, then governor, headed a delegation to the convention which was unfriendly to the candidacy of Franklin D. Roosevelt. If chosen governor again this year, he would be in a position to lead the 1944 delegation, it was said. During his governorship from 1932 to 1936 Conner fathered the first Mississippi sales tax.

Conner was defeated for governor in 1939 by the present governor, Paul B. Johnson, who is ill and not a candidate this year. Johnson indorsed the candidacy of Lt. Gov. Murphree. Only minor issues developed during the campaign, which was run largely on personalities.

Favor Voting at 18.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 3 (AP).—Georgians approved tonight on the basis of early returns an amendment to their state constitution lowering the legal voting age to 18 and Gov. Ellis Arnall announced he would urge a similar proposal for the 1944 national Democratic platform.

Returns showed a heavy trend in favor of dropping the voting age from 21. Unofficial counts from 146 of the state's 1,735 precincts gave 10,099 for and 3,731 against.

Voting was light on the long ballot which included 27 other proposed constitutional changes. All appeared to be winning approval.

ARGENTINE SHIPS TO IGNORE NAZIS' U. S. BLOCKADE

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 3 (AP).—Argentina tonight acknowledged the success of the allied war against submarines by ordering its state-owned merchant ships to use the port of New York instead of New Orleans, thereby disregarding the German blockade.

An official announcement said a decree ordered by the former government of President Ramon S. Castillo which forbade Argentine ships from entering the German blockade zone along the eastern shore of the United States has been abrogated.

BABY IS STOLEN FROM HOSPITAL

2 Day Old Infant Gone as Nurses Answer Cry.

Albany, Ore., Aug. 3 [Special].—An intensive search is being conducted in the three Pacific coast states for the kidnaper of a 2 day old, blue eyed baby girl, stolen from her crib in the Albany, Ore., General hospital early this morning.

The infant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Gurney of Albany, was described by Dr. E. Lew Hurd, who attended the mother, as a "magnificent baby—one that anybody would like to have." Named Judith, the baby weighed seven pounds.

Crying Heard by Nurses.

Disappearance of the baby was reported at 2 a. m. when nurses heard crying in the nursery and went to investigate. They discovered that the crib occupied by the Gurney infant was empty, with a rolled up blanket placed in it to make it appear as tho the baby were still there. Two other infants in the nursery were not disturbed.

Gurney, 32 years old, is president of the American Federation of Labor Veneer and Plywood Workers' union in an Albany plant. Mrs. Gurney, 26, is in a state of collapse.

Chief of Police Perry Stellmacher reported that whoever took the baby apparently left the hospital by way of a second floor window and a fire escape. One blanket was missing, he said.

Baby in Sound Health.

Dr. Hurd said that the baby was in perfect health and should continue so if given proper care.

Stellmacher said there was a lack of clews, but that he doubted if ransom was the motive because the baby's parents are not wealthy. The Gurneys have one other child, a daughter, 8. Stellmacher said they told him they had no enemies.

Tonight a radio broadcast was made on proper feeding of the infant. Police also appealed to doctors to report any approach for medical attention in behalf of the baby.

Five U. S. Senators Meet King George; Discuss War

LONDON, Aug. 3 (AP).—Five visiting United States senators today were received in audience by King George after they had been entertained at luncheon by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden. The king talked with Senators Richard B. Russell [D., Ga.], James M. Mead [D., N. Y.], Albert B. Chandler [D., Ky.], Ralph O. Brewster [R., Me.], and Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. [R., Mass.] for a long time about the general war situation.

Big Air Power Show to Open Saturday Noon at Tribune

BY FRANK STURDY.

An aviation show which is expected to exceed in interest the army ordnance exhibit that closed last Sunday after drawing 392,887 visitors will open Saturday noon at Tribune Tower.

So signal was the success of the army service forces' demonstration of the gun power of the ground troops that the army air forces materiel command decided, in cooperation with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, to give Chicagoland an opportunity to see an equally complete array of air power. Plans for the new exhibit have been in the making for several weeks.

Visitors to the air power show will see more of the army's flying equipment than has ever been brought together for public examination. Certain of the pieces only recently have been removed from the secret list, and will be shown publicly for the first time.

Big Bomber to Be Shown.

In the sky, a B-24 Consolidated Liberator bomber looks gratifyingly big and fast. You'll be able to see exactly how huge it is when you stand beside the sectioned B-24 the army will set up in a large tent on the auto parking lot between Tribune Tower and the river.

There will be other exhibits of large size in the smaller parking lot adjacent to the south side of the tower, and others in the halls of Tribune Tower and in Nathan Hale court between the tower and the W-G-N studio building.

The exhibit will be free and will be open from 10 a. m. to 10:30 p. m. There will be excellent night lighting arrangements. Officers and enlisted men will be present to explain the uses of their equipment.

There will be scores of items in the show. Some of them are small, but very important. The B-24 bomber, for example, has four engines and weighs nearly 70,000 pounds. But if a few little gadgets, perhaps not too bulky to be held in one palm, do not work, the gigantic plane is just so many pounds of lifeless metal looking for a place to rest.

Mae Wests to Take a Bow.

When flyers are forced out of planes in combat over water they have, besides the parachutes to float them down, an article to keep them floating in the water. The airmen dubbed it the Mae West, after the lady of the same name. These and all the other articles of clothing and life saving equipment used from the arctic to the tropics and up in the stratosphere will be in the show.

There will be six types of aircraft engines: Allisons of 1,350 and 1,450 horsepower, Pratt & Whitneys of 1,250 and 2,000 horsepower, and Curtiss Wrights of 1,250 and 2,000 horsepower. Several will be of the cutaway type, revealing all the inner working parts in motion.

Here is a partial list of what is being set up now, with more to be added before the opening date:

A complete P-47 pursuit airplane, the army's newest.

Three types of power gun turrets, shown for the first time.

Thirty-seven and 20 mm. cannon and ammunition.

Fifty and 30 caliber machine guns.

Two types of bomb sights.

Bomb racks and racking devices.

A P-23 training plane.

A three bladed Hamilton Standard propeller, 17 feet in diameter, with a cut-away model demonstrating the manner in which the blades change pitch in flight.

A photographic laboratory and aircraft camera equipment.

Things to Interest Every One.

The show will have things of interest for every one, and everything in it will be new with the exception of the Martin B-26 bomber fuselage sections, made by the Chrysler corporation, held over from the earlier exhibit.

Spectators will learn many things. For instance:

When the army wants to lift a big airplane to get at the landing gear or wheel, and the plane is standing on sandy or boggy ground that will not support an ordinary jack, it simply stuffs a big bag under the wing and inflates the bag with air until the wheel is free of the ground.

BOMBERS OVER EUROPE.

British night bombers in so large a force it took hours to pass the coast of England struck again at German targets as Hamburg still shuddered from Monday's raid. Details on page 8.

YANKS THROW BACK NAZIS' FLANK; FRESH TROOPS ARE HURLED INTO DRIVE

Allies Willing to Be Reasonable with Italy, Says Eden.

LONDON, Aug. 3 (AP).—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the house of commons tonight that the allies would be only too ready to adopt a reasonable attitude toward Italy if the allies got what they wanted to help in fighting Germany. Eden said that with the departure of Mussolini Italy took on a different status.

"We are, as a war cabinet, anxious to see Italy accept the unconditional surrender she was offered and anxious to see facilities given to her so that we can turn the war even more vigorously on to Germany," he said.

"We are anxious to see a peace in which Italy can play her part as a respectable nation once again."

Not a Recognition.

Answering questions which indicated fears that the allies might deal with Italian Quislings, Eden said:

"If we accepted unconditional surrender from any one I would not regard myself as thereby recognizing them in the least. I would be extremely pleased to accept unconditional surrender from Hitler tomorrow."

The axis propagandists appeared to be using a strawman technique, for they at once began to raise visions of hunger and bondage which they said would be the fate of the Italian people if they accepted the so-called terms.

A Reuters dispatch from Washington, D. C., said, "According to unofficial reports, allied views on terms for Italy's surrender were conveyed to Badoglio's government thru diplomatic channels some days ago."

Germans Quote Terms.

Quoting a Geneva dispatch to the newspaper Il Popolo di Roma, a DNB broadcast said the peace terms included cessation of resistance, an end to collaboration with Germany, withdrawal of Italian troops from Greece, Albania, France, and Jugo-Slavia, surrender of war materials undamaged, establishment of "an Anglo-American-soviet military government" of occupation, arrest of war criminals, and release of all allied prisoners of war in Italy.

The following developments were seen here, however, as squashing peace hopes for the present:

1. Resumption of allied bombings and shellings of the mainland and launching of the all-out drive in Sicily.

2. The detailed attack by the official Italian radio on the so-called allied peace proposals which appeared aimed at convincing the people they would be no better off if they ceased fighting.

Peace Agitation Ends.

3. German broadcasts declaring that "the entire nation" now accepted Badoglio's position that the "war goes on."

4. Lack of substantial reports of further widespread peace agitation inside Italy.

Berlin announced that the Palazzo Viminale, the present seat of the Italian ministry of the interior, had been selected as the meeting place of the new Italian cabinet and was already Badoglio's headquarters.

Nowhere among the Italian people is there any sign of bitterness toward the allies, altho hostility toward the Nazis is reported as almost universal. An indication of this was seen in the reply of Cardinal Nasalli-Rocca, archbishop of Bologna, to a message of sympathy from the pope, on the bombing of the city.

The Vatican radio quoted the cardinal as saying: "No bitterness should be felt at the fate of the air raid victims." Bologna was raided by Flying Fortresses on July 25.

Supply Ship Reaches Sweden with Foes' O. K.

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—The American Swedish news exchange said that the Danaholm, a motorship freighter of 3,542 gross tons, had arrived today at Gothenburg, Sweden, under a safe conduct agreement among the belligerents. Aboard the vessel, owned by the Swedish Americo Mexico line, was a 5,000 ton cargo of coffee, cotton, cocoa beans and tobacco, the exchange said.

Yanks Reach Munda Field; Fight Tougher

ALLIED HDQ. IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 4 [Wednesday]—(AP).—The east end of the Japanese air base of Munda on New Georgia Island has been reached by United States troops, Gen. MacArthur announced today.

The war bulletin said:

"Our ground forces advancing along the coast have reached the eastern end of the air field. Further inland, our troops have occupied the northeastern slopes of Bibolo hill. The advance on other parts of the front continues against stiffening enemy resistance."

Bibolo hill is to the north of the air strip.

Attack Bairoko Harbor.

Twelve miles above Munda at Bairoko harbor, where another Japanese force is entrenched on New Georgia, American two and four engined bombers attacked the enemy positions on the harbor shore. Fires and explosions were noted.

The slow progress against Munda was part of a general advance, the second such reported in as many days. Yesterday's statement had told of advances of from 500 to 1,200 yards which placed the Americans in some instances within 700 yards of the air strip.

The infantrymen now are believed facing the enemy's main defense line, running north and south, extending from the village of Kekele at the waterfront inland to the foot of Bibolo hill. The main air strip runs east and west.

Gen. MacArthur's spokesman stressed the word "stiffening" in describing Japanese resistance.

Salamaua Bombed.

In New Guinea, where American and Australian fighters are within artillery shelling distance of Salamaua, that air base was bombed anew by medium and heavy air units.

Allied planes in the New Guinea-New Britain sector destroyed or damaged 29 barges, bringing to nearly 200 the number of such supply boats wrecked in the last 10 days. One bomber scored a bomb hit at night on an enemy ship, believed to have been a destroyer, in Dampier strait.

Many Carry Troops.

The barges hit were found concentrated in Borgen bay. Heavy explosions set off on some of them indicated they carried ammunition.

Borgen bay is in the Cape Gloucester area of New Britain. Twenty barges were attacked there and the other nine near Finschhafen.

The statement in announcing the 10 day toll of barges said "many were undoubtedly used as troop carriers, some being 145 feet in length. The total destroyed was estimated as capable of transporting a division of troops if used solely for that purpose.

"The enemy's losses both in personnel and material cannot fail to have been heavy."

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 3 (AP).—American and British troops have cracked the enemy's Mount Etna line at two points and tonight surged forward to draw a ring of steel around Sicily's volcanic bastion where many German troops now face entrapment.

The crushing American attack threw back the whole German northern flank. Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr.'s 7th army occupied Troina yesterday, it was disclosed, and rolled on to within 40 miles of the east coast behind Catania.

Fresh Troops Enter Fight.

By breaking thru along the Troina road on the northwest side of Mount Etna, the Americans threatened the German positions on the western slopes of the volcano, including those at Bronte.

Fresh American and British divisions were poured into the drive late tonight. One American outfit which had 23 days' hard fighting, much of it at night, was withdrawn Sunday and replaced by another group, veteran of the Tunisian campaign. The British 78th division also entered the fray.

British Rip West Defenses.

Canadians from Regalbuto and the men of the British 78th division—the heroes of Tunisia's Long Stop Hill—from Centuripe shattered the Germans' western defenses in the Catania plain in one of the best "left hook" blows of Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's career.

Severed by the Americans to the north and the 8th army to the south, a big chunk of the Nazi's Mount Etna line was left dangling.

The shortest American route to the eastern Sicilian shore runs inland thru Cesaro—virtually at the 7th army's fingertips—often bombed Randazzo, and Castiglione.

Yanks Sweep Along Coast.

The Americans also swept triumphantly onward along the steep bluffs of the north coast, and the Germans were expected to withdraw toward San Fratello.

Each side of the line wrested by the Americans cut down the Germans' chances of escaping to the narrow straits of Messina from the southern Mount Etna entrenchments where they were pinned down by the British assault.

The attacks launched by Patton and Montgomery knocked the weakest props from under the natural fortress chosen by the enemy as the site for a long siege battle, and this fortress—a triangular mountainous neck of land some 60 miles long and 50 miles wide at its widest point—appeared to be tumbling.

Troina, Capizzi, Cerami, Regalbuto, and Centuripe were captured since Saturday.

An American 7th army spearhead drove deeply into the axis right flank between Troina, a road junction 60 miles southwest of Messina, and the Messina strait.

Battle in Catania Plain.

British and Canadian troops making up the mixed left wing of the British 8th army—their foothold between Mount Etna and the gulch that is the Dittaino river firmly established—battled the new 15th Nazi armored division for further ground in the Catania plain.

All these actions were part of a general joint offensive, supported by medium bombers, fighter bombers, and fighters and warships of the British and American fleets, to speed the clearance of the last axis resistance from the Messina bridgehead.

Night flying R. A. F. Wellingtons loosed blockbusters and incendiaries upon the railway targets of Naples on Sunday night, allied headquarters announced, and another raid was made upon the port of Reggio Calabria.

Bomb Enemy Bases.

Aderno and Randazzo, enemy strong points at the base of Mount Etna, the reënforcement ports of Messina and Milazzo, and axis gun positions and supply lines were hammered hour after hour.

Fighting thru rough and often roadless country, the ground troops were officially reported to have slain many Germans, and the eastward push presented the picture of a series of sawtoothed advances.

From north to south, the reports ran:

Seventh army units assisted by Goumiers, burnoosed French Moroccan troops, captured Capizzi and Cerami on Saturday. Mountain towns both, Capizzi lies 12 miles southeast of American held San Stefano and Cerami is two miles farther along.

The Americans pushed ahead against the Germans guarding the slopes about Troina. Attack and counter-attack developed, but Troina fell. It represented another five mile advance. [The Algiers radio said "the road to Messina is now open."]

Canadians Crack Line.

Eight miles to the south, a hinge of the German defense line before volcanic Mount Etna was cracked with Canadian capture of Regalbuto.

Five miles to the southeast of Regalbuto the British 78th division captured Centuripe, which overlooks a section of the axis road rimming the base of Mount Etna.

The seizure of Regalbuto and Centuripe—which British Tommies call "Cherry Ripe"—gave Montgomery command of the crucial angle of the Mount Etna line where it guarded the plain. Centuripe is atop a 2,400 foot peak.

Thus far 10 allied divisions have been disclosed in action in Sicily—the 5th, 50th, 51st, 78th, and 1st Canadian divisions in the British 8th army, and the 1st, 3d, and 45th infantry divisions, and the 2d armored and 82d air-borne divisions with the American 7th army.

In addition to the operations over Italy and Sicily, Gen. Eisenhower's air forces ranged far across Mediterranean waters to interfere with axis sea communications.

Shoot Up Destroyer.

R. A. F. Beaufighters, which are blanketing the Tyrrhenian sea almost to the coast of France, shot up a destroyer and three motorboats off the Sardinian port of Cagliari.

The R. A. F. crewmen also reported that an explosion for which they were not responsible blew up an enemy tanker just as they were swinging to attack her.

The headquarters bulletin said that during attacks on enemy shipping off the west coast of Greece "one small vessel was left in a sinking condition and another in flames."

Tells of Fight for Hill Near Troina.

BY DON WHITEHEAD.

OUTSIDE TROINA, Sicily, Aug. 2 [Delayed]—(AP).—The bitter battle for Troina is raging thru its second day. [American forces occupied the town on Monday, allied headquarters announced yesterday.]

Dug into caves and trenches, the Germans are fighting a desperate but losing battle to stem the powerful American advance moving slowly toward Messina.

We sat in the cool shade of a little stone house on the outskirts of the village today and watched the battle across the valley. In the clear, mountain air the battleground was spread in panorama and the village of Troina was clearly visible, perched on a hilltop on the far side of the valley.

Children at Play.

On a cobbled lane behind us children played in a doorway and a man and woman in ragged clothes looked at us curiously. They had wandered back to their homes from caves in the hills.

Behind us the artillery roared without ceasing and shells burst in the German positions. Below us the valley swept across to a ridge probably a mile away. The cone-shaped front of the ridge is known as Hill 1209, and that is where the American troops were fighting yesterday when they threw back a German counter-attack.

Now the battle has moved on past Hill 1209. The advance has shoved forward some 3,000 yards, and troops are working their way over and around the ridge toward Troina.

Shells Trace Advance.

Splotches of gray smoke from enemy mortar shells burst along the crest and sides of the ridge, and you can follow the advance of the American troops by the shelling. The Germans are on the other side of the ridge and on the heights beyond, tossing mortar shells across.

Against this heavy concentration of fire the American troops moved on slowly. It is the hardest kind of fighting any troops can do because these hills give scant natural cover for attackers.

A German sergeant major who surrendered said the steady pounding of the American guns had forced him to give up because he could stand it no longer. He said 30 per cent of his battalion had been either wounded or killed by artillery fire.

Do Man Sized Job.

Yesterday the Yanks did a man sized job. The mission of a combat team last night was to capture a high ridge overlooking Troina. The team pushed up the ridge in the face of heavy artillery, mortar, and small arms fire while French Goumiers fought thru the hills at its left flank. German artillery pounded the road ahead.

Road Under Nazi Fire.

The road wound down a narrow valley and climbed thru a gap to the north of the hill, which rose cone-like with sheer sides giving little protection to the troops fighting their way up the slopes.

The six barreled mortar, which hurls its 210 millimeter shells simultaneously, was among the German weapons challenging the advance. The Americans call it "whistlin' Willie."

Back at regimental headquarters Lt. Col. Jack Toffey Jr., of Columbus, O., followed the course of the fighting closely from radio reports.

Use Transmitter on Jeep.

Toffey used a transmitter on a jeep in the shade of an olive tree to call up both infantry and artillery support for Lt. Col. Van Bond, of Cheyenne, Wyo., whose battalion was engaged by small arms and mortar fire.

"Who's going in here?" some one asked.

"We're sending in B company," Toffey said. "They are our bums, AWOL's, and bare knuckle fighters. They're just the boys we need and they're going around the left flank."

Behind us were Capizzi and Cerami which had fallen to the Yanks.

AMERICAN 2D CORPS HDQ. IN SICILY, July 31 [Delayed].—The highest honors in this campaign so far as the Yanks are concerned should go to the ordinary doughboy who has been beating his feet to a pulp over Sicily's mountains, marching and fighting day and night in this sustained pressure drive. "Dough foot," as he is affectionately known, has been magnificent.

But this campaign is again proving, as did Tunisia, that the basis of modern warfare is artillery. Around the terrifically heavy fire power of our shattering massed barrages the army's entire strategy pivots.

With the exception of the enemy's use of tanks on the plains and rolling land north of Gela in the early days, there has been no opportunity for the use of armored units by either side as tanks are designed to be used in masses.

There have been some occasions when light and medium tanks have done good work when they were brought up swiftly to fire a few rounds or when they were used as a covering force to extricate infantry from a difficult position.

Guns Drive Out Foe.

But the basic theory behind the army's advance has been the use of our better and more numerous big guns. Whenever they have been brought into play, the enemy has stood for a while and then pulled on back while the infantry worked along his flanks.

The great difficulty has been the finding of positions from which to use all the artillery available. The roads are narrow, mountainous, and few. Many times we had artillery available, but no place in which to use it.

As the last phase of the campaign opens, you can expect it to feature this artillery which is constantly being moved to the front. When the time comes for the last kickoff, the Yanks plan to have their battalions of artillery lined up to lay down fire such as the British used to crack Marshal Erwin Rommel at El Alamein.

The enemy, as in Tunisia, has been relying largely on mortars and mines, with some guns. Altho his position favored him greatly, his use of the terrain has not been brilliant. Had the positions been reversed the Yanks would still be holding these beautiful defensive mountain bastions.

Nazi Fighting Qualities Low.

Possibly their loss also may be due to the caliber of the enemy troops. They are definitely in most cases not as good as those we encountered in Tunisia and none is up to the fighting qualities of the Barenthin regiment.

The Italians, of course, still continue to surrender by companies and battalions so that it is hardly news when you see 120 Italians marching in or a company of motorcyclists wheeling along the road under a white flag.

The Germans fight hard, but not, according to our veterans, like their Tunisian compatriots. Many of the Nazi troops facing us are youngsters from replacement centers or tired veterans from Russia, who have been often wounded. None so far has had the elan of the Nazis' 10th or 15th panzer [armored] divisions, or the Barenthin regiment, or the San Marco Italian marines.

But because the Germans choose to fight and because one company with well placed machine guns and mortars can delay a regiment, progress thru the mountains has been slow. It is just a process like Tunisia of fighting for each djebel, one at a time.

60 U. S. SKY TROOPERS LAND IN PLOESTI OIL FIELD AREA, REPORT

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Aug. 3 (AP).—Enemy reports said tonight that 60 American parachute troops were landed in the Ploesti oil field area of Rumania during the American air raid Sunday and were captured. Another enemy report from Bulgaria said Bulgarian anti-aircraft fire shot down 16 American bombers as the planes flew over and back.

[The report of parachute troops was not confirmed by any allied source.]

Meanwhile, eyewitness accounts reaching Turkey said that a great fire raged in the entire petroleum area as German and Rumanian firemen sought to save some of the precious fuel. Three of the American bombers have landed in the Izmir district of the west Turkish coast. A total of seven were reported forced down in Turkey and an eighth was said to have crashed in the sea near the Turkish shore. All survivors were interned.

ITALIAN REGIME WILL SURRENDER OR FLEE: LANZA

Nazis to Hold Boot Top; May Get Fleet.

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA.

[Regular contributor to the Field Artillery Journal and recognized as an authority on military matters.]

Indications are that in one way or another Italy as a power will soon pass out of the war. Italy appears incapable of supporting a war. Its people, or the majority of them, are not of the heroic type and appear anxious to quit. Their government realizes it, and so does Germany. An arrangement is being made.

As the allies intend to disarm Italy, the Italians may turn over their arms, including their fleet, to Germany. This would be a last act of friendship. From the Italian's point of view, there would be no sense taking the time and expense to bring back from the Balkans all the equipment they have there, merely to surrender it to the allies.

Volunteer Service Possible.

The men may come back. Any who don't believe in surrendering will be given an opportunity to enlist in new volunteer Italian divisions to be organized under German supervision.

The Germans will withdraw from south and central Italy in time. They may not be able to get out of Sicily, where they have three divisions. They have suggested a mobile line of defense thru north Tuscany, covering their main line of resistance, which will be somewhere near the line of Spezia to Rimini. This final line may be along the mountain tops, or at the north or south edges of the mountains. North Italy will remain in German possession.

Whether the present Italian government will stay in Rome and surrender to the allies, or will flee to north Italy remains a question. The allies have announced their intention to proceed criminally against all Nazi leaders. As nearly all prominent Italians come within this classification, rather than take a chance, they are liable to retire within German lines before the allies arrive. Unless the royal family is assured of immunity, it may do the same.

Secret Treaty Probable.

In this case, only minor officials will be left in Rome, without authority to sign an armistice. The allies will be allowed to march in and take over. Before the main officials leave, it is probable that a secret treaty will be made with Germany, by which the return of the Italian government to Rome will be assured, should Germany win the war. If Germany succeeds in making peace with Russia, she will have a more than fair chance of recovering Italy.

The changes required in Italy to take it out of the war as a fighting power may take some time. If the allies do not invade the Italian mainland, but get stuck in Sicily, the Italians may take their time to make as advantageous a deal with Germany as possible.

Because of the Italian situation, it would be to the advantage of Germany to finish the war with Russia immediately. Since the Russians used that word—immediately—in the "Free Germany" manifesto of July 22, it is quite possible that this may occur.

Could Oust Hitler.

Germany would probably sacrifice Hitler, and at least on paper, abolish the Nazi party, if it believed it could gain thereby. Hitler might be allowed to retire, or if he declined he might disappear in an "accident." Hitler will not stand in Germany's way, when his services are no longer useful.

The liquidation of Italy gives Germany several good cards. She is in a position to offer Fiume to Hungary as a port, in return for sticking to the axis. The allies would be likely to give Fiume to Jugo-Slavia, and, in any case, Hungary can expect no favors from the Americans and British. Trieste may go to Germany, as long a part of Austria. Croatia may get some territorial compensation, or receive the opportunity to unite with Hungary. Both these countries are Catholic, were united before 1918, and got along well together. Croatians much prefer Hungary to Jugo-Slavia, whose orthodox church they hold to be rather bigoted.

Fleet of Minor Value.

The Italian fleet will be of minor value to Germany. Submarines can be used at once, and the Italian submarines are good. The same applies to destroyers and smaller vessels. The larger vessels, while excellent ships, have no chance against vastly superior naval forces of the allies in the Mediterranean, and are not likely to try to go to sea.

In the Balkans, Germany is the only protector of Rumania against Russia. If Germany can keep Russia out of Rumania, and particularly if Rumania can keep Bessarabia, Rumania probably will stcik to Germany. The same thing goes for Bulgaria. Russia has offered nothing to Bulgaria; neither have the allies. But Germany has delivered considerable desired Balkan territory to Bulgariia.

Germany is just now readjusting her defenses in view of the threatened withdrawal of Italy. She needs for the new Italian line itself a little time, but not much. Her main headache is whether she can keep the Balkans from falling off. And this depends upon whether a satisfactory arrangement can be made with Russia.

Attack on Swiss Unlikely.

Switzerland, from which much news of both Italy and Germany now comes, desires to remain neutral in the war. Should allied troops reach north Italy, present indications are that both sides may continue to respect Switzerland. Should the axis violate this neutrality, it will bring on a new enemy—small but a tough nut to crack. It will increase the axis frontier to be defended. As the axis has none too many troops, no new theater of operations will be voluntarily taken on. The principles of the allies are such that it would be highly inopportune for them to attack Switzerland. It would be more difficult to attack Switzerland from the Italian than from the German side, as the mountains rise sheer out of the Italian plain. So the allies are likely to leave Switzerland alone.

Switzerland is very useful in its diplomatic role, as affording means of communication between warring powers. This is a powerful reason for leaving Switzerland tranquil.

BATAAN GROUPS DISCUSS MERGER TO SPEED RELIEF

All organizations in the Chicago area representing families of American soldiers captured in the Philippines should combine to coöperate with the Bataan Relief organization in Albuquerque, N. M., in demanding governmental action to get relief to Americans in Japanese prison camps, 18 representatives of local Bataan organizations decided last night.

The group met at 10 North Clark street and named Mrs. Lucy Palermo, 10406 South Leavitt street, as temporary chairman. The American Bataan Clan of Maywood and mothers of men in the 200th Coast Artillery and the 31st Infantry were represented.

The Chicagoans expect Dr. V. H. Spensley of Albuquerque to stop here tomorrow on his return from Washington, where he is urging the state department to try to establish contact with American prisoners thru Russian diplomatic channels.

ADM. HOOVER TO GET NEW DUTIES; WON MARTINIQUE

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Aug. 3 (AP).—Vice Adm. John H. Hoover, United States representative in the negotiations which resulted in Adm. Georges Robert turning over his Martinique authority to the allies, is being detached from his duties as commander of the Caribbean sea frontier for a new post at sea, it was announced by 10th naval district headquarters today.

Since Hoover succeeded Vice Adm. Raymond A. Spruance here in January, 1940, the command has been enlarged vastly. Formerly comprising only Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, its jurisdiction was extended to the British West Indies with the coming of lend-lease operations.

Miami, Fla., Aug. 3 (AP).—Survivors of an American merchant vessel which was sunk by a U-boat told today of a submarine attack on a convoy on a dark night last month in the South Atlantic.

"We were hit by three torpedoes about five seconds apart," said Ben Cockrell of Long Beach, Cal., a sailor on the torpedoed ship. "We had discharged our cargo and had just about completed a six month trip around the world. We were expecting to reach home in three weeks."

Twenty-one of the 69 men aboard his ship are known to have been rescued.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3 (AP).—President Roosevelt today congratulated King Haakon VII. of Norway on his 71st birthday. The message to the king, who is in London, read:

FIGHT 25 U-BOATS BY SEA AND AIR 3 DAYS; SINK 2

LONDON, Aug. 3 (AP).—A joint admiralty-air ministry statement tonight told of a three day battle between 25 to 30 submarines and British warships and planes in the North Atlantic.

"The enemy was denied the opportunity to launch even one attack against a large and valuable eastbound convoy," said the announcement.

"Successful passage of the entire convoy was an outstanding achievement because the enemy force had been built up over a period for the purpose of launching a major attack.

"The battle opened just before dawn when in perfect weather Liberator aircraft sighted three U-boats on the surface. The aircraft concentrated their attack on one of the enemy, which is considered to have been sunk.

"The frigate Tay sighted a U-boat which she pursued and attacked, forcing the enemy to submerge in a crash dive. Shortly afterward the corvette Snowflake sighted another U-boat at periscope depth and with the Duncan carried out a series of determined and skilful attacks with depth charges. Explosions brought large quantities of oil welling from the U-boat, which may have been destroyed."

The Sennen, formerly the United States coast guard cutter, Champlain, took part in the engagement.

SLOVENES CROSS ITALIAN BORDER TO STIR REVOLT

French and Serbs Also Show Hatred.

CHIASSO, AT THE SWISS-ITALIAN FRONTIER, Aug. 3 (AP).—Time worked for German ends tonight as the Italian government continued to temporize in the face of both the allied demands for unconditional surrender and the desire of the Italian people for peace.

At the Franco-Swiss frontier there was a flare-up of the hatred which the French have nourished since June 10, 1940, when Italy entered the war against their beaten country. News was received of the first attack by French partisans on an Italian post. Two Italians were killed.

Jugo-Slavs Are Active.

There were reports, too, that the Italian crisis had inspired increased partisan activity in Jugo-Slavia, while in Hungary a Social Democratic party meeting in Budapest heard a representative declare that 21 years of fascism had "not broken the power of resistance of the Italian people."

Increased resistance was reported in Dalmatia, Slovenia and Serbia. Slovene units were said to have filtered into the Friuli district in northern Venezia, where 50,000 Slovenes reside, to organize partisan resistance.

The Gazzetta del Popolo reported that trouble flared at Novi Ligure, where many persons were arrested on charges of carrying weapons and fighting. A number of women were among those arrested.

A Rome dispatch to the Gazette de Lausanne reported that the air attack on Rome injured 14,203 persons, most of whom were hospitalized in public schools.

Reports said the military courts at Turin had begun to sentence Fascists who resisted Mussolini's fall and the dissolution of the Fascist party, those who disobeyed the curfew, and those charged with "fostering English propaganda" and organizing political parties. Hundreds of persons already have been sentenced, some to death.

The Italian press swung more emphasis on war news and on axis collaboration, and printed a picture of Marshal Erwin Rommel inspecting Nazi units in Salonika.

In an order of the day, the new minister of aviation, Gen. Renato Sandalli, asked the air force to "work in silence and with discipline."

Premier Badoglio's problem, said the Neue Zuercher Zeitung, "is to avoid a conflict with his German ally," a problem complicated by the forces released by the fall of fascism which are seething beneath the surface.

The Italian people, the Swiss newspaper said, considered the news of the government change as a sign of the end of the war. The newspaper said "the longing for peace of the Italian people is a particularly strong political driving force. In fact, the liquidation of the Fascist party is not considered complete until the war with which it was identified also is liquidated."

Acquire 4 Children by Adoption

Papers Approved

Harry Greiner, 39 years old, and his wife, Irene, 43, of rural route 2, La Grange, acquired a family of four children in County court yesterday when Judge John Bedinger of De Witt county approved final adoption papers of four brothers and sisters from the Lutheran Child Welfare association home in Addison.

The girls, Lena, 11, and Wanita, 6, have lived with the Greiners at their country home since April, 1940. The boys, William, 9, and Ernest, 8, joined them in February, 1942. "They're all sisters and brothers," said Mrs. Greiner. "We didn't want them separated."

The adoption was recommended by Mrs. Mary B. Quinn, Cook county public guardian. Greiner works for the Corn Products Refining company in Argo.

PROF. STURGES TO DIRECT U. S. RELIEF IN SICILY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3 (AP).—Prof. Wesley A. Sturges of Yale university, former board of economic warfare official, will direct American economic aid in liberated Sicily, it was learned today at the state department. His duties will be to coördinate the economic activities there of the state, treasury, war, and navy departments, and the offices of economic warfare, lend-lease administration, and foreign relief and rehabilitation offices. He is now in Algiers.

W. A. Sturges.

Several technical assistants, experts in Italian economic and financial affairs, are expected to be appointed later as Sturges' staff when he goes into Sicily at the invitation of the allied military government of occupied territory. From AMGOT, which is now distributing relief to Sicilians, Sturges is scheduled to take over such activities as relief, the production of civilian necessities, and the restoration of agriculture, housing, and transportation. Lend-lease funds will finance the program.

Sturges' activities are expected to provide a pattern for similar operations on the Italian mainland and other territories as they are freed.

COMMONS HEARS 'AMGOT' CALLED 'AN UGLY WORD'

Eisenhower a Scapegoat, Says Labor Member.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 3.—In defiance of Prime Minister Churchill and the war cabinet, Aneurin Bevan, fiery Laborite back bencher, took advantake of a technicality in parliamentary procedure this evening to force a debate in the house of commons on the political aspects of the campaign against Italy. Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden had rejected a demand for such a debate last week on the grounds it would be prejudicial to the allied cause.

Bevan began with the claim that at least a third of the members wanted the debate and warned that it would be a bad thing if "the voice of the critic were entirely silenced in commons."

He protested against establishment of AMGOT [allied military government of occupied territories] in Sicily under Gen. Eisenhower who, he suggested, was being made the scapegoat.

"AMGOT is an ugly word to cover an ugly thing," he said. "It's a cowardly thing for the government to shelter behind the general who has no public responsibility at all."

"Political Illiteracy."

Bevan described Eisenhower's recent sympathetic utterances to the Italian people and the house of Savoy, which had just rid themselves of Mussolini, as "political illiteracy of the worst kind."

He also criticized Prime Minister Churchill.

"The prime minister has many virtues, but political insight and sagacity have never been among them," Bevan added.

Bevan quoted from a speech made by Churchill on a visit to Italy in 1927 in which he praised Mussolini. How, the Laborite added, could the house take a vacation and "leave the political architecture to a man like that?"

Greenwood Joins In.

Arthur Greenwood, Labor party spokesman, confessed that he too was troubled by the names of the persons exercising civil authority in Sicily. He urged there must be no departure from the Churchill-Roosevelt declaration demanding unconditional surrender.

In reply, Foreign Secretary Eden said he had nothing to add to the statement made by the prime minister last week and added that the war cabinet still considered a discussion could serve no useful purpose.

Bevan's criticisms of the government are becoming weaker and weaker, Eden scoffed, adding that the Laborite was confused over the situation in North Africa. He rebuked Bevan for "diving back into the past."

The foreign secretary denied a charge by Ivor Thomas, a Laborite, that he bore a petty spite against Italy as a result of frequent rows with Mussolini.

"I never had a row with Mussolini at all," said Eden, altho conceding there were "certain differences" between himself and the duce.

UNITY PLEDGED IN DE GAULLE, GIRAUD LETTERS

Vow French Liberty; Laud Each Other.

ALGIERS, Algeria, Aug. 3 (AP).—Gen. Charles de Gaulle and Gen. Henri Giraud paid high tribute to each other and pledged themselves to work for the liberation of France, it is revealed in an exchange of letters made public tonight.

Their letters, which followed the agreement unifying the military services of France, were accompanied by an order issued by De Gaulle calling upon the Fighting French to accept Giraud as their new military commander in chief.

With this public demonstration of unity by the two French leaders there was a growing French impatience at the delay of the United States in recognizing the French provisional government.

U. S. Stand Criticized.

An editorial in Derniere Nouvelles of Algiers, French North Africa's leading afternoon newspaper, said that the British favored French recognition, "realizing the unfortunate consequences of the present [American] attitude."

Declaring that President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull were "risking committing a political and psychological error," the editorial said their silence in the face of the unification of French military power has "given additional arguments to any propaganda and the collaborationist radio draws strange conclusions from this equivocal position."

Under the new unifying agreement, Giraud becomes generalissimo over all the military services of the French empire and De Gaulle heads the committee of national defense.

Puts Liberation First.

Giraud wrote De Gaulle thanking the Fighting French leader for recognizing him as the military commander and declaring that he had asked the members of France's fighting forces "to retain their admiration and affection for you, but to accord me the devotion and confidence which have been shown me by the magnificent army of Africa in the sublime task which claims us all—the liberation of France."

In his reply De Gaulle said that "they [Fighting French] will follow you, I am sure, with all the confidence and devotion merited by the great soldier and leader which you are."

Giraud's letter was dated July 31, the day the French committee of national liberation agreed upon military unification. De Gaulle's answer came yesterday.

WATCHES CLASH OF ALLIES AND JAPS IN GUINEA

Chicagoan Shows Self a Hero Under Fire.

[In dispatches to The Tribune printed Monday and yesterday, Mr. Cromie told of some of the difficulties a correspondent meets on the jungle clad front of Gen. MacArthur's troops in New Guinea. In the following dispatch, received last night, Mr. Cromie tells of the completion of the trip, marked by a clash between Jap and allied troops in the mountains near Salamaua.]

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN NEW GUINEA, July 29 [Delayed]. —Our infantry unit led by Lt. Joseph Viney, 28 years old, of Freeport, Ill., finally discovered the ridge which would take us toward Japanese positions in these New Guinea mountains near Salamaua.

So under Viney, a former law student at the University of Wisconsin, we struck out shortly after dawn yesterday. I accompanied an advance group perhaps 100 yards behind the spearhead column which was led by natives familiar with the area. We rested a few times to permit wiremen and others carrying heavy loads to keep up and passed our messages from one man to the other till they reached the entire column.

Hit an Ambush.

On one such stop there was a sudden burst of firing from machine guns, Garands and Brownings. Every one took cover with weapons ready and word came back that the advance men had hit an ambush where the trail dipped into a draw 100 yards ahead. Additional men were sent up to reconnoiter.

Some one told me there was another unit nearby, so I took the opportunity to pick up a few names of midwesterners I knew were in the outfit. They included Sgt. Eugene Sullivan, 29 years old, of 7434 Eberhart avenue, Chicago, a patrolman from the Wabash avenue station; Pvt. Frank C. Szozepanski, 30 years old, of 2246 Armitage avenue, Chicago, a former machinist; Pvt. 1st Class William Meyer, 24 years old, a tool and die worker, of 1917 Larchmont street, Chicago, and Pvt. 1st Class Milan Peel, 25 years old, of Kokomo, Ind., a bartender.

Other Chicagoans in Unit.

Sullivan said others in the rear included Sgt. Victor Svagdis of 6100 Kimbark avenue, Chicago; Pvt. John Justin Smith, formerly of the Chicago Daily News, and Pvt. Thomas Theodoropoulos of Washtenaw avenue, Chicago. Sullivan admitted he was guessing the spelling of the last name.

The unit in question had been in the jungle for 24 of the last 26 days and helped guide the original American landing at Nassau bay.

An Australian captain, clad in shorts and the inevitable slouch hat, who had gone to investigate the firing, returned to report that two infantry boys had seen five Japanese. The enemy had opened fire, which was returned by the Americans. The captain explained the situation over a phone and added:

"Only five bloody Japs. I think we should push ahead. Tho it is possible there may be more in a hillock position ahead of us."

Lands Among Ants.

An infantryman returned and said one native was shot. He pointed to his stomach and some one asked, "He died?" The soldier answered unemotionally, "Pretty soon." Then there was a sharp outburst of firing, seemingly very near. I dived for cover with every one else, landing in the middle of a bunch of red ants near a tree trunk.

A lieutenant came from somewhere and said bitterly, "One of my men got it right thru the heart. They have the ridge commanded." Then he reached for the telephone to relay the information, saying:

"We pinned them down. I have one dead at the bottom of the hill. A native was killed too. There are only a few blankety Japs, but we can only advance single file. I've got a couple of outfits trying to get in there but this fighting uphill is hell when you can't see. Two of my units are pinned down and can't come, and a third is going up to try to relieve them."

Heard But Unseen.

Some one came down the trail and told the lieutenant the Japanese were occupying a hill, to reach which we must descend into a draw and then climb straight up. He added angrily, "I can hear the little unprintables working up there, but I can't see them."

Our advanced elements now were safely withdrawn from their dangerous position. Then four men passed slowly, carrying the limp form of a comrade, a jacket over his face and blood oozing from his back.

Meanwhile, artillery fire was being aimed at the ambush point. Our mortars were also trying to drop missiles on the same place. A couple of Japanese mortar shells landed near our mortars but did no damage.

Hails Chicagoan's Heroism.

Lt. Viney told me of three men who had exposed themselves to enemy fire to recover the body of a comrade. One of them was Pvt. Erik Hedberg, 27 years old, of 1551 Dearborn parkway, Chicago, a former estimator for a glass concern in Evanston, now a medical aid man.

A Browning automatic began firing not far ahead. Viney cursed and said it was probably a weapon which had been carried by one of the dead men. Viney added, "He's just wasted 10 rounds. Go to it, you little unprintable."

It was getting late in the afternoon and we had been held up four hours. The men were ordered to dig in and hold where they were during the night, but then they decided to fall back to a more favorable position.

Returns to Rear Alone.

I had been gone three days without a chance to write a story. I decided to return to the rear to get a few stories to send off to Chicago.

Reports today indicated the situation with the outfit I was with was satisfactory, while another American outfit, elsewhere in this area, this morning ambushed and wiped out 30 Japanese retreating under Australian pressure. As I write the sound of our artillery is almost continuous. I can see shells bursting on the island where it is thought there may be enemy installations.

BURGLARS STEAL SHOES.

Burglars Monday night robbed a shoe store at 6136 South Halsted street of $8 and shoes valued at $100, John C. Dubin, manager, reported to police yesterday.

PHONES RING IN FOX HOLE; TELL HOW FIGHT GOES

How a Command Post in Jungle Operates.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. ARMY ATTACKING MUNDA AIR FIELD, July 26 [Delayed].—I spent this morning at a forward command post of an infantry unit. Enemy mortar shells screamed overhead, machine guns chattered, rifle fire punctuated the racket. Yet the command post functioned smoothly as a business office.

It certainly did not look business office-like. Commanding officers sat up or sprawled in muddy fox holes. Knee deep mud was everywhere.

Capt. Edgar Jaynes, 26 years old, of Fairmont, W. Va., was in command. He is attached to a unit making a concentrated attack against a Japanese strong point of mortars and machine guns which had held up our advance for five days.

Jaynes, former mathematics teacher, tired from many days of cold food and little sleep, sat before a battery of field telephones in a fox hole. Each phone was connected with units of his organization making the attack.

Gets Phone Messages.

It was the job of this post to integrate all information received from the front line a few hundred yards away and relay it to the unit commander. Jaynes munched a field biscuit as he listened to an excited voice on the phone and painstakingly copied messages. I read them over his shoulder.

"Blake [Marine Lt. Robert W. Blake of Canton, O.] reports tanks advancing rapidly but encountering heavy fire from pillboxes. Infantry is close behind."

Then another bulletin:

"Carrigan [Maj. James Carrigan of Bennington, Vt.] reports his men have taken a native village on Ilangana Point, killing 30 Japs there, and have advanced 200 yards past a village. Digging in until Devine's outfit [Maj. James W. Devine of Portland, Me.] moves up to join the right flank."

Runner Carries Message.

Finishing copying, Jaynes shouted, "Runner," above the din of battle. A worn, dirty private wormed up to the lip of the hole, took the message silently and set off, crouching, crawling and running to the commander's fox hole, a number of yards to the rear.

We could smell the acrid sharpness of high explosives mingled with the odor of Japanese dead a few yards away, as we lay in the hole talking into each other's ear between messages.

The phone rang. It was a report from Maj. William H. Naylor of Hartford, Conn., leader of a unit on a flank of the 400 yard front.

"I've moved up 400 yards. Under fire from one of their guns. Think I've located it. Direct artillery to fire 1,100 yards ahead of your command post, bearing 750 degrees, and hope for the best."

Then Carrigan came in again over the phone. He was impatient because Devine's unit had not joined him yet. "Shall I bed down for the night here or go ahead and capture Munda air field myself? Tell those guys to get the lead out of their pants."

Far behind came the roar of the artillery Naylor had called for. Shells whirred overhead, drowning out the whine of Japanese mortar shells. The shells exploded somewhere ahead of us.

Within a few seconds the enemy began hurling shells toward us. We flattened into the mud as one hit 100 feet away, then another and another. Shrapnel screamed over us.

When the Japanese fire suddenly ceased, Jaynes exhibited the professor in him. Rising from the hole and looking toward the craters, shells had gouged in the mud, he adjusted his spectacles and remarked in a totally disinterested voice, "My, that's peculiar. I wouldn't have believed that gun could be depressed enough to register upon us. We'll have to look into that."

REVEALS DEAL FOR BRITAIN TO RUN U. S. SHIPS

Churchill Reads F. D. R. Letter in Commons.

LONDON, Aug. 3 (AP). — Prime Minister Churchill told the house of commons today that the United States was transferring merchant ships built in American yards to the British merchant marine at the rate of from 15 to 20 a month.

Over a period of 10 months, from 150 to 200 would be transferred, Churchill said, in explaining that America had surplus ships but was short of crews, while Britain had plenty of trained sailors.

Raises Warship Issue.

A letter from President Roosevelt, which Churchill read to commons, disclosed that early in the war it was decided that the United States "be the predominant cargo ship-building area for us both, while your country was to devote its facilities and resources principally to the construction of combat vessels."

[While this seemed to open a question as to whether Britain was building warships for the United States, officials in Washington said the release of American merchant ships to Britain involves no agreement on the part of the British to turn over combat vessels. Any question of compensating the United States, authorities indicated, will be lumped with other lend-lease affairs marked for post-war settlement.]

Text of the letter from Roosevelt to Churchill follows:

"When you were with us during the latter part of December, 1941, and the first few days of 1942, after we had become active participants in the war, plans for a division of responsibility between your country and mine became generally fixed in certain understandings.

U. S. Methods Improved.

"In matters of production, as well as in other matters, we agreed that mutual advantages were to be gained by concentrating, in so far as it was practical, our energies is doing those things which each of us was best qualified to do.

"Here in this country in abundance were the natural resources of critical materials.

"Here there had been developed a welding technique which enables us to construct standard merchant ships with a speed unequaled in the history of merchant shipping.

"Here and there we had waiting cargoes to be moved in ships to your island and to other theaters. If your country was to have carried out its contemplated ship construction program it would have been necessary to move large tonnages of raw materials that we have here across the Atlantic to your mills and yards, and then, in form of finished ships, to send them back to our ports for the cargo that was waiting to be carried.

"Obviously, this would have entailed a waste of materials and time.

"It is only natural for us then to decide that this country was to be the predominant cargo ship building area for us both, while your country was to devote its facilities and resources principally to the construction of combat vessels.

"You in your country reduced your merchant shipping program and directed your resources more particularly to other fields in which you were more favorably situated, while we became the merchant ship-builder for the two of us, and we have built and are continuing to build a vast tonnage of cargo vessels.

"Our merchant fleet has become larger and will continue to grow at a rapid rate. To man its ever increasing number of vessels we foresee present difficulties of no mean proportions. On your side the British merchant fleet has been diminished and you have in your pool as a consequence trained seamen and licensed personnel.

Man Power Saving Seen.

"Clearly it would be extravagant were this body of experienced men of the sea not to be used as promptly as possible. To fail to use them would result in a wastage of man power on your side, and, what is of equal importance, a wastage of shipping facilities. We cannot afford this.

"In order that the general understanding we reached, during the early days of our engagement together in this war, may be more perfectly carried out, and in order as a practical matter to avoid the prodigal use of man power and shipping that would result from pursuing any other course, I am directing the war shipping administration, under appropriate arrangements, to number to your flag for temporary war time duty during each of the suggested next 10 months a minimum of 15 ships.

"I have furthermore suggested to them that this be increased to 20.

"We have been allocating to British services on a voyage-to-voyage basis large numbers of American controled ships. What I am now suggesting to you, and what I am directing the war shipping administration to carry out, will be in the nature of a substitution to the extent of tonnage transferred for the American tonnage that has usually been employed in your war program.

"Details of the arrangements we can properly leave to national shipping authorities for settlement thru the combined shipping adjustment board, whose function it is to concert employment of all merchant vessels, and will, in accordance with its usual practice, do so in connection with these particular ships."

GUNNER REVEALS HOW CIO SEAMAN RAN DOWN NAVY

Objected to Teaching of Navigation.

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 3 [Special].—James Orville Couchois, on trial in federal court here on charges of violating the war time sedition act while a deck delegate for the CIO National Maritime union aboard the freighter West Nohno, was accused in testimony today of objecting to members of the vessel's navy gun crew receiving instruction in navigation.

This new twist to the case was given by Robert Lee Hudson, 19 years old, a gunner aboard the West Nohno, who testified Couchois told him several times during a nine month cruise thru dangerous waters that members of a gun crew had no business to be taught navigation as this was in the province of the merchant marine.

Called Seamen's Prerogative.

Hudson said Couchois contended the navy men were encroaching on prerogatives of merchant seamen in studying navigation even tho in the event of disaster to the ship such knowledge might be the means of enabling them to save their lives. Hudson said the voyage of the West Nohno was a "hot" one from the standpoint of submarines and that there were several alerts.

Confirming testimony given yesterday by other members of the gun crew, Hudson said Couchois ridiculed the navy men for enlisting when they could make more money as merchant seamen and told them he could live as well under a Hitler government as under any other kind of regime.

Hudson, who enlisted in the navy at 17, said the remarks of Couchois "made him mad," but did not affect his loyalty to the United States. He said Couchois stood a watch on a portion of the ship where he was in contact with the gun crew almost constantly.

Judge Appoints Attorney.

Couchois is being defended by Sam W. Pipes, a local attorney, appointed by Judge John McDuffie when the defendant appeared without counsel. Prior to his trial, Couchois had said he expected the NMU to supply counsel for his defense and when the trial opened yesterday told the court he still expected counsel would be supplied from a source he did not specify.

Before entering the merchant marine, Couchois served four years in the navy, receiving a dishonorable discharge. He was born in Detroit and attended school there and in Berkley, Mich.

THE QUESTION.

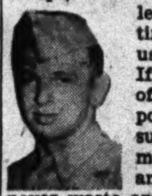
What new habit, practiced in military life, will you continue in civilian life?

WHERE ASKED.

Service men's center, 176 West Washington street.

THE ANSWERS.

Leo Mintz, private first class, mountain infantry, Long Island, N. Y.—It's been a combination of habits that have kept me as fit as a fiddle. They've involved some mighty strenuous exercises, but I didn't plan to build myself up only to be lazy at home. My routine will include plenty of outdoor hikes.



Alvin P. Dobsevage, sergeant, ski troops, New York City — We've learned the value of time and how to make use of every minute. If I can transfer a few of those lessons to my post-war living 'I'm sure I'll be a better man. I'll be prompt and systematic and never waste another minute.

Dale M. Wunderson, torpedo man third class, Aberdeen, Wash.—Before I entered the service I didn't write many letters. Now I've met new friends all over the country and enjoy the heavy correspondence I carry on with them. I'm going to keep up the habit and also take on a bigger share of the family correspondence.

Harry W. Beggs, seaman second class, Downer's Grove—It never bothered me before if my clothes weren't hung up or if things weren't put away in their proper places. Now I have a real system. And from now on a neat personal appearance is going to be a habit with me.

William T. Pullen, seaman second class, Downers Grove—It's going to take a bit of will power, I know, but I seriously intend to keep up the "early to bed and early to rise" habit. I've learned that I've been missing the best part of the day and don't intend to do it any more. This 10 day leave is going to be a vacation from such habits, tho.

Ray H. Sutton, sergeant, air corps, Warfield, W. Va.—My civilian life was rather inactive, but it's never going to be that way again. I've become interested in fencing and tennis and other active sports and intend to make physical exercise a habit, now that I realize what an important change it makes.

NAZIS SEIZE 3 SHIPLOADS OF ITALIAN TROOPS

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Aug. 2 [Delayed]—(AP).—The Germans have seized three Italian ships loaded with Italian troops en route to Italy when they stopped in Suda bay in Crete to refuel. The Italians portested, but the Germans ordered the ships interned pending further developments in Italy.

MAY BE FROM GREECE.

There were no details on where the ships came from but there have been reports that the Italians were hastily calling back their armies from the Balkans and Russia. If the ships stopped at Crete, they may have embarked from the Greek mainland or the Dodecanese Islands.

REDS DRIVE INTO SUBURBS 5 MILES FROM OREL BASE

Report Nazis Cease 5 Day Donetz Offensive.

LONDON, Aug. 3 (AP).—Smashing into the suburban villages of cracking Orel, German bastion in central Russia, soviet forces drove tonight to within five miles of the besieged city, capturing Stish and Pilatovka in the south, then occupying the railway station of Domnino, seven miles to the east.

Soviet encirclement of Orel seemed nearer with these gains and with accompanying cutting of motor highways.

At the same time the Russians gained a notable success to the south where the desperate German offensive in the Donetz basin ceased completely without gains on the fifth day. It was the second German summer offensive to break against soviet defenses, the first petering out at Orel last month.

Capture 50 Towns.

A special Moscow announcement, recorded by the soviet monitor, said the soviet troops, in the 23d day of their Orel push, captured over 50 populated places in a general advance of four to six miles.

The Germans appeared to be withdrawing from Orel along the still open highway toward Bryansk in the west. The soviet army newspaper Red Star quoted in Moscow dispatches said the Russians at Orel had captured two important highways leading from Bolkhov south to Orel and southwest to Karachev. The Russians were reported only a few miles from Karachev, which is 27 miles from Bryansk, a German stronghold as important as Orel.

Twenty-one German tanks were destroyed in the battles on all fronts yesterday, the soviet bulletin said, and 180 German planes were brought down.

German broadcasts, recorded by the Associated Press, said that the unseasonable rains which turned the ripening grain fields around Orel into quagmires had ceased and that the Russians were attacking again "with large masses of infantry, tanks and planes."

"Our heroically fighting troops warded off all enemy attacks and, supported by the German air force, regained in a counter-attack terrain which had been lost temporarily," the German command said. It placed the most serious fighting southwest of Orel.

Claim Reds Repulsed.

The German announcement said Nazi attack in the Donetz basin north of Kuibyshevo "was successfully continued." Russian attacks in the Donetz collapsed, Berlin asserted. One broadcast said the Germans had ironed out "a considerable gain made by the soviets earlier."

Fresh Russian drives near Leningrad were reported and Russian stabs in the Kuban bridgehead around Novorossisk were said to have been repulsed. In all, 227 Russian planes were declared destroyed on Monday.

Rule U. S. Courts Can Try U. S. Troops in Canada

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 3 (AP).—The Supreme court of Canada ruled today that the federal government had power to legislate so as to grant exemption from criminal proceedings in Canadian courts to members of the United States forces in Canada. The question was referred to the Supreme court by an order-in-council last April. Exemption from Canadian law would place accused persons under American legal jurisdiction.

RECALL OEW DANCE EXPONENT'S BOUNCE INTO CHICAGO NEWS

Chicago and Lake Forest society folk were resurrecting yesterday their memories of John Bovingdon, the esthetic dancer who is on the pay roll of the office of economic warfare as a principal "economic analyst" and according to his own statement "chief of the man power unit of the Asiatic division."

Bovingdon has a record in the society columns of the Chicago newspapers; it was begun before his marriage to Miss Louise Thorne, granddaughter of one of the co-founders of Montgomery Ward & Co., in 1924. He was described in one paper as "a professional dancer, tall, slender, blond and with a charming English manner."

Later he went to Russia. After his return from this expedition he appeared again in Chicago, in 1935, lecturing on "The Esthetic Side of Communism." This was after he had been divorced by the former Miss Thorne and before their remarriage. They were later divorced again and Mrs. Bovingdon was married in 1942 to Alexander B. Trowbridge Jr.

Some of the recollections were of Bovingdon's eccentricities, such as his oriental costumes and his bounding from economic questions to esthetic terpsichore.

DOUBTS MOTHER HELPS IN AIRING JAP PROPAGANDA

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3 (AP).—The office of war information said today that propaganda broadcasts have been coming from Japan under the name of Mrs. Henry Topping, 80 year old American former missionary, but Mrs. Topping's son declared that the person making the broadcasts is not his mother.

The son, the Rev. Willard Topping of Boulder, Colo., said he had heard broadcasts purportedly made by his mother and the voice was not hers.

The OWI said the English language broadcasts, called "the women's hour," had been coming from Japan for several weeks in Mrs. Toppings' name.

The Toppings, OWI said, retired from missionary work in Japan about 10 years ago. The husband died last August at the age of 86. The Rev. Willard Topping said the reason his parents declined to leave Japan, when offered an opportunity to do so, was illness.

RUINED HAMBURG POUNDED AGAIN; SAY 200,000 DIE

32 R. A. F. Planes Lost in Ninth Big Raid.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Aug. 4 (Wednesday)—(AP).—A force of British bombers so great it took hours to pass the coast flew toward the continent last night apparently in the direction of northwest Germany, where Hamburg still shuddered from a new attack Monday.

LONDON, Aug. 3 (AP).—British bombers "in great strength" rekindled fires last night in flaming and desolate Hamburg.

It was the ninth allied raid in 10 days, and the air ministry said a great weight of high explosives and incendiary bombs were dropped thru smoke laden clouds which partly obscured the fresh destruction. Thirty bombers and two fighters were lost.

A correspondent of Aftonbladet of Stockholm quoted a Danish consular official as estimating that 200,000 were killed in Hamburg before last night in the most concentrated air raids in history, frankly aimed at blotting Europe's greatest port off the map. The estimate was regarded with skepticism in London, altho every part of Hamburg's 50 square miles has been pocked with ruins.

Damage Unparalleled.

The air ministry said that before the latest crushing assault, seven square miles of the city were devastated. Much of the city's area is water.

The ministry said the battle of Hamburg was of greater intensity than the battle of the Ruhr ever was, and that the damage in the port was "unparalleled in the history of air war." Reconnaissance photographs made Sunday were under study. Many important factories had been damaged.

Fires set 60 hours earlier still were blazing when British and Canadian airmen released their new cargoes of bombs last night. From July 24 until last night, more than 8,000 tons had been cast on the city of 1,600,000, converting it into a heap of rubble. Stockholm reports said the Nazis had ordered surviving Germans to evacuate Hamburg.

All Work Suspended.

Stockholm dispatches from Copenhagen quoted the Danish consul secretary just arrived from Hamburg as saying: "All obligations to work are suspended." This indicated that major war production, including a third of Germany's submarine output, had ceased.

The Svenska Dagbladet of Stockholm quoted a Danish worker from Hamburg as saying:

"The city was burning everywhere—even the streets. Many persons were as good as naked. Bodies were lying everywhere. They died from air pressure of giant bombs and their clothes were torn from their bodies."

The German government acknowledged civilian casualties and "considerable destruction."

Consternation in Berlin.

Aftonbladet said the Hamburg raids had caused more consternation in Berlin than any other events in the war and had precipitated an evacuation of Berlin. Nights now are lengthening 30 minutes a week, thus widening the range for new obliteration raids. Hamburg lies but 150 miles northwest of Berlin.

A DNB broadcast said Hitler conferred the knights cross of the iron cross on Maj. Gen. Wahle, town commander of Hamburg, "in acknowledgment of his activity and personal sacrifice in the rescue and help for heavily bombed Hamburg and its residents."

Beaufighters and wooden Mosquito bombers flew far into Holland bombing German airfields. Australian bombers torpedoed an enemy supply ship off Norway laden with munitions.

The loss of 30 bombers was the heaviest in the current series of raids on Hamburg. Twenty-eight were missing Thursday, 18 last Tuesday, and 12 on July 24.

JAPS PUSH EASY IF PUSHED, SAYS CHICAGO MARINE

GUADALCANAL, Aug. 1 [Delayed]—(AP).—A marine corporal wounded in the fighting that drove the Japanese out of Enogai inlet on New Georgia Island, said today that "once you get a chance to push the Japs, they push easy."

The marine, Corp. Jack Dufford, 23, of 2137 Dayton street, Chicago, was returned for treatment of a hip wound. Dufford said the Japanese were entrenched on Bairoko harbor, where the air force now is bombing them out of their coral foxholes.

"The Japs almost fooled us once when we were advancing, as we didn't spot a single Jap casualty," said Dufford. "Later we found they had taken back with them their wounded and dead. Huge piles of dead Japs were found and there were some indications that they had killed wounded men they couldn't carry so they would not fall into our hands."

ASSAIL PEERAGE IN DEBATE OVER WOMEN'S RIGHTS

Even Nancy Astor Rips Aristocracy.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 3.—A protest against hereditary peerages and the exclusive right of men to sit in the house of lords was voiced in the house of commons today during a debate of women's part in the war.

One critic of hereditary aristocracy was Virginia born Nancy Astor, Conservative member for Plymouth, whose husband inherited a title. She said she believed there was no more basis for sex war than there was for class war. If snobbishness were confined to one class, she insisted, it could be eradicated.

Snobbishness Attacked.

"I've some suggestions about that but they'll be unpopular," she continued. "I'd do away with hereditary peerages if I wanted to get rid of snobbishness. Women in their own right cannot sit in the house of lords, but any old mumbo-jumbo can sit there."

The discussion, in which women took a leading role, revealed considerable opposition from speakers of all parties against Labor Minister Ernest Bevin's proposal to register women from 47 to 50 years of age for national service this fall. Urgent demands also were made that women be given a greater part in post-war planning. Immediate adoption of the principle of equal pay for men and women doing the same jobs also was demanded.

Compares U. S. Pay.

Dr. Edith Hummerskill, Laborite, in opening the debate, said American women were paid the same rates as men. "It must be difficult for them to understand haw we can support the Atlantic charter and pay women in services at a cheap rate," she asserted.

Several speakers warned Bevin that he was making "a great mistake" in registering elderly women for war work.

That the government was not moved by these appeals was indicated when Malcolm S. McCorquodale, parliamentary secretary for the ministry of labor, intervened in the debate to announce the registration of older women would take place in September and October. He promised unnecessary hardships would be avoided where possible.

Staff Sgt. Peter Paul Catozza, 616 East 71st street, an air force gunner last assigned to duty in England, has been killed in the European theater of operations, relatives were informed by the war department. A graduate of Glenwood School of Manual Training, Catozza is survived by his widow, Rose, 10234 Hoxie avenue, his mother, Mrs. Mary Graziano; his father, Dominic Catozza; two sisters, and a brother.

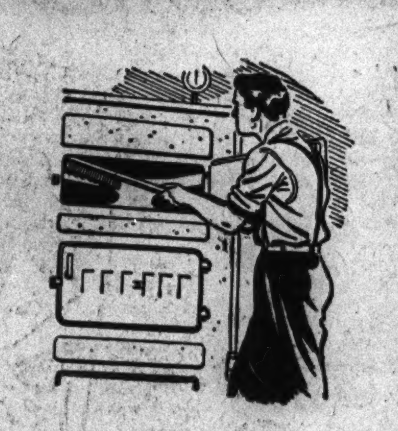
To Save Coal Next Winter
CLEAN·REPAIR INSULATE!
CONSERVE YOUR HEATING PLANT

Coal is a fighting fuel, a vital war material that home-owners should save! To do this, conserve your heating plant . . . put it in proper operating condition to produce the most heat from less coal. You'll help your country. You'll help your family by assuring healthful, adequate heat. And you'll save money.

The following conservation steps should be taken now. Other suggestions, on repairing and insulating, will be published in the near future. If you have any questions, 'phone a member of the Chicago Coal Merchants Association.



CLEAN HEATING PLANT THOROUGHLY
Remove all ashes from fire-pot and grates : : : check condition to determine whether repairs are necessary. Clean thoroughly with a brush or scraper, for a deposit of soot just 3/16 of an inch thick cuts the efficiency of your heating plant nearly 70%.

TWO WAYS TO PREVENT RUSTING
After cleaning, some engineers advise spraying the inner surface of the furnace or boiler with oil. Crankcase drainings in an insect spray gun will do. Or place 1 pound of lime in an open can inside the furnace or boiler to absorb moisture. Leave doors open.

HAVE CHIMNEY CLEANED AND TUCK-POINTED
Obstructions or air leaks in chimney waste coal and greatly impair the efficiency of your heating plant. So clean it out thoroughly and examine for masonry defects which are often "heat leaks" and fire hazards. Make needed repairs promptly

HAVE REPAIRS MADE PROMPTLY
Grates and shaker mechanism should be in good shape. A cracked fire-pot should be replaced. See that doors close tightly. Cracks or openings around doors or between sections of furnace or boiler should be caulked with asbestos cement. Leave doors open all summer.

DO NOT DRAIN YOUR BOILER
The "stale" water in your boiler that has been used is free of air and prevents rusting. Add water in a steam boiler until full. Keep pipes and radiators of hot water systems filled to the top. At start of heating season, drain only sufficient water to remove rust and sediment, and fill.

CLEAN AND PAINT THE FURNACE PIPE
It deteriorates if soot is left in it, making replacement necessary. Clean thoroughly and replace, making sure it doesn't protrude into chimney. Paint with metallic or heat-resisting paint. Use boiler cement to fill cracks and holes around entrance to chimney.

Protect Your Investment, Protect Your Family's Health and Comfort, By Conserving Your Heating Plant! . . . AND BUY MORE WAR BONDS

REPORTER SEES HOW YANKS SAIL FOR WAR FRONT

Gives Word Picture of Embarkation Port.

BY ROY GIBBONS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York Port of Embarkation, Aug. 3.—From this jumping off place for the battlefronts of the war, I heard music in the night as bright faced boys from Illinois and other states marched into waiting troop transports under cover of darkness.

I saw acres of tanks, trucks, prime movers, jeeps and the other material of war, much of which might have come from Chicagoland's own war factories, being readied for loading into the capacious holds of waiting Liberty ships.

The fact that the story of this great embarkation center may be told is due to the safe arrival overseas of the troop carrier whose loading climaxed a day of inspection of the port by newspapermen under auspices of war department officials who came here to conduct the tour.

Port Also Receiving Center.

The port itself is much more than a waterfront area. It also embraces inland receiving camps known as "staging centers" whose location may not be revealed.

We began our tour early in the day at one of the latter posts to which troops are ordered by requisition under authority of the army's new transportation corps, which celebrated its first anniversary July 31.

Here each soldier is given a final physical examination. His arms and equipment likewise are thoroly scrutinized and defective equipment replaced.

Troops Handled Rapidly.

Incoming soldiers are kept only for a limited time at the staging centers. Facilities for caring for their emergency needs while waiting there for transports have been developed to a high degree. As an example an entire set of false teeth can be made to fit within 24 hours.

At the staging center the soldiers are given free legal advice by the judge advocate general's department in the matter of making out wills, arranging insurance, settling claims, etc.

Here they also make out their "safe arrival" cards which are sent to relatives upon receipt of coded information that their transport has safely reached the port of destination.

Pile Aboard Train.

A seemingly endless troop train waited for a contingent of troops the day we visited this one of many staging centers of the port.

A band struck up a march. Down the road came the troops. There wasn't a glum or unhappy face in the lot. Each man knew the car he was to board and the seat he was to occupy. A band to send them off is relatively an innovation, a colonel who accompanied us explained.

"But it has done wonders for morale," he said, "even tho at first there was some objection to having a band at hand when the troops shoved off."

From the staging center those of us who comprised the newspaper party were piled into buses for a trip to the receiving depot. When we reached it we saw mountains of orderly assembled equipment. Guns, vehicles, and food were stacked in some instances as far as the eye could reach.

Against the background rested the waiting ships which were to carry all of this away to the fighting fronts.

Prepared for Trip.

From the receiving depot we boarded an army inspection boat to reach one of the port's processing depots. Here all military equipment such as trucks, guns, tanks and other wheeled equipment is prepared for the long sea journey ahead.

Our tour ended late that night at an unnamed pier where we saw troops from the staging area come aboard from their ferry in the inky blackness.

"Watch their faces! Watch their faces!" exclaimed Maj. Gen. Homer M. Groninger, the officer in command of the port. "These men are all set to kill Germans. They make our little troubles here seem insignificant."

The troops marched down the line, rifle, gas mask and other accoutrements slung over their shoulders. They also carried army "A" bags.

Each man filed into the ship in passenger list order. When his name was called he answered by giving his first name and middle initial and received a card establishing his quarters aboard the vessel.

When we went aboard we found soldiers fast asleep, stretched out all over the ship. We also found quite an aggregation reading the mess card time tables. Said one shock-headed youth who revealed himself from Kansas: "I'm memorizing the meal times because eating is the one thing I am fondest of."

LT. PETER KRUG.

Location of the two prison camps from which Lt. Krug escaped.

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 3 (AP).—The possibility that Lt. Peter Krug, German airman whose previous escape from a Canadian prison camp led to the conviction for treason of Max Stephan, Detroit, Mich., restarateur, has crossed the Detroit river to the United States is being investigated by police on both sides of the border today.

Krug escaped yesterday from an officers' prison camp at Gravenhurst, Ont.

Authorities here said that once Krug made his way from Gravenhurst to Toronto he would have little difficulty finding fast transportation to this border city and that he knows the Windsor district well.

Krug was taken to Detroit to testify against Stephan during the latter's trial.

JAIL WOMAN WHO LEFT TWO SONS IN COURTHOUSE

Mrs. Lila Sarmont, 27 years old, was arrested in her home at Winthrop Harbor yesterday and held in Lake county jail after she had abandoned her two sons, Richard Jr., 5, and Walter, 2, in the Lake county courthouse at Waukegan.

She had left her husband's $20 check for the boys' support in the office of County Clerk Jay B. Morse. "You can have this check and the boys, too," she said. "They're on the fourth floor. Anybody can have them."

The Sarmonts separated early in July. Sarmont, now living at 828 Windsor avenue, Chicago, was ordered by County Judge Perry L. Persons last Saturday to pay $20 weekly support for the children, and the first check was mailed to his wife. Mrs. Sarmont yesterday appealed to Assistant State's Atty. George W. Field for more money.

The children were placed in the Lake county detention home in temporary custody of Mrs. Mary Funk, probation officer. Their father was ordered to appear in court Saturday. Mrs. Sarmout will appear before Judge Persons today.

[ADVERTISMENT]

SLAVE TO PURGATIVES FINDS FREEDOM!

Feels 20 Years Younger, He Says!

Everyone who has despaired of ever finding normal regularity should read this unsolicited letter:

"Six years ago, I was quite constipated. I'd taken many so-called 'cures', but it was the same old story. It seemed that each dose had to be stronger than the last. Then, I tried KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. Soon I was 'regular' again, with none of the old griping pain. I'm 50, but feel younger than 20 years ago when I was a victim of common constipation." Mr. A. Bousfield, 426 S. Villa Avenue, Villa Park, Ill.

What's the secret of such reports of ALL-BRAN's wonderful results? It's simply this: Lack of certain cellulosic elements in the diet is a common cause of constipation. Scientists say KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is a rich, natural source of these elements—which help the colonic flora do their job—lightening and fluffing the accumulated waste for easy, natural evacuation. ALL-BRAN is not a purgative! Not roughage that acts by "sweeping you out"! It's a gentle-acting, "regulating" food!

Eat ALL-BRAN regularly. Drink plenty of water. See if you, too, don't find the relief you've dreamed of! Insist on the genuine ALL-BRAN! It is made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

OAKES SLAYING CLEWS TOLD AT COURT HEARING

Son-in-Law's Prints Found, Says Sleuth.

NASSAU, Bahamas, Aug. 3 (AP).—With testimony about a fingerprint, burned hairs, and a missing shirt, the king's prosecutor attempted today to prove that it was tall, bearded Alfred de Marigny who clubbed Harry Oakes, an American who became a British baronet, to death last month and left his body aflame.

An American detective, Capt. James O. Barker of the Miami police, declared that the 35 year old De Marigny offered three different explanations for the "considerable hair burns" Barker said were found on the ex-count's hands and arms.

Speaking slowly, while Magistrate F. E. Field wrote down every word in longhand, Barker presented for the first time the evidence which caused De Marigny to be arrested and charged with murder.

Defense Must Wait.

If Field finds the charge justified on the basis of testimony at the preliminary hearing, de Marigny will be bound over for jury trial in the October Supreme court. Not until then does the defense have its inning.

De Marigny's pretty 19 year old wife, Nancy, Oakes' eldest daughter, heard part of Barker's recital before leaving the crowded courtroom to fly to Miami, where she said she had business in connection with her husband's defense.

Barker told how he and Capt. E. W. Melchen of the Miami police were summoned to Nassau by plane by Gov. Edward Windsor an hour after Oakes' body was found early July 8 by Harold G. Christie, a business associate and house guest at the Oakes estate.

Tells of Fire in Room.

"There had been considerable fire in the room," Barker said. "Sir Harry's body lay, in a semi-contracted position, on a twin bed. It was badly burned, especially on the left side, and on the legs and face. Some of the burns were there before Sir Harry died.

"Anyone in that room at the time of the fire would have suffered burned hairs. We first examined Mr. Christie. He had no burned hairs or tissues. Then Mr. De Marigny volunteered to undergo a microscopic examination, and removed his shirt.

"We examined thru the microscope the back of his fingers, his hands and forearms, and found on both hands and both arms a considerable quantity of hair burns. The hairs were curled, and some had been destroyed by the heat. The examination also disclosed burned hairs in his mustache, his beard, his eyebrows and his head, altho to a lesser degree than on his arms."

Traces Fingerprints.

Barker exhibited a screen which was near Oakes' bed during the attack.

"We located many prints on the screen, most of them illegible," the detective continued. "One proved to be conclusively an impression of the right little finger of Alfred de Marigny."

Barker said De Marigny told of wearing a tan shirt and trousers and sports shoes the night of the slaying.

"We failed to locate any material or instrument helpful to the case except the clothing he reported he wore the night of July 7," Barker said. "The shirt was missing."

FIND BODY BESIDE TRACKS.

The body of James F. O'Brien, 64 years old, was found beside the Milwaukee railroad tracks near Wadsworth in Lake county yesterday. O'Brien was employed by the road as a section worker and apparently had been struck by a train. His home was in Wadsworth.

FINED ON CONDUCT CHARGE.

Harry Hicks, 32 years old, 6235 University avenue, was fined $100 and costs for disorderly conduct yesterday by Judge Cecil Smith in Women's court after Margaret Sawyer, 24, of 6417 Kenwood avenue, a dice girl, accused him of attacking her on the beach at 77th street last week. A similar charge against her was dismissed.

LETTER TO ARMY OFFICER FROM HEIRESS BARED

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—Authorities today had in their possession a six page letter purportedly written to an army lieutenant by oil heiress Janet Snowden Gill, 29 years old, a short time before she plunged 12 stories to her death from a hotel suite June 1.

Assistant District Atty. Jacob Grumet disclosed having the letter yesterday. He said it was written and mailed by Mrs. Gill somewhere in Minnesota while she was en route from her Santa Barbara, Cal., home to meet her husband, Capt. William Sherman Gill of army intelligence. Grumet did not reveal the lieutenant's name. He said Mrs. Gill's family gave him the letter when it was returned unclaimed. The letter ended, Grumet said, with the inscription, "All my love forever and ever" and was signed, "Jan."

Grumet also stated that on the night of Mrs. Gill's death she met her husband in the hotel suite to discuss divorce plans.

CITY WATER TAX RECEIPTS SHOW GAIN OF $220,835

The city has collected a total of $8,865,682 in water taxes for the seven month period ending July 31, J. J. Elliott, city assistant superintendent of water, reported yesterday. This represents an increase of $220,835 over the same period in 1942 and is due, in part, to the large amount of water used by war plants such as the Buick aviation engine plant in Melrose Park, the Dodge Chicago plant on the south side, and the Douglas aircraft plant.

CONGRESS FIGHT INDICATED OVER DRAFT OF DADS

Disregard for Number of Dependents Criticized.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3 (AP).—Congressional comment today indicated that legislators may take issue with the decision of Paul V. McNutt, war man power commissioner, that when fathers are drafted beginning Oct. 1 no consideration shall be given to whether they have one, two, three, or more children.

Too few members were in the capital to permit an over-all sounding of congressional sentiment, but among those here there was general criticism of McNutt's instructions to draft boards to induct fathers without distinction regarding the number or ages of their children.

Rep. Adolph J. Sabath [D., Ill.], an administration supporter, said he opposed drafting "fathers of two or more children," and Rep. Ed Gossett [D., Tex.] issued a statement saying "the vast majority of the people" disagreed with McNutt's position in regard to children and dependency.

Kilday Bill Cited.

Gossett said the order was contrary "to the will of congress as expressed in the Kilday bill."

This measure, by Rep. Paul J. Kilday [D., Tex.], was approved by the house April 12 but the senate has not acted on it. It directed that no fathers be drafted until the supply of single men in a state had been exhausted, and that fathers of one child should be taken before fathers of two, fathers of two before fathers of three, and so forth.

Sen. Chan Gurney [R., S. D.] said he hoped "local boards will take first those fathers whose families are least dependent upon them financially."

Pending in congress is a measure which would increase allowances to dependents of fathers. This would keep the basic allowance to a wife at $50 a month, but would increase the payment for the first dependent child from $12 to $18 a month and for each additional child from $10 to $11.

Congress Has 16 Days to Act.

Congress, returning from its recess Sept. 14, would have 16 days in which to take any action modifying McNutt's order, or to act on the dependency bill, before the drafting of fathers.

An Associated Press survey indicated many draft boards would begin inducting fathers immediately after Oct. 1. Five boards in Pittsburgh, Pa., said they had exhausted their reservoirs of single men and childless husbands.

Brig. Gen. M. R. McLean, Kansas draft head, said many Kansas counties had reached the point where they could not call any men without taking married ones with dependents.

In general, the survey indicated there were few states which would not have to draw heavily on married men with dependents in order to meet October quotas.

Indiana Delay Possible.

Indiana officials said they might not draft any before Nov. 1. Kentucky, Rhode Island, Maine, and New Hampshire looked for only a few in October.

Draft directors of Colorado, Wyoming, and Montana said the September call would clear their files of virtually all registrants except pre-Pearl Harbor fathers. Arizona said 50 per cent of its October quota would have to be fathers. Arkansas officials said all local boards would have to call fathers in October.

AWAIT OFFICIAL ORDER TO DRAFT FATHERS OCT. 1

Paul G. Armstrong, state selective service director, yesterday awaited an official order authorizing local boards to draft fathers starting Oct. 1. The order was announced in Washington Monday by Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the war man power commission.

Whether drafting of fathers will begin promptly on Oct. 1 will depend largely on the size of each draft board's pool of single men and childless married men, it was said. Many Chicago draft boards have virtually no single men left. Others have none and are taking childless married men. Still others have a pool of single men and childless married men and will not begin drafting fathers until late October or November.

In Springfield yesterday two boards said they would start calling fathers in October and the third indicated that fathers would not be taken until late October or November.

CONDEMN F. D. R. PLAN FOR PAY TO RETURNED YANKS

Veterans' Leaders Term Proposal Inadequate.

American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars spokesmen yesterday condemned President Roosevelt's plan to give war veterans mustering out pay at the end of the war. Under the proposal, the amount would not exceed $300 plus family allowances.

Frances E. Phelan, commander of the American Legion, department of Illinois, said the plan was unsatisfactory and unfair. Henry L. Warner, commander of the Cook county council, Veterans of Foreign Wars, said the President's plan was a move to soften up the veterans for the fourth term.

Makes Counter-proposal.

Phelan said that instead of a base allowance for three months, as suggested by the President, he believed that a set amount of approximately $300 should be given as a clothing allowance, based on financial need, which would give men the privilege of accepting or declining. He also urged that those discharged because of disability should participate in the allowance if they need it.

Warner said that the big problem was rehabilitation. Some of the men in service are making more money today than they ever saw before, he said, and their return to civilian life and lower pay will create hardships.

"The President's $300 is merely temporary financing," Warner continued. "It looks as if he's trying to soften up service men for the fourth term or make it possible for some other New Dealer to be elected. He says the program will give service men full pay not to exceed three months. In other words, the buck private will get $150. That's a drop in the bucket. After World War I. veterans sold apples at street corners, but it won't happen again. The VFW will continue to support a program to take care of the returned veteran long enough to get him back into industry and make him self-supporting and not afraid of the future."

Opposed to Dole.

Warner said the VFW "won't stand for a dole or anything like the WPA." Honorable and constructive work must be planned, he said. When the VFW national encampment is held at New York, Sept. 28 to 30, veterans will have plenty to say about the President's proposal, he predicted.

"We don't advocate payment of a bonus in a lump sum," he added, "for we have found that many veterans spend their money immediately. We want an allotment over a period of time until the veteran is on his own and set for the life to follow."

Phelan said that so far as payments to returning soldiers are concerned, we should await victory and then let the men who fought and won have a voice in such legislation. Of greater importance to men now serving is assurance that jobs will be available when they return, he said.

How to Speed Payroll Accounting

—to offset the manpower shortage

Management knows that time is, today, the most critical of all war materials. Only through better use of time can management make up for the shortage of workers.

That's why Shaw-Walker's new developments in faster-functioning office systems are so important today. For example, the Shaw-Walker Payroll System saves time in the increasingly complex work of payroll handling, especially since the new withholding tax has gone into effect.

▲ THIS NEW PLAN effects a tremendous saving of man-hours that war demands have made so precious.

As you write one payroll record, all figures are automatically transferred to the two or more other essential records that you now write in separate operations.

After each individual payroll entry, every record you need is complete, correct and up-to-date—ready for quarterly reports and government inspection. Rewriting of figures is entirely eliminated.

Entirely eliminated, too, are separate records for War Bonds, Social Security, Withholding Tax, employee insurance, employee hospitalization, union dues and all other ledger records of a similar nature.

Every pay day the statement you give to each employee includes:

(1) A complete record of earnings.

(2) A detailed list of deductions.

(3) A notice telling the worker the exact amount he has on deposit with you toward his next War Bond.

▲ SO SIMPLE is the "KOPI-SPOT" payroll system that any clerk can handle it. It can be adapted to any type of payroll whether you pay by check or in cash—whether you make your entries by typewriter or by hand.

▲ A COMPLETE FOLDER has been prepared, illustrating the "KOPI-SPOT" and explaining its application to various payroll methods. May we send you a copy of it?

ALL MADE AT ONE WRITING: pay checks, employee pay statement, social security and withholding tax record, War Bond Record, ledger record of other deductions, check register and payroll summary.

FOR THE DURATION any old file will do—it's the system itself that counts!

AFTER THE WAR transfer the system intact to any of the following:

A SHAW-WALKER FILING CABINET—the file that's "Built Like a Skyscraper." Result of 40 years of Shaw-Walker experience.

A SHAW-WALKER FIRE FILE—the steel file with built-in fire protection. It gives safe-like security, even in severe fires.

OR THE DRAWERS of the Shaw-Walker steel desk. This is the famous new low desk for comfort and hard work.

I'm working harder and saving harder than I ever did in my life. I'm buying a homesite and I'm putting money into War Bonds to pay for the house we'll build after the war.

Most men yearn for a home of their own—for the security it gives them, for the comfort it gives their families. The land you buy today is your first step toward that goal . . . toward the home-of-your-dreams that your War Bonds will build when the war is over.

ICKES DICTATES RULES ON RETURN OF SEIZED MINES

Invites Ideas on Time for Restoration.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3 (AP).—Interior Secretary Harold Ickes today invited the manager of each coal mine taken over by the government to suggest when the property should be restored to private control, but did not commit himself to comply with the suggestions.

The invitation was held out as the government's mine boss set forth the conditions which he would require for restoration of the pits—if and when he decides the time has come to restore them.

The conditions were drawn to protect the government against claims for damages which may result from its seizure and operation of the properties. The mines were taken over May 1 at the outbreak of the first of three strikes by John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers.

Won't Assume Deficits.

Ickes, simultaneously, advised the managers that "the government has no intention of underwriting financial deficits of any mining operation. The coal mines' administration is not going to play Santa Claus to the mining industry."

The managers, all former private operators now serving as government agents, were told to advise Ickes when, in their opinion, "the requirements" of the Smith-Connally anti-strike act "for termination of government possession and control of the mines have been fulfilled."

Each manager was ordered to "specify the date of asserted restoration of productive efficiency of his mine and furnish the administrator the factual evidence supporting his opinion."

Conditions Listed.

"Thus," Ickes said, "the operating managers themselves become one of the sources of factual information to aid the administrator in making his determinations when the policy is established as to when and how the mines will be turned back in conformity with the Smith-Connally act."

The act orders restoration within 60 days after "the restoration of the productive efficiency" that prevailed before seizure of the property.

The conditions governing return of the mines included provisions that:

1. The property will be restored without government demand for an accounting if the owning concern waives all claims against the government and its officials.

Must Specify Damages.

2. An accounting also will be waived if the owner, without surrendering his claim, specifies the amount and nature of the damage he contends he suffered as a result of government operation of his property and furnishes the particulars on which he bases the claim.

3. Otherwise, the government will continue as custodian of the mine until it has completed an accounting covering all transactions during the period of its control.

Ickes, who has already voiced opinion that government operation was beneficial to the owners because it kept their properties going instead of being shut down by strikes, significantly served notice that in all claim cases, the government would set off against the alleged damages the "benefits resulting to the mining company from government possession and control."

5¾ INCH RAIN FLOODS HOMES IN BLOOMINGTON

Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 3 (AP).—A rainstorm that dumped 5¾ inches of water on this community within less than six hours today flooded hundreds of basements, put 10 per cent of the telephones out of order, and stalled bus traffic. Several homes were flooded and boats from the city park were used to rescue some dwellers. Dozens of automobiles were stranded. Air raid wardens were called to sandbag the Bloomington-Normal sanitary district plant to prevent flooding.

DON'T GIVE OUT DRIVERS' NAMES, OPA AIDS TOLD

McKeough Muzzles Gas War 'Snoopers.'

Just 24 hours after he had appeared before the Illinois legislative commission investigating the necessity of the plan to reduce gasoline rations in the midwest, Raymond B. McKeough, regional administrator of the office of price administration, yesterday announced a ban on the publication of the names of motorists reported "out of bounds."

Release of the names of 417 accused Chicago motorists on July 21 was "an unfortunate incident," McKeough admitted.

On the witness stand Monday under legislative subpena McKeough had been questioned on the release of the names by State Sen. Walker Butler [R.], Chicago lawyer, member of the commission.

Offers No Apology.

"We don't apologize for that," McKeough said. "It is regrettable that the names of some drivers were wrongfully published."

But yesterday McKeough announced he had instructed OPA directors in 18 districts under his seven state jurisdiction to refrain in future from announcing the names and license numbers of autoists reported "out of bounds."

"We never intended to give out the names and license numbers of persons reported driving their automobiles in areas remote from their homes," McKeough said. "Publication of the names was embarrassing to the persons involved and was unfortunate.

"The fact that a motorist was reported seen in a far off place is not prima facie evidence of a gasoline rationing violation. However, the presence of a motorist in a remote area is proper ground for questioning him about the propriety of the trip."

Michael F. Mulcahy, Chicago metropolitan area OPA director, also announced that he no longer would release the names of motorists suspected of violating gasoline rationing regulations. He said the motorists will be reported to their local rationing boards.

Mulcahy said that of 1,600 Chicago motorists reported "out of bounds" on the July 4 week-end approximately 800 license numbers have been received by his office from the OPA regional headquarters. About 500 of these cases have been referred to local rationing boards for hearings, Mulcahy added, and 300 license numbers are being checked against automobile registrations with the secretary of state.

The next move in the fight against Petroleum Administrator Harold L. Ickes' threat to slash gasoline rations in the midwest and southwest to "equalize suffering" with the stringently rationed east will come tomorrow when Ickes arrives in Chicago for a report to midwestern congressmen on the outlook.

It was understood last night, however, that Ickes' report may have definite limitations so far as the giving out of information is concerned.

Little Information Expected.

Informed persons in Washington said the petroleum administrator for war will answer questions and make statements but that the full story of the plan to provide more gasoline for the east at the expense of the midwest and southwest is not expected to come out until after the issuance of a special report now being prepared by the office of war mobilization director, James F. Byrnes.

OPA, which will handle the new rationing program, admitted that its plans will have to wait until the Byrnes report is made.

"The Byrnes announcement will come first," an OPA official said. "Then OPA will make its announcement. My hunch is that PAW [petroleum administration for war] will follow the same course."

Ickes will be accompanied to Chicago by a group of his experts, among them Ralph K. Davies, deputy administrator, J. R. Parten, director of transportation for PAW, and William R. Boyd Jr. of the American Petroleum institute.

SENATORS SEEK F. D. R. HELP ON POST-WAR PLAN

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3 (AP).—Expecting a senate battle over post-war policies, a group of senators disclosed today they would attempt to enlist President Roosevelt's direct support for a resolution pledging American participation in an international military force to halt future aggression.

Sen. Carl Hatch [D., N. M.], a member of the group, said he was attempting to arrange conferences soon with the President and with Secretary of State Cordell Hull. Hatch is one of the sponsors of the resolution, the others being senators Lister Hill [D., Ala], Harold Burton [R., O.], and Joseph H. Ball [R., Minn.].

"We hope that when the question comes before the senate our resolution will have the support of the President and the state department," Hatch told an interviewer.

The Ball-Burton-Hill-Hatch resolution calls for this country to take the lead in organizing the allied nations for immediate and post-war collaboration on international problems.

If Aurora Weeds Are Cut, Citizens Must Cut Them

Recently the city government of Aurora announced that as a measure to relieve hay fever, city employes would cut weeds at the request of property owners. The property owners were to be billed for the costs. Yesterday there was a new announcement. The city is so lacking in man power that it has no men to cut the weeds.

RAPIST PLEADS GUILTY; GETS LIFE SENTENCE

Mount Vernon, Ill., Aug. 3 (AP).—Half an hour after a special grand jury had indicted him on charges of rape and assault, Louis Newcomb, 30 years old, a Mount Vernon Negro, today pleaded guilty before Circuit Judge W. Joe Hill and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Authorities, who had refused to disclose the jail in which Newcomb was being held, ordered his immediate removal to the southern Illinois penitentiary.

Newcomb confessed he had beaten Laverne Wilkerson, 19, and raped Wilkerson's companion here July 25.

WHAT SAVED BRITAIN in the blitz of 1940? Some authorities say that the defeat of the Luftwaffe can be credited chiefly to a difference of only 13 points in octane number!

While the Germans had only 87 octane aviation gasoline, the good planes and gallant pilots of the R.A.F. had 100 octane. This gave the Royal Air Force reduced fuel consumption, and greater horsepower for faster climbing . . . greater altitude . . . extra maneuverability.

Phillips and the American petroleum industry are today supplying great quantities of 100-plus octane gasoline. This super-fuel increases enormously the fighting effectiveness of U.S. and all United Nations war planes.

No wonder the British Pfime Minister is never more confident than when predicting great air offensives to devastate Germany and Italy, to lay "the cities and other munitions centers of Japan in ashes."

Thanks to its long-range program of peacetime research, Phillips Petroleum Company was one of the first to take 100 octane aviation gasoline out of the laboratory and into mass production. The making of these American super-fuels is not merely a refining process; it is actually the synthetic production of chemicals!

That is why we say: Every time you see the Phillips 66 Shield, let it remind you that Phillips refineries, in addition to producing gasolines, lubricants, and fuel oils, are also gigantic chemical plants pouring out weapons for victory.

7 STATES VOICE OPPOSITION TO GAS RATION CUT

Protest Meeting Held in Kansas City.

Kansas City, Aug. 3 (AP).—Officials representing seven midwest states bristled today over a proposal to shear gasoline rations in their states if its only purpose, they said, is to bring back pleasure riding to the east.

Before a special senate committee one of them demanded "more basic gasoline instead of less," and none was willing to reduce the coupon values unless it would benefit the army and navy.

Gov. Andrew Schoeppel of Kansas, also chairman of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission, insisted that if "equality in sacrifice" was to be adopted as a principle it should be extended to other things, freight rates for instance.

Asks Equal Opportunities.

For years, he said, the midwest's industrial opportunities have been stifled by abnormally high freight rates, adding that the area is "entitled to equality of opportunity."

John A. Ainley, representing Gov. Dwight Griswold of Nebraska, unfolded a map before the committee, headed by Sen. Bennett C. Clark of Missouri, to show that the midwest had seven times as much area as the North Atlantic region with approximately the same number of people.

He argued that reduced rations in the midwest would provide it only 24 gallons per square mile per week of basic gasoline as against 142 gallons for the east.

"I suggest they double or treble our rations," he said, "because some of our farmers live 35 or 40 miles from the nearest church, high school or shopping centers."

Suggests Organizing Committee.

Sen. Clyde M. Reed [R., Kas.], who with Clark and Sen. Kenneth Wherry [R., Neb.] formed the senatorial committee, suggested the midwestern governors organize a committee to resist unnecessary curtailment.

One reason listed by Reed for the eastern shortage was offered in a private report to the petroleum administrator for war. It read: "Consumption [of gasoline] is running higher than forecast. This is brought about by the existence of coupons in the hands of the public far beyond existing demands."

Blames Low Crude Price.

Gov. Homer Adkins of Arkansas, objecting to the proposed reduction, contended the trouble was that the price of crude oil was too low to encourage exploration of new fields.

W. J. Holloway, representing Gov. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, agreed Washington's view of the question of supply and reserves was nearsighted. He expressed belief a crucial shortage was approaching unless a reasonable crude oil price increase is forthcoming.

Adkins insisted that the proposal to cut gasoline rations in the midwest makes "about as much sense as Gov. Thomas Dewey's proposal that we sell all our pigs and ship the corn up there."

And said E. B. Haeke, representing the governor of Minnesota:

"We feel that if the production of sweet potatoes in New Jersey can't be transported to Minnesota we won't ask the people of New Jersey to curtail their consumption of potatoes."

Kyle B. Williams represented Gov. Forrest Donnell of Missouri and R. V. Rodman represented Gov. John C. Vivian of Colorado at the hearing.

WOULD PROTECT FIXED INCOMES FROM HIGH TAX

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3 (AP).—Chairman Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.] of the house ways and means committee asserted today, after a conference with Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr., that persons with fixed incomes should be protected against undue burdens when congress writes a higher tax bill next fall.

Doughton said the revenue obtained thru any new taxes would be "within the limitations of taxpayers to pay." The fixed income group he wants protected is composed largely of "white-collar" workers, such as teachers and office employes, whose earnings have experienced little or no increase during the war time economic boom.

Doughton said: "the new revenue bill should be a program to do two things: to raise revenue and to combat inflation.

"The burden of any tax or anti-inflation proposal should be as equitably distributed as possible by recognizing that, in any income group, there may be people who need to be protected against the full impact of tax increases."

TOUHY WINS BAN ON FILM OF HIS CRIME CAREER

A temporary order restraining the Twentieth-Century Fox Film corporation, Bryan Foy, director, and Joseph E. Ragen, warden of Stateville prison, from exhibiting or advertising the motion picture, "Roger Touhy—Gangster," was signed yesterday by Federal Judge William E. Holly.

The order was issued on petition of Roger Touhy, a Stateville convict, who is serving a 99 year sentence for the kidnaping of John [Jake the Barber] Factor. He charged the defendants with conspiracy to portray him "as a vicious law violator and gangster."

Judge Holly said the order will remain in force until Friday, when he will issue a temporary injunction unless the defendants or counsel appear to contest Touhy's petition, filed on his behalf by Atty. Irving S. Roth.

Episodes in the film include Touhy's kidnaping of a character named Joe Sutton [representing Factor] and Touhy's escape from prison last fall.

SCHOOL INMATE GETS 2-4 YEARS IN ATTACK ON 2

Cecil McAfee, 19 years old, of Pearl, was sentenced to serve two to four years in prison by Circuit Judge Charles A. O'Connor in Geneva yesterday after he pleaded guilty of a charge to assault with intent to murder. He attacked William Saxe, 63, of Albion, and Mrs. Donald McNair, 30, of St. Charles, house father and nurse in the Illinois State Training School for Boys near St. Charles, in an unsuccessful escape attempt June 24.

Trial of Louis Reed, 16, Lawrence Jacobson, 15, and Clarence Leonard, state school inmates who fled July 13, was set for Aug. 16 after they pleaded not guilty to an automobile theft indictment.

Leah Jane Jones, 17, who gave her address as 106 North Clark street, Chicago, when she was arrested by Aurora police July 30, was indicted by the Kane county grand jury in Geneva on a charge of automobile theft. Paul Crandall, 17, and Eugene Hankes, 28, of Aurora, who were arrested with her, were held for trial on the same charge.

Stolen Car Hits Pole; Injured Boy, 15, Seized

Adelberg Gabouer, 15 years old, 6548 Perry avenue, was held in the Juvenile home last night after he had driven a car stolen from Benny Moritz, route 1, Benton Harbor, Mich., into a light pole at 87th street and Dorchester avenue yesterday. Gabouer suffered face cuts and William Hill, 15, of 6613 Ellis avenue, who was riding with him, suffered scalp lacerations. Gabouer worked as a fruit picker near Benton Harbor recently, Policeman Leo Luner and Fred Halbauer said.

Sailor Flees When Navy Tries to Learn His Past

The navy asked north shore and Chicago police last night to search for Reynold Jacobs Montgomery, 24 years old, an apprentice seaman who broke away from an unarmed guard and fled from the naval training station at Great Lakes. At the time he was being taken before a discipline officer for questioning about a reputed police record previous to his induction last June 26. Montgomery is said to use the alias of Franklin D. Foster.

NEW YORKER VISIONS OIL COMPANY 'PLOT' TO BAR GAS TO EAST

New York, Aug. 3 [Special].—William J. Gottlieb, president of the Automobile club of New York, today charged that oil companies in the middle west are draining vast surplus stocks of gasoline from that area to create a "synthetic shortage" and thus "sabotage" the proposed plan to ease the shortage in the east. He urged that the surplus stocks be frozen.

Gottlieb voiced the accusation in a telegram to Rep. Fred A. Hartley Jr. [R., N. J.], chairman of the joint committee of eastern congressional representatives who has been leading the fight on the pleasure driving ban along the Atlantic coast.

Earlier in the day Rep. Hartley had issued a statement at his Kearny, N. J., office declaring that if "equalization of gasoline rationing does not take place" he would call together all eastern congressmen within a week and "all hell will break loose."

Both Rep. Hartley and Mr. Gottlieb directed their broadsides at Harold L. Ickes, fuel coördinator.

LYNN HIGHLEY WILLING TO PAY FOR HIS HONESTY

Policemen at the detective bureau were trying unsuccessfully yesterday to remember how long it had been since they met a person as determined to be honest as Lynn Highley, 36 years old, who came to Chicago four months ago from Stockton, Kas., and found a job in the postoffice.

Lynn Highley.

Highley rented a room in a hotel at 406 South State street. In a bathroom there, on July 15, he found $447, all rolled up in a tight wad. Shortly afterward he put a notice in the "lost and found" column of THE TRIBUNE, asking that the owner identify his money and take it back. There was no answer.

Highley then rented a safe deposit box in a loop bank, paying the $6 rent charge out of his personal funds and keeping the $447 intact. Yesterday he requested the police to help him find the owner. He was asked if he would request the owner, if found, to repay the costs he had incurred.

"Well, if he wants to pay me for that, it's all right; if he doesn't he won't have to; I have 160 acres in Kansas and I can stand it," he replied.

MAJOR AND WIFE IN AX ASSAULT ARE RECOVERING

Maj. Anthony J. Nell, 52 years old, army officer who struck his wife, Mrs. Naomi Nell, with an ax and then cut his own throat in their home at 5227 Lakewood avenue on June 24, was reported recovering yesterday in the Soldiers' hospital in Downey, near Great Lakes.

Mrs. Nell has been released from the Edgewater hospital and is at the home of her father, Judge Kickham Scanlan, in the Edgewater Beach apartments. The judge said she had almost recovered.

Maj. Nell's outbreak occurred while he was suffering from a breakdown attributed to overwork.

FATHERS IN THE DRAFT.

Upon orders from Washington, fathers are to be taken in the draft, beginning Oct. 1. Local draft boards have been instructed to send fathers into the army and navy at that time if the quotas cannot be filled with single men and married men without children.

Congress reassembles in Washington on Sept. 14. Before the summer adjournment the military affairs committee of the senate had approved a measure postponing the drafting of fathers until Jan. 1. Sen. Wheeler, who introduced the bill, is confident that it will be enacted by both houses before Mr. McNutt's latest order takes effect.

Certainly congress should countermand Mr. McNutt's order. On July 1 there were more than 9 million men and women in uniform and if only unmarried men are taken as they reach military age, the total will soon approach 10 million. Nobody seriously supposes that we can send all of these men or anything like all of them to the fighting fronts for many months or years to come. We haven't the ships to carry and supply them overseas and millions of men already in the service are still in the early stages of their training.

Nevertheless our government is preparing to draft family men even tho the British commonwealths, whose people we are defending, have still to conscript single men of military age for unlimited service. The Canadian overseas army is composed of volunteers. Australia says her drafted sons may be sent to fight only in areas from which Australia is directly menaced by the Japanese. South Africa forbids the sending of her sons outside the African continent. Accordingly, for all practical purposes, the South African divisions are now out of the war.

Australia is safe from conquest by the Japanese and South Africa is secure from Nazi aggression and in a position to pick up a few of Mussolini's colonies, only because America threw her resources without stint into the fight. It is monstrously unjust to conscript American family men as long as those nations which have both more to lose and more to gain from the war are doing much less to win it.

The plan for an American army of 10 million men was devised at a time when it was feared that all our allies would collapse. Nothing remotely resembling that has happened or is likely to happen. Today Russia is on the offensive and Italy is on the ropes. We do not have to build an army so big that single handed it can defeat all our enemies. To attempt to enlist so large a force can only mean that we shall do less than we otherwise might to supply ourselves and our allies with the munitions, the food, the ships, and the other supplies that are needed far more than our men. Our allies have plenty of trained soldiers who are nearer the battle fronts by thousands of miles.

It is difficult to escape the conclusion that Mr. McNutt's order was politically inspired. The New Deal is looking ahead to the election next year. Men who are taken by the army will have difficulty in casting their votes. The New Deal is particularly concerned to prevent voters with some experience in the world from having a voice in the election. The drafting of fathers will serve that end.

TROUBLE IN HARLEM.

Mayor La Guardia of New York rightly emphasizes the fact that the disturbances in Harlem, which resulted in the looting of some stores and the loss of several Negro lives, were not a race conflict. The Negro population includes a minor proportion of hoodlums and criminals just as the white population does, and, quite obviously, the decent members of neither race consider that they are subjected to discrimination because authorities deal as they should with such law breakers.

The most encouraging feature of the New York disorders was, in fact, the self-restraint of both the Negro and white population in refusing to allow those disorders to become an incitement to race conflict.

The affair produced a regrettable statement from Walter White, the spokesman for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, when he ascribed the disorders to Negro resentment over Jim Crowing Negro soldiers, and bad living conditions in Harlem. The injustice with which Negro soldiers have been treated in some parts of the country is disgraceful, and housing conditions in many Negro districts are deplorable, but to use that as palliation for outright criminality shows a want for responsibility, to say the least. The fact that Negroes are usually the worst sufferers in race disturbances and that in many such instances they are the victims and not the aggressors, does not relieve the Negro community of its share of the responsibility of doing everything to avoid racial clashes. Mr. White did his race a disservice.

Mob theft and open looting are, we may be thankful, not a common occurrence. That they should occur in the city which maintains the largest municipal police force in the nation requires some explanation. That explanation can be found in the policies of Mayor La Guardia.

One of his devices for winning the Negro vote in New York has been to hamstring the New York police department in its ordinary law enforcement activities in the Negro sections. This has been going on for a number of years. Obviously, it was a disservice to the decent Negroes of New York just as it was to the other decent people of that city. His policies have come home to roost. Any time that hoodlums are given the impression that their depredations will go unpunished they will get out of hand. No question of race is involved here, naturally. What is involved is the erratic little mayor's political interference with law enforcement.

IMPRISONED WITHOUT TRIAL.

Members of parliament are reported renewing their agitation for modification of Britain's regulation 18-B under which men are arrested at the pleasure of the home secretary and held in prison indefinitely without trial. The regulation violates what Americans had always assumed were the sacred rights of Englishmen. The fact that the courts have been unable to protect British subjects from this tyranny is another reminder to Americans of the value of a written constitution, applicable at all times, and setting forth the rights of citizens in clear terms.

When Britain was in grave danger of invasion and there was fear that fifth columnists might aid the enemy, there may have been some excuse for resorting to 18-B. Our Constitution permits the suspension of the privilege of habeas corpus in the presence of invasion and we can hardly criticize the British for going just a short step farther. If the Germans had not actually put foot on English soil, they were only 20 miles away and their bombers were overhead.

Now, however, the danger is no longer grave. Nobody expects a German army to force a landing. The British government will be well advised to restore the ancient rights and give to every man held under 18-B his chance to face his accusers, know what offense he is charged with, and defend himself in open court.

Americans are uncomfortable when the rights of Englishmen are not respected. Many of our rights are ours by inheritance from England. We want no precedents for abrogating them by administrative fiat.

THE BATTLE FOR AMERICANISM.

Alf M. Landon, in a recent radio speech, told how the New Dealers, like the Nazis, may change their theories, but still can be recognized by their spots. He said the 1944 political campaign will be a battle between "Fascist New Dealers and the American Republicans."

Mr. Landon accused the President of splitting the nation apart on domestic issues instead of welding it into the unity that the successful prosecution of the war demands. He said that Henry Wallace "declared civil war" in his speech in Detroit.

Wallace, Mr. Landon pointed out, is the man who planned the economy of scarcity, slaughtered all the little pigs and plowed under the cotton in the early days of the New Deal. Wallace has changed his economic ideas, which cost this nation so sorely. He condemns the economy of scarcity now, but he still talks, and fights and smells like a Fascist New Dealer. He answers criticism of himself and his party by name calling and denies responsibility for his mistakes.

Mr. Landon says that our country is being run on the premise of threat and fear and secrecy while "schisms and hatred stalk the land" and hunger follows close behind. He predicts that the New Dealers do not expect to liquidate the middle class thru the firing squads used by their heroes, the Communists. They plan, as Hitler did in his early career, to do it thru economics—"thru deficit financing, and business, labor, and agriculture managed by the national government."

Mr. Landon paints an ugly picture. But his eyes are sharp and he tells clearly what he sees. When we turned this nation over to the New Dealers in 1932 we renounced America for Europe. We abandoned self-faith, clear vision and the belief in the dauntlessness of man which made America great. We were tired of hard work and we wanted an easier way. We chose the way of the New Deal, the European, the Fascist, the collectivist way.

The New Dealers have entrenched themselves in Washington for 10 years. They will be difficult to uproot—but with each succeeding year the New Dealers disclose more clearly their ultimate plan to destroy the American in America and with each year the opposition grows.

"We are now witnessing the preview of life as it will be permanently under the New Deal gone to seed," Mr. Landon said. ". . . an arbitrary burocracy resulting in naziism and fascism —the death knell of individual freedom."

Mr. Landon has given Americans the outline of what they are fighting for here at home. He has presented the cause. It remains for the voters to prove their determination to win America back to Americanism.

Editorial of the Day

REASONS FOR BEWILDERMENT.

[New York Times.]

At one point in his address last night the President said: "I confess that I myself am sometimes bewildered by conflicting statements that I see in the press. One day I read an 'authoritative' statement that we shall win the war this year, 1943—and the next day comes another statement equally 'authoritative' that the war will still be going on in 1949."

But the press did not invent these statements. It merely reported them, as it was its duty to report them. Both these statements were made by important officers responsible to the President himself. They are typical of the blow-hot, blow-cold procedure that has often bewildered not only the President but also the public on many questions having to do with military strategy, the submarine menace, the rationing of goods, the prevention of strikes, and the control of prices.

Test Your Horse Sense

By George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 25.

1. Which one of the following is not a primary color? Red Orange Yellow Blue.
2. If a victory gardener harvests one bushel of snap beans, how many quarts will his wife be able to can therefrom? 5 9 17 26.
3. Which one of these products has the most nearly inexhaustible source of raw materials? Glass Gasoline Steel Brass.
4. The greatest depth of the ocean is supposed to be approximately 17,000 feet 29,000 feet 35,000 feet 52,000 feet.
5. The fastest baseball ever pitched traveled how many feet per second? 57 feet 139 feet 576 feet 1,019 feet.
6. A few weeks ago I gave you the problem of determining how much resistance your heart avoids during sleep when it beats 66 times per minute and the blood pressure has dropped from 130 to 110. In today's problem you are to compute the total pressure in millimeters of mercury which the heart avoids during exactly eight hours of sleep, if the waking pulse is 72 and the blood pressure 130, while the sleeping pulse is 66 and the sleeping blood pressure is 110. You are entitled to five points if you can correctly solve this sequel to our former problem on blood pressure.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6 average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

CONSULTING THE ORACLES.

The appointment of a male bareskin dancer as adviser to the government on economic warfare may be a good omen. Perhaps he will cause the war to progress by leaps and bounds.

* * *

In the present Italian crisis the inhabitants of the boot might do well to consult the Cumaean sibyl, whose ancient haunt was in the vicinity of Naples. But they had better hurry, for Generals Eisenhower and Montgomery may get there first.

* * *

This oracular creature collected her prophetic utterances into nine books, which she offered to an early king of Rome for the future guidance of his country's affairs, at a fat price. He refused; she burned three books and put up another sales talk. He refused again, and she burned three more. Then in a panic he bought the remaining three at the original price of the complete set.

* * *

Thus the Sibylline or Capitoline Oracles came into the possession of Rome, to be placed in a safe deposit vault under the temple of Jupiter and consulted in times of emergency. They were destroyed by fire in 43 B. C., but Rome formed another collection of sibylline chatter from all over the empire, and kept on consulting it until the Goths were at her gates. This disappeared about A. D. 405.

* * *

One or two fragments of the first collection, the real McCoy of the Cumaean sibyl, have survived, and of course a German classical scholar has written a book about them. Mr. Hitler is advised to consult it without delay.

* * *

The Cumaean sibyl was granted by Apollo, her spirit guide, as many years of life as there were grains in a double handful of dust. But she forgot to ask for youth also, and so after several thousand years she came to look like the world's oldest trance medium. For a report of an interview with her, see Vergil's Æneid, book 6.

STORM OVER SICILY.

(After Oscar Wilde's "Theocritus.")

O, tyrant over Italy!
In your bomb cellar desolate,
You will remember Sicily!

Still thru your sky our planes fly free
Where your great cities lie in state,
O, tyrant over Italy!

Your empire calls on Germany,
And hears our troops storm at your gate;
You will remember Sicily!

Still by the bright and deadly sea
Poor Mussolini moans his fate,
O, tyrant over Italy!

And still in awful destiny
Our army challenges your state;
You will remember Sicily!

Fate holds a rendezvous for thee;
For thee the days of vengeance wait,
O, tyrant over Italy!
You will remember Sicily! Quizzicuss.

The Old Family Beer Pitcher.

In cleaning out the attic I came across a beautiful blue glass pitcher. It now holds cut flowers from the garden.

It took me a long time to identify it, but I recall it now! It once held beer. Long before the Volstead act became a farce every family had at least one fancy beer pitcher. The fancier the pitcher, the more high-toned your family could be [or at least I thought so]. The family two houses east of us had one I really envied. It was a creation of sea-green glass. The body was deeply fluted and swirled as it reached its wide neck and generous pouring lip. My cousin received an awful lacing for breaking it! That meant no more free pretzels, no more putting his foot on the long, shiny brass rail.

You were considered big enough to go for beer if, when standing on the brass rail, you could reach the top of the bar and take the pitcher without spilling its contents. People who sent their kids with tin buckets were considered social outcasts. Either their families owned a glass pitcher as good as ours or better, or we would not play "run sheep run" or permit them to be members of our secret password gang.

Have you such a pitcher among your heirlooms? Alexander Belfuss.

Of things that be.

Yes I'll submit
To tyrant rule
And I'll admit
I'm just her tool.

But this one is
And she'll suffice.

An Old Coffee Pot Speaks.

"O, you darling!" she cried rapturously, clasping me in her arms as tho I were Clark Gable, "I'm so glad to see you again. How dusty and neglected looking you are, but I'll soon fix that." With loving hands she placed me on the kitchen sink and caressed me with a polishing cloth until we beamed at each other.

"I've just been miserable," she said. "That drippy little two-cupper was an instrument of torture, and the third time thru, well, it was poisonous! But no more of that. Now that we're together again, I'm so happy I could fly!" Sally P. Dineen.

HEED SUNSTROKE WARNING.

In last week's article mention was made of a peculiar type of summer collapse—heat exhaustion. But Old Sol has many tricks in his bag. Sunstroke is characterized by a rise in temperature which may speedily reach the danger point. The surface of the body is hot and dry and the mercury may exceed 106 degrees F. Levels of 110 degrees are not uncommon.

As a rule, the patient will have some warning. Listlessness, muscular weakness, headache, dizziness, lack of appetite, and rapid pulse usually precede the onset. Many will observe that the desire to empty the bladder seems to be ever-present.

If these signals are unheeded by an interval of rest in the shade, particularly if perspiration has practically ceased, a severe attack of vomiting or a convulsion may point to a grave illness. Many of these victims will drop unconscious in their tracks.

Such a situation is alarming and calls for drastic action. The pent-up internal fires must be released. Without delay, the unconscious person must be taken to a shady spot, where clothing can be removed and ice or cold water applied quickly. Sometimes the best plan is to place the sufferer in a bathtub with floating chunks of ice and employ gentle massage.

Thermometer readings [by rectum] should be taken from time to time to make certain that the treatment is effective. When 102 degrees F. is recorded, the patient may be transferred to a bed and wrapped in a dry blanket. As a rule, the fever will continue to fall and, when it reaches 100 degrees F., stimulation may be required.

More often than not fluids will be demanded to promote skin elimination. A lifesaving procedure consists in injecting normal salt solution or 5 per cent glucose directly into a vein. It is usually well to maintain cold to the cranium [ice cap] as headache may be complained of for hours after all danger has passed.

Other factors which will assist recovery include emptying the lower bowel by means of an enema and restoring the chlorides which have been lost previously thru perspiration. Generous quantities of salt may be given by mouth as soon as the patient is reasonably comfortable, is conscious, and can swallow. If vomiting ensues, the administration may be stopped but renewed within an hour.

What can be done to avoid these episodes? First of all, the diet should be light. Fortunately, few are hungry on torrid days. The drinking water must contain salt or salty gruel. Frequent periods of relaxation may be provided. The clothing can be sufficiently light to permit the circulation of air next to the skin. Iced drinks should be avoided as well as alcoholic beverages.

Many a foreman has been able to avert a serious bout thru detecting early signs of trouble. The man who ceases to sweat, while all of his companions are exuding water freely, may be ordered to lie down in a sheltered area, until the attack passes. This applies to officers in command of recruits who are undergoing intensive training. If one is really distressed, it is only common sense to say so and drop out of the ranks.

NO SUN IN T. B.

E. X. writes: I believe you stated that sun is bad for lung tuberculosis. Why?

REPLY.

Direct sunlight [ultraviolet] stimulates the circulation. It is equivalent to overactivity. Each autumn, following the bathing season, physicians discover that many supposedly healed cases have become active. One of the causes is careless exposure to Old Sol.

Heredity, mechanical interferences, manipulation, or bumps and falls. In some instances infection plays an important rôle—frequent colds, etc.

Midsummer Magic.

The nights at Ravinia are cool and soft, and the heard melodies are sweeter far than those unheard. From outside the pavilion, from a blanket on a knoll beneath a giant tree made pale and magical green by a submerged light, the music is a perfect setting for the mystery of a leaf, the magnificence of a tree seen from below, that phenomenon of wonder recorded in paint by Georgia O'Keeffe. And, seen faintly thru the foliage, a tiny wooden soldier of a man to create such torrential sound, is Rubinstein, attacking the piano like a toreador a bull, leaping at the keyboard, pouncing on it, charging it with raging fury, doing everything but bite it. . . . And one thinks of the others. Of Schnabel, who settles back in Olympian calm to play as tho he were humming to himself; and the late Rachmaninoff, a rag doll with the stuffing drained out, so limp, so exhausted, it seemed incredible that from such wan impassivity could come volcanic action; and Horowitz who sits down, and where lesser mortals might shift the piano stool closer to the piano, reaches out and tugs the piano toward him. . . . And suddenly, in the quiet after one exultant burst of music, comes a strained, knife blade echo; myriad crickets, their voices thin, clear, and startling, try to duplicate the sound that awakened them. Then they, Rubenstein, paradise regained, and all, are submerged in the thundering onrush of civilization embodied in a train.

Burlington, Ia., July 30.—On my visit to your fair city last week I happened to pass the city hall and noted the decorations on it. There certainly is a great similarity in the advertising, don't you think? Possibly for a fourth term, or more.

MR. PARRISH GOES ON THE ROAD.

Silver Lake, Ind., July 31.—The Tribune on June 8 carried a cartoon by Parrish, showing the stooge of Wall street as a Charlie McCarthy for Roosevelt. The cartoon portrayed with such clearness the true character of this stooge [Willkie] and the real reason why he, a renegade Democrat, insists upon forcing himself on the Republican party and being their candidate for President, that I cut it out of the paper to show to my friends. The cartoon made such a hit that I recently pasted it in the side window on the right hand side of my car. Wherever I drive and stop and there are a number of people, a crowd will gather around my car to look at the cartoon. The remarks made concerning Willkie are of the most uncomplimentary kind and this is here in Indiana, a state that usually goes Republican and which the stooge claims as his home state. The larger crowds seem to gather when I have occasion to go to ration board located at Warsaw, Ind., and the remarks heard there are of the hardest kind.

DON'T FORGET BLUE BOY.

Chicago, July 30.—Some articles by Miss Marcia Winn, one of your writers, on the morals of Hollywood are currently appearing and are interesting.

One of your writers sends a contribution to the column suggesting that the public should not patronize the movies and encourage people of that character.

Since the dawn of time there has been talk which was probably more than gossip about the morality of stage folk. If the entertainment was good the people went to enjoy it anyway and they always will.

Anyway, until I commenced to read these articles I did not know that the public expected there was or had been any morals or virtue in the Hollywood celebrities, with the possible exception of Will Rogers and Rin-Tin-Tin.

TWISTING THE FACTS.

Chicago, July 31.—I wonder how many understood the real significance of the figures President Roosevelt quoted in his recent speech on the number of gallons of gasoline a bomber consumes on a trip from Africa to Italy?

In typically Rooseveltian manner he twisted the facts to prove a point. Aviation gasoline is quite a different product from the gasoline used in automobiles. In producing the 1,100 gallons of aviation gasoline for a bomber's flight, 4,000 to 6,000 gallons [depending on the cracking process used] of a low octane byproduct gasoline had to be produced. That is what we get for our automobiles.

The process might be compared to separating cream from milk, and if more cream is produced, more milk is available as a result. Cutting consumption of skimmed milk will not produce more cream. Consequently, the more aviation gasoline our bombers consume, the more ordinary gasoline becomes available for automobiles.

This part of the speech was apparently designed to make the middle west swallow Ickes' "share the misery" plan.

Earl W. Scrogum.

IT DEPENDS ON WHO SAYS IT.

Park Ridge, Ill., Aug. 1.—If any doubt still remains whether we were listening to the commander in chief or to Candidate Roosevelt last Wednesday, ask yourself why the speaker did not suggest a pay roll tax, a sales tax, or some other means of raising the funds to cover the mustering out pay which very justly will be paid to service men when they leave the service of their country. The New Deal benefits in the post-war world are to continue on the cuff, it seems.

Now that Mr. Roosevelt has credit for being first to promise a bonus, Mr. Spangler should pledge the Republican party to a bonus twice as big. Actually, a maximum of $300 is not a lot and most of the boys would get much less for their three months pay—about $150. That sounds like WPA pay. One guess—what prominent Democratic politician would be the first to accuse Mr. Spangler of playing politics if he suggested doubling the ante?

CHARCOAL GAS PROPELS TRUCK ON 180 MILE RUN

Travels from Wheaton to Kalamazoo.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 3 [Special].—Powered by gas generated from charcoal made at The Tribune's experimental farm near Wheaton, Ill., a 2½ ton truck covered the 180 miles from the farm to Kalamazoo without incident in six hours last night.

Members of the truck crew stopped off in Michigan City, Ind., for dinner. They made no effort to exceed the gas rationing speed limit on the journey, or their time would have been much less than the six hours.

Lyle Percival, the driver, said that the charcoal burner functioned well thruout the trip. He was accompanied by Alex Loika and Forrest Fullmer.

Training to Drive Ambulance.

Percival and Loika are employes of the Kalamazoo Stove and Furnace company, which is a subcontractor for M. and R. Products, Inc., of New York, which makes the gasogenes that use charcoal. Fullmer is training to drive a gasogene propelled ambulance in China.

The charcoal was dug Monday from a mound that on Saturday had consisted of a tightly stacked cord of firewood enveloped in mud. When the mud was removed the charcoal was put into the truck's special fuel tank.

Preparation of the charcoal was described in SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE, and the process by which the charcoal is converted into gas was described in Tuesday's issue.

Not Available to Public.

After preparations for the trip were completed, the truck crew bade farwell to the farm at 5 p. m. They pulled in at Kalamazoo at 11 p. m. Besides the charcoal fuel, the truck carried baggage and equipment.

Performance of a charcoal driven truck is similar to that of one which uses gasoline, but it is not as good —provided you can get all the gasoline you want. Between 200,000 and 300,000 gasogenes, or gas producers, are in use in Europe and large numbers are being manufactured in America for shipment to China. None are available for public purchase in America under present war production board regulations.

Miss Dorothy E. MacKenzie, president of M. and R. Products, Inc., who was in Kalamazoo when the truck arrived, says that the fuel consumption approximates 12 pounds of charcoal for the equivalent of one gallon of gasoline.

NEW U. S. ENVOY TO CANADA GIVES HIS CREDENTIALS

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 3 (AP).—Ray Atherton, new United States minister to Canada, presented his credentials today to the governor general. Atherton succeeded J. Pierrepont Moffat, who died Jan. 4. He came here from the post of acting chief of the division of European affairs in Washington.

Atherton served for 14 years at the United States embassy in London and held posts in the orient and Greece. He was at various times minister to Bulgaria and Denmark.

The governor general said that in welcoming Atherton he personally was renewing "the long acquaintance which will, I trust, with closer association, ripen into true friendship." Atherton said protestations of good will were almost superfluous.

LETHAL CHAMBER FOR DOGS HIT IN COURT SUIT

Davenport, Ia., Aug. 3 [Special].—An injunction to prevent further use by the city of a lethal chamber for killing dogs is sought in a petition filed in District court here today by a group of Davenport citizens headed by Harold Metcalf, an attorney. The petition will be heard by Judge W. R. Maines on Aug. 12.

The petitioners request that the city institute what they described as more humane means of ridding the city of its excess canine population. They suggest electrocution or injection of certain fluids into the animals as more humane since their effect is instantaneous.

It is charged in the petition that more than 300 dogs have been put to death in the lethal chamber in the last 30 days and that the total for the last year is 1,000. It is claimed the animals are forced or enticed into the chamber.

HALTS POLICE HELP TO OPA GAS CHECK AFTER TRAFFIC JAM

New York, Aug. 3 [Special].—Alexander Allan, director of the Bergen county [N. J.] board of freeholders today ordered Bergen county police to stop aiding office of price administration investigators in their check on unessential motoring.

Allan explained that he was willing to coöperate with the OPA, but he could not condone a four mile tieup of traffic because of 20 miles of OPA red tape.

"Last week-end," said Commissioner Allan, "the OPA investigators asked me for a couple of cops to help them in their checkup of suspected unessential motorists. There resulted a four mile tieup of traffic outside the Ramsey traffic circle."

RULE CITY BIRTH CERTIFICATE CAN COST ONLY 50C

Altho county clerks are authorized to charge $1 each for certified copies of birth certificates under a new state law which went into effect July 29, the city health department may charge only 50 cents under the present city code, Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes ruled yesterday in response to a query by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health.

As a result of a court ruling in 1941, the Chicago health department turned over to the county all birth and death certificates filed before Jan. 1, 1939. Copies of certificates since that time are filed with the city, county, and state. Consequently, citizens desiring certified copies of birth certificates filed since Jan. 1, 1939, or copies of delayed certificates in which birth has been established since that date by affidavits, may obtain them for 50 cents each from the city board of health. Others must pay $1 to the county clerk.

In the first six months of this year, County Clerk Michael Flynn said, 300,000 applications for copies of birth certificates were made at his office and 45,000 copies were issued by the city board of health.

COUNTY TAKES IN $136,769,043 OF '42 TAX BILL

County Treasurer Victor L. Schlaeger announced yesterday that 1942 tax collections up to July 31 were $136,769,043, or more than 60 per cent of the taxes levied by all taxing bodies in the county. Half of the real estate taxes do not become overdue until Sept. 1. Personal property tax collected amounted to $38,955,219, or about $2,400,000 more than has been paid on the 1941 levy. This collection represented about 80 per cent of all personal property taxes levied for 1942.

WOMAN HUNTED IN VOTE INQUIRY WILL SURRENDER

Investigation of aldermanic primary election fraud charges in the 105th precinct of the 5th ward was continued to Aug. 10 in County court yesterday when Judge Edmund K. Jarecki was informed that the last of five former election officials sought in the case, Mrs. Mary V. Varhol of 6216 Dorchester avenue, would surrender on that date.

Three of the former election officials surrendered earlier and were released on bond. Another, Harold L. Winget of 6214 Dorchester avenue, surrendered yesterday and was released on bond.

The former officials are charged by Atty. James F. Cashen of the board of election commissioners with having permitted 195 fraudulent applications for votes to be made.

Sicily's hot with battle—
—don't YOU cool off now

What if your bomber crews got tired of freezing at 30,000 feet? If a tank mechanic forgot to fill the crank case? If all sailors suddenly took shore leave? You'd be horrified. They'd be court-martialed. Yet at the very moment your men are battering their way into the belly of Europe, Chicago fell behind its blood bank quota. Sure it's tough not to be able to drive to the country for the week-end. But the gas for a 100 bomber raid over the Ruhr costs Americans $800,000. Certainly it's a bore to flatten cans, strain kitchen fat. But are you cooling off now when the news is all good? Now's the time to give the extra shove from the home front that will help your kids bump off Hitler the way they rubbed out Mussolini. Keep the home front hot with battle, too!

CRITICS GET ODT FORM LETTER ON MRS. F. D. R. TRIPS

Forced to Adopt Plan by Volume of Complaints.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3 [Special].—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's travels have inspired so many complaints from indignant citizens who are forced to stay in their own backyards that the office of defense transportation has drawn up a form letter as a reply to them.

During the course of Mrs. Roosevelt's cross country trips, the ODT has been subjected to increasing embarrassment by trying to curtail nonessential travel among ordinary citizens while the President's wife established new records for distance covered. Many of the letter writers to ODT have stated that they will stay at home "when Mrs. Roosevelt does."

Form Letter Revealed.

J. W. Stevenson, assistant director passenger section, of the division of traffic movement of ODT, who signs the form letter, takes the American public to task for its interest in Mrs. Roosevelt's peregrinations.

"I think that it is entirely American," the letter states, "for you to be content with your own contribution in this respect and not look around for others who are not making as great a contribution.

"It is the support we anticipate receiving from the great majority of our citizens that gives us confidence that the war job of our carriers can be accomplished."

Defended Travels.

When questioned recently concerning complaints about her travels, Mrs. Roosevelt accused her critics of "attacking me for other reasons than the one given. Therefore, it is useless to explain." She also said she favored applying the ban on pleasure driving thruout the nation.

Last week the ODT admitted that many protests against her travels had been received. Joseph B. Eastman, director of ODT, said that advice against nonessential travel will not do any good "unless every one will realize that it 'means me' and applies today as well as tomorrow."

WILLKIE CLAIMS INTERNATIONALS TAKE OVER G.O.P.

New York, Aug. 3 [Special].—Places of leadership in the Republican party are being taken over more and more by the "progressive, far sighted and internationally minded" element in the party, Wendell L. Willkie said in a message to young Republicans in the fighting services printed in the current issue of the New York Republican club publication.

Willkie said these men and women are determined "that the last taint of narrow nationalism shall be removed from the party, and, backed by the rank and file, they are fully aware of the necessity for international coöperation in the world of tomorrow."

"We will not permit the stragglers, compromisers or the appeasers," he went on, "to retard or destroy the one instrumentality that exists to oppose the present administration."

The 1940 Presidential candidate said also that "this is a fight that cannot be allowed to lag, and you may be sure that I have every intention to continue fighting with all the force at my command."

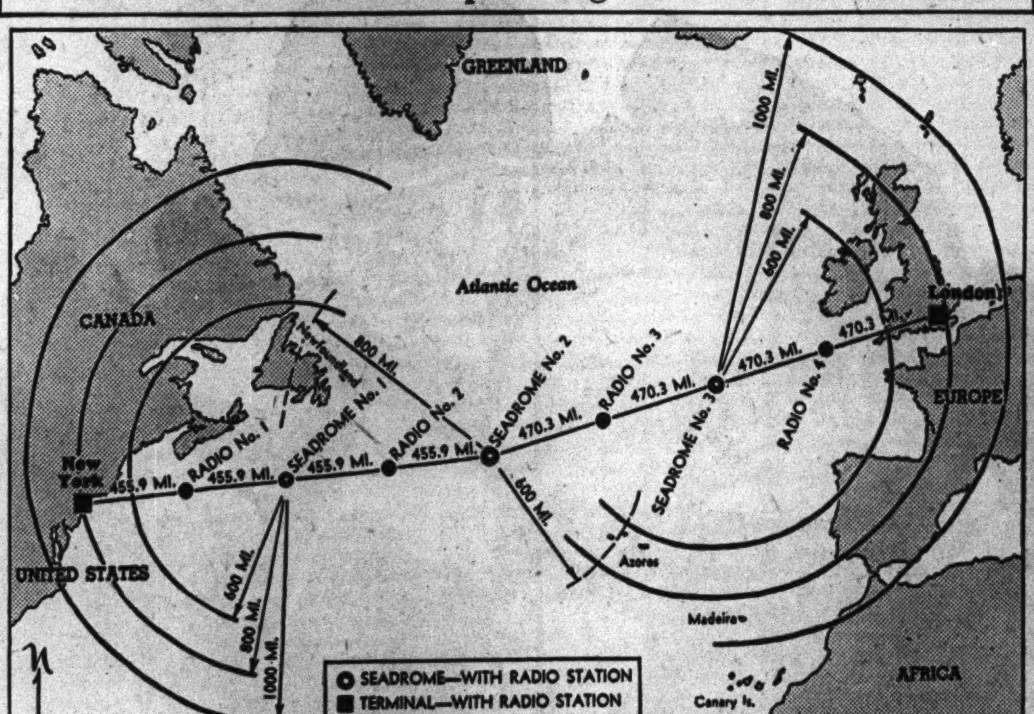
Plan for Seadromes Spanning the Atlantic Ocean



Proposed chain of seadromes for air service. Distances are in statute miles.

SAYS SEADROME CAN PUT PROFIT IN OCEAN FLYING

Backer of Plan Wants Free Enterprise.

C. Bedell Monro, president of the Pennsylvania-Central Airlines corporation, yesterday presented his company's projected establishment of ocean seadromes on the New York-London route as having a definite place in international planning and a practical answer to some of the post-war aviation problems.

Monro, whose company was one of the 16 major commercial airlines that recently drew up a five-point "Magna Carta of American Aviation" program demanding free and open competition with private ownership and management, spoke at a luncheon meeting of the Engineers club at 314 Federal street.

Need Stops for Profit.

Explaining why his company considered seadromes necessary to commercial trans-Atlantic flights, Monro said that nonstop flights from New York to London would not allow for sufficiently large payloads to make them profitable.

The people, he said, had been deluded about nonstop flying of the ocean because of the many stories of army and navy planes flying great distances nonstop.

"These are flights made on an emergency, war time basis," he said. "The attention to safety that a commercial line must give is forgotten."

The proposed seadromes would cost $10,000,000 each and there would be three, spaced approximately 800 miles apart.

Wants Free Competition.

Discussing aviation's "Magna Carta," Monro said it embraced the principles of free and open world-wide competition, subject to reasonable regulation by governmental agencies; private ownership and management without paternalistic interference by any agency; encouragement by the United States government of a sound world-wide air transportation system; world-wide freedom of transit in peaceful flight, and acquisition of commercial outlets required in public interest.

"The only opposition to this program comes from those who want one company to have a monopoly to operate world-wide," Monro said.

FALL RESULTS IN DEATH.

Mrs. Emma V. Chamberlin, 87 years old, 7301 Calumet avenue, died yesterday as a result of injuries suffered in a fall July 7 in her home.

SWINDLE COSTS $3,000 AND WIFE; LUSTIG BLAMED

Daniel R. Tate of 2721 Gladys avenue, owner of a barber and beauty shop at 320 South California avenue, appeared at the state's attorney's office yesterday and added another chapter to the volume of stories about Emil Lustig's fabulous money making methods. Lustig, it appeared, instead of making currency, took $3,000 of it from Tate. As a result Tate also lost his wife.

Lustig claims to be a nobleman's son. His brother, who is in Alcatraz prison for counterfeiting, sometimes has been known as "Count." Emil is scheduled to be arraigned tomorrow before Chief Justice John A. Sbarbaro in Criminal court on a charge of swindling Paul Stryzewski, a tavern keeper at 1229 Montana street, of $4,000. He was arrested in New York last week and brought back to Chicago to face trial.

Tate told Assistant State's Atty. C. Vernon Thompson how in December, 1942, Lustig persuaded him to raise money from his wife and friends in bills that Lustig chemically treated to "increase their denomination." The bills apparently were placed between blotters that Tate took home. The next day Lustig was missing. Examining the bundle of blotters, Tate found that the money also had disappeared.

Facing his wife, Tate said he confessed to her how the money had been stolen.

"You're too dumb to live with," she told him, Tate said. She left forthwith and never has returned.

$100,000 FIRE AT APPLETON.

Appleton, Wis., Aug. 3 [AP].—Fire destroyed the Wisconsin Rendering company plant near here last night at a loss estimated by its president, Charles Drude, of $100,000. Approximately 22,000 gallons of refined fats were destroyed, Drude said. Cause of the fire was not known.

WOMAN'S DEATH BRINGS HUNT FOR HIT-RUN DRIVER

A canvass of the neighborhood and a study of auto registration records were under way yesterday as Englewood police sought the hit and run driver and his three companions whose car killed Mrs. Gertrude E. Heron, 73 years old, 6446 South Carpenter street, in front of 6451 Morgan street Monday night. The inquest was continued until Aug. 18.

EARTHQUAKE REGISTERED.

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic, Aug. 3 [AP].—The meteorological observatory here registered slight earth temblors at 4:27 p. m. today.

LETTER TO WIFE AFTER BEATING PUTS HIM IN JAIL

Testimony yesterday in the court of Judge George B. Hermes indicated that the one man raid that George W. Carson made July 19 on a photographic studio at 1645 West 47th street was a lively affair.

The principal witnesses were Mrs. Rosalie Carson, estranged wife of Carson, who was tried on charges of assault and malicious mischief, and her father, Fred Klecker, owner of the studio. Klecker testified that he was beaten and that business equipment worth $400 was destroyed. Mrs. Carson said that a handful of her brown hair was pulled out.

Myron Lewis, assistant state's attorney passed a letter up to Judge Hermes. It had been written in April by Carson to his wife.

"An apology to his wife for beating her—that's what this is," said the prosecutor.

Judge Hermes sentenced Carson to 60 days in the county jail.

FEARLESS

BUD—just a clean, wholesome, fearless American boy . . . and his dog . . . thinking about tomorrow's ball game, about batting in clean-up position, about what he'll do to that Bearcat's pitcher. He knows there's a war going on. Sure he does. His brother Bill told him about it . . . Bill, who's over there helping to win it . . . and when his country needs Bud, he too, will do his part fearlessly.

Young America! Fun-loving, hard-playing youngsters. There could be no America without them. Today, they're developing keen, alert minds and strong, active bodies; tomorrow, they'll be guiding the Nation's destiny. They'll be running America's railroads, bridging the gap between producer and consumer; between where you are and where you want to go.

When Bud and his generation take over, ROCK ISLAND LINES will be an even greater railroad than it is today. Our Program of Planned Progress assures that: For, despite shortages of man-power and materials; and although, with the other railroads, we are doing for Uncle Sam a most profoundly important job, we are constantly building for the future . . . for America . . . for that America which one day we want Bud and his pals to inherit.

As yesterday—and today—so tomorrow ROCK ISLAND'S sole purpose is to provide the finest in transportation.

Homecomings of Service Men and Women Cause Rejoicings

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE greatest cause for rejoicing in Chicago homes these days is the return of men and women in service. Dr. and Mrs. Archibald L. Hoyne last week welcomed their daughter, Susan D. Hoyne, who received her commission as an ensign in the WAVES on July 27 from the naval reserve midshipmen's school at Smith college.

While she was in training Ensign Hoyne had the distinction of being a petty officer. A fifth generation Chicagoan, Ensign Hoyne, is a graduate of the University of Chicago, at which she took post-graduate work in anthropology. She is a granddaughter of the late Thomas M. Hoyne and a great-granddaughter of Thomas Hoyne, who was a trustee of the University of Chicago and founder of Northwestern university's law school. Dr. John T. Temple, who came to Chicago in 1833 and who was one of the incorporators of the city, was a great-great-grandfather.

While here on her way to her navy post Ensign Hoyne had a reunion with her sister, Mrs. Archibald T. Olmsted of Hamilton, Ont., and her little son, who spending a month with Dr. and Mrs. Hoyne. Mrs. Olmsted's husband, a reserve artillery officer, is on maneuvers in Canada. His law partner was taken prisoner at Dieppe.

Benjamin B. Bryan Jr. at Home on Furlough.

The Benjamin B. Bryan Jr. household in Lake Forest has been en fete for the last 10 days, for the head of the household has been at home on furlough from the coast guard, in which he serves as a boatswain's mate, second class. Mr. Bryan is stationed at Norfolk, Va. While he is at home Mrs. Bryan has taken leave from her duties at Great Lakes. Their two sons are serving in the army, Sgt. Benjamin B. Bryan III. and Grant Bryan, who is with the glider artillery.

Col. and Mrs. Albert B. Pattou and Mrs. Joseph C. Belden are looking forward to the arrival on Saturday of Lt. and Mrs. Belden Jr. [Mardo Pattou], who will be here for a visit during his leave from navy duties. The young Beldens have been living in Seattle, Wash.

Mrs. Winfield Newton Burtick Jr., the former Dixie MacArthur, has arrived in Libertyville to be with her parents, the Telfer MacArthurs, as Lt. Burdick is on active sea duty.

Mrs. John Haight, the former Edith Farwell, is another young woman who has returned home for the duration, as her husband, Lt. Haight, has been sent overseas. She is with her parents, the Albert D. Farwells, and has gone with them to Huron Mountain, Mich., for a summer holiday.

Ravinia Festival's Aids to Have Party Sunday.

The Ravinia Festival season's sponsors and workers will gather at Ravinia park next Sunday for a special party of their own, the annual Musical Round-Up that will close another summer of music under the stars. For the benefit of those who wish to remain at the park following the afternoon concert, and for those who come early, a buffet supper will be served, by reservation, at the nominal charge of 70 cents. The concert is without charge.

The choir of the Great Lakes Naval Training station, which was so enthusiastically welcomed on opening night, will sing and the Great Lakes Concert band and salon orchestra will present a program of light music. Lt. Comdr. Eddie Peabody will act as master of ceremonies.

Following what has become a tradition at Ravinia, the Round-Up will be closed with the last movement of Haydn's "Farewell" symphony, with George Szell conducting the Chicago Symphony orchestra, which is donating its services for the program, as are Mr. Szell and the Great Lakes organizations. The performance will start at 8 p. m.

Doris Anne Wright's Engagement Is Told.

Miss Wright is a graduate of the Convent of the Sacred Heart and of Barat college in Lake Forest. Mr. Stuhr attended the Harris schools and Phillips academy in Andover, Mass., and received his engineering training at Purdue university. He is a mechanical engineer with the Chicago ordnance department of the army.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Molyneaux of Kenilworth today are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Florence, to Ensign Robert Hargrave of Evansville, Ind. Miss Molyneaux was graduated from St. Mary's at Notre Dame in June. Ensign Hargrave, a graduate of the University of Notre Dame, is stationed at Fort Pierce, Fla.

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

The United States coast guard is 153 years old today, and by way of observing this anniversary the SPARS offices in Chicago announce, thru Ensign Mary Kennedy, officer in charge of recruiting, that enlistment of women in the women's reserve is going along splendidly.

Ensign Mary Kennedy.

The SPARS, which formery shared offices with the WAVES recruiting headquarters in the Board of Trade building, moved on July 1 to new quarters at 53 West Jackson boulevard. Since then Ensign Kennedy and her staff have been as busy as the proverbial bees, interviewing and swearing in successful applicants for officer candidate training and enlisted personnel and seeing that the candidates are shipped out every other week to training schools.

Assisting Ensign Kennedy in recruiting is Ensign Donna Gill, who formerly was a summer camp counsellor in Oregon, and five enlisted personnel. The office also has its own medical staff to expedite physical examinations.

Women who desire to apply for officer training may do so directly from civilian life. If accepted they are sent to the coast guard academy at New London, Conn., where all SPAR officers are trained. There they are assigned, as Ensign Kennedy aptly puts it, to the "woman's Annapolis," a section of the academy set aside for them.

Women officer candidates take their six weeks' training side by side with coast guard officer candidates, and upon receiving their commissions are assigned to coast guard stations within the United States. Some women who are fitted for further specialized training are sent to Smith college at Northampton, Mass., upon completing their course at the academy.

All enlisted personnel in the SPARS receive their training in Palm Beach, Fla. The coast guard took over the famous Palm Beach-Biltmore hotel several months ago as well as the swank Sun and Surf club.

Altho the recruiting program of the SPARS is progressing nicely, many more women will be needed. A candidate for enlisted personnel must be at least 20 years old and not yet have reached her 36th birthday. A candidate for a commission must be 20 years old and not over 49. A college degree, or two years of college plus at least two years of business experience, is required.

Further information as to qualifications may be obtained at the SPARS recruiting offices on the second floor at 53 West Jackson boulevard.

The winner in a recent honors and merits contest inaugurated by the various posts of the WOWS [Woman Ordnance Workers] was Mrs. Eleanor Sullivan, president of Post No. 14 at the Utah Radio Products company, Chicago. The contest's close was announced by Mrs. Caroline W. Budinger, national executive secretary of the WOWS.

Open to all members, the contest was based on the best letter received telling how outstanding work on the part of an individual member should be recognized. For some time officers in the organization had felt that such a member should be rewarded, either by a title or distinguishing insignia on her uniform.

As her prize for the best letter, Mrs. Sullivan will receive a WOW pin, at the top of which is set a genuine ruby.

Silver Linings Help Beautify Winter Coats

BY REA SEEGER.

Not all dark clouds have silver linings, nor do all of new winter dark wool coats have a fur lining of silver muskrat. But the best shopping buys featured in the current collections of fur lined coats are these beauties lined thruout with this flattering silver sheened fur. Silver muskrat blended to perfection, used with a black center streak in vertical lines to accentuate the perpendicular silhouette, make beautiful, wearable and practical fur linings. This pelt wears amazingly well season after season, and the silver shimmer accents brown, blue, black, and the many high, strong colors.

Other fur used for coat lining includes stenciled lapin in zebra, and leopard pattern, civet cat, squirrel caracul, and many shades of dyed lapin. These are the modestly priced pelts. Higher priced fur, such as leopard, mink, persian lamb, or kolinsky, is used in luxurious looking coats, the last word in fashion and warmth.

The smartest and most unusual models are snapped up when the collections are first displayed, but the modestly priced coats are sometimes the most unusual in fur contrast, with a vivid color of wool or a distinctive combine of fur and wool or fur and colored wool.

All the new fur lined coats are extremely simple; there's a snappy restrained flare at the back, a straight long silhouette, comfortable shoulders, wide loose sleeves, and contrasting turn back cuffs and collar. The many dyed lapin really are something to make fashion history.

Thru the Looking Glass

Sultry weather is responsible for changes in the fragrance of the perfume you use, so be careful! A great many factors enter into this change, which is seldom for the better, and it's a good idea to transfer in extremely hot weather from heavy scents to lighter ones.

The skin itself, on hot days, suffers some chemical changes in the matter it throws off. There is more perspiration for one thing, and usually a little more natural oil. The film of both oil and perspiration, invisible tho they may be, is a gathering ground for grime. The perfume that you add to the flesh is bound to be affected and if the one of your choice is on the exotic order the results may be distinctly unpleasing. Unfortunately, it's the bystanders rather than yourself who are apt to be aware of this.

We think it's a good idea to forego perfume entirely when you set out for strenuous sports or activities that will leave you in a lather of perspiration. The blend isn't likely to be pleasing. Use your perfume after you've showered.

Cologne is something else again. A light film of it on the skin immediately before you dress and again after your shower will act as a mild deodorant. If the fragrance is the airy kind it will be a hot weather charm as well as grooming aid. But make sure it is the airy-fairy type, not the sultry, heady variety. Hot weather will make exotic perfume too strong, too warm, and rather vulgar. What's charming in winter can be much too muggy in summer.

INSTALMENT XXXIX.
PREMONITION.

Diego would not verify anything. He would not speak or meet the old lawyer's eyes. He was nearly as angry as Ann Harper. A little while ago he had felt abased thinking how he had wronged her in his thoughts.

But all the time she had been wronging him in her thoughts. That explained her attitude of shrinking dismay last night. There was blood between them, and he had shed it.

She pressed her lips together and loosed them in a little explosive, "Bah!" And he flicked thumb and forefinger, turned his shoulder to her and his back to the room, and looked into the dying embers.

"Don Diego will explain nothing," Aunt Ellen said quietly. "He knows when to be silent."

"Very well, Big Ellen!" said Ewan. "You have some explaining to do yourself. Why did you set a guard on Mistress Ann and Don Diego? Did you know Gen. Harper was going to die?"

"No, Ewan. I did not know that Gen. Harper was going to die. I knew that some one was going to die, but I did not know who. Will you explain, Cuchulain?"

"It is time I did," agreed Hamish.

Aunt Ellen came and sat on the straw hassock between Ann and Diego. Ann put a hand on her shoulder.

Hamish was talking. Diego sat down and listened, and Ann, pulling her mantilla forward, would not deign to look his way.

"It was my wife, Big Ellen, started me off," said Hamish. "She knew how badly things were going for the Glen, and we talked things over the night Jamie came back from Inverness—the three of us. She said to me that there would be a tragedy in the Glen if we did not watch out, and what was I going to do about it? That put a thought in my head. I might do something. And, then, that night in her bed she had one of her takings. You know of them?"

"We all know of her previsions," said Ewan McInnes.

"You don't then, God help me!" murmured Aunt Ellen.

"It is not the second sight," went on Hamish, "for she sees nothing in the body. She just knows. All at once she knows. The thing that has not yet happened. Ordinary speaking, she follows the thought in your mind and the thought no more than shaping itself—and you trying to keep something to yourself, as Jamie and I know. But the taking is different. It hurts her in her spirit. She sat up in bed and put her hand on me. I was not asleep. 'Cuchulain, there's some one dead in the Glen, and not in bed.' That's what she said, and I jumped fair onto the floor. 'Where and who?', 'No—no!' she said. 'The death has not come—it is soon. It is in the Glen, not amongst our own out of the Glen, and I do not know if it is one of our own in the Glen. I cannot see who it is, man or woman, but death and it ill-coming I see.' Then she was cross with me. 'You are head of the Glen now,' she said, 'and you can do nothing! Can you not save one of our own for us?' I talked to her, and told her about the beginnings of a plan I had in my mind already. You see I was certain that some one was going to die—not an ordinary death. She is never wrong when the trouble is on her.

We talked it over together and in an hour or two we worked out our plan. She fell asleep then."

He paused consideringly, and went on. "As we looked at it there were six people to be watched and warded. Just six!

"Big Ellen was to look after Miss Hett, and that was easy as you have learned. I put the two best stalkers in the Glen or out of it on Mistress Ann and Jamie. I knew they were meeting at the Skong's rock—and why not they? They were good friends and kin in race, and Jamie was leaving next day, so why shouldn't they meet and say good-by any place they wanted. All I could do was to make sure that no one of evil mind came on them.

"My charge was Young Affran. Ay, Young Affran! First of all when I went up to the Lodge the early afternoon I made sure who was in the house. The general was there, and Mistress Ann, and Young Affran, but Maj. Harper was not. He was heard say that he might take a look over the stags Glen Seilig way. I marked Young Affran down in his own cubby hole, and went outside and set myself where I could see any one leaving the house or ground.

"I kept track of the time. At 5:30 of the clock Mistress Ann came out of the house and across the lawn to the gate, and went by me over the bridge swinging her crook. She was early for the rock but I let her go, and I knew Donald would pick her up from above even if he had to crawl for it.

"Ten minutes after that came Young Affran, along by the wall and below me making for the bridge also. He was carrying a .22 rifle."

He held up his broad hand warningly.

"Now don't be jumping to conclusions any of ye. It was the rifle that killed his uncle surely, but Young Affran did not kill him. For I slipped down off the fork and faced him at the corner. 'Where are you off to, young fellow?' He was chagrined. 'Go to blazes, Hamish McLeod!' he told me, and then he saluted me. 'O! You are displaying your authority are you? Where am I going? To give a certain old party the fright of his life. Get out of my way!' 'You are not thinking of frightening him to death?' 'Why not?' And then he laughed at me. 'So you think I might blow his head off?' he said. 'So you threatened,' I said. 'I was only a fool—he's not important any more, not to me.' 'In that case,' said I, 'give me that rifle.' He wouldn't, holding it away from me. 'Wait,' says he, 'do you know what he's up to now? Those two fatheads, Ann and your bright nephew, let the world know they are meeting at Skene's rock, and an irate husband threatens to gang along and throw Diego over the cliff. He will go, I think, but Diego might do the throwing and get himself hanged handsomely for it.' 'Are you for protecting the poor foreign lad?' I said. 'No! but I'll hide and drop a bullet or two 'round the old owl and see how he likes being back under fire—not that he ever was.' 'Just so!' I said. A bullet off a rock will kill a man nice as you like, and get the joker hanged twice as handsome. Give me that rifle.' 'I'll give you the butt!' says he mock-threatening me with it. And before he could move I had my hands over his."

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

As I have pointed out many times before in this column, the possession of a part-score is sometimes a liability rather than an asset. The fact that game can be snatched so easily seems to dampen the enterprise of many players insofar as bidding slams or soundly defeating the opponents is concerned. In short, under these part-score conditions, such players seem to lose all sense of proportion. For example:

West, dealer.
East-West vulnerable, 60 part-score.

NORTH.
♠A K 10 6
♥K 5 4
♦4 3 2

WEST.
♠8 5
♥A J 9 7 3
♦A Q 9 7
♣A 5

EAST.
♠Q J 9 2
♥Q 8
♦K J 6

SOUTH.
♠7 4 3
♥10 6 2
♦10 8 5
♣K 4 3 2

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 heart	Double	Redouble	Pass
Pass	1 spade	1 N T[!]	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	Pass	Pass

Needless to say, West did not have to extend himself to fulfill his contract and, indeed, he brought home two extra tricks. East was well pleased with the game and rubber thus acquired, but West did not share his pleasure. "For Pete's sake," West growled, "why didn't you smack one spade?"

"Not me!" East said smugly. "I wanted the rubber!"

And there we have a philosophy that costs an incalculable number of points. Beyond argument, it is nice to win rubbers, but it is also incontrovertible that a player should prefer large rubbers to small rubbers. Here was a case in which an opponent was allowed to "get away with murder." North's takeout double was scarcely a thing of beauty, even under the part-score condition; a simple spade overcall would have been ambitious enough. Yet, due to East's rubber-grabbing propensity, North was given a free try at saving the game—free in the sense that he was not punished when he found his left hand opponent, instead of his own partner, with almost the entire "balance of power."

Aside from the fact that a vulnerable team must bid more cautiously than a nonvulnerable team, the former has mathematical chances of 3 to 1 to win the rubber. Thus, East should have figured that he could well afford to "stop off" and collect a few hundred points, since he still would retain his 3 to 1 chance for the rubber. Actually, a penalty double of one spade would have produced more than a few hundred points. Reasonably good defense would have held North to precisely two top trumps and the heart king, and the 900 points thereby amassed by East-West would have been excellent insurance against the possibility that they might lose the rubber.

Good Morning!

Well, how about an "underground" picture for a change?

Action occurs in occupied France. . . . Here lands Commando Geoffrey Carter, dispatched to lay plans for a night raid on a secret Nazi munitions factory. [You know it seems as if I write these same words over and over again!]

Patriotic French living near the factory ["They are all Democrats!" asserts a spokesman] spring to Carter's aid — except Odette. Odette, daughter of the patriots' leader, Bonnard, is fearful of what may happen to her parents if their works become known, so she conveys certain information to the Nazi resident commandant—in exchange for his promise that the Bonnard family shall be unharmed. . . .

She sees her father, mother, and others shot down.

Eventually Odette is instrumental in making the contemplated raid a success.

The picture is ably acted and directed. It has the usual suspense and horror angles. While not quite as like as two peas in a pod to other films of the ilk—it's cut from the same piece of cloth.

See you soon.

Parents Should Assure Children of Their Loyalty

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Neighbor trouble" which develops between families that have children was the subject of a recent article. And in case you have forgotten, we listed what we considered three important factors that entered into your solution of the matter, provided it reached the point of being a problem. Those were:

1. Your sense of loyalty to your child and your showing of it plainly.
2. Your sense of justice.
3. Your tact and common sense in dealing with others.

I must say that I think my own attitude veers toward the "my country, right or wrong—my country" one. I do believe our children should be aware of our loyalty toward them, no matter what, altho that doesn't mean we should tell them they're right when they're wrong.

Loyalty, in fact, bears some thinking about. First, loyalty and sitting in judgment are not synonymous. Loyalty is different; it's standing by, thru thick and thin. Loyalty isn't blindness; it's steadfastness.

Loyalty is a tremendously important thing for a child to be assured of from his parents. To be assured of his parents' loyalty to him is a needed security for a child. It establishes a faith in human nature, and it gives birth to a capacity of loyalty in the child himself. On this mutual loyalty of child to parent, parent to child, may be built the other loyalties of life.

You will have your own way of being loyal, I suppose. But to me the loyal father or mother is one who doesn't turn on a son or daughter before an accuser, who doesn't at once distrust his or her child's word, and most assuredly doesn't "hold court" on the spot, with the child and the accusing person both present.

Film Industry All Out to Aid War Program

[Marcia Winn of the Tribune staff went to Hollywood to see what was happening there. The following article is the 11th of a series.]

BY MARCIA WINN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 3.—Hollywood is proud of its patriotism. Indeed, its contribution to the war has been notable.

Behind the barred doors of studios, the industry, unknown to the public at large, has made between 550 and 600 training films for the army, navy, and marine corps. It has made these at cost, a sacrifice of sorts which the film industry believes has been made by no other industry. It has given the army 10,200 prints of its most important pictures for exhibition to overseas forces. These, printed on 16 mm. film, most of which was donated by the Eastman and du Pont companies, are an outright gift. The navy, which charges admission to movies shown at sea or in outposts, has obtained prints at actual cost of the print plus about 50 per cent.

Thru the research council of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, it has trained 399 still and motion picture camera men for the signal corps and now is training more.

Long before Pearl Harbor the industry was asked to make training films. The problem was how much to charge; should it be cost, plus overhead? As the industry's overhead averages between 37 and 39 per cent per picture, the government rebelled and offered cost plus 15 per cent. [Into overhead go rent for stage spaces, staff, insurance, interest on money, idle actors, wrong scripts, poor buys—anything that cannot be charged to a specific picture.] The industry rejected the government's offer and settled for cost.

"We really make pictures at cost minus," one executive said. "What we do is charge the government for out-of-pocket money. If we had to hire an actor who didn't work for us, we'd hire him for as little as possible and charge for that. If we had to buy so many actual feet of film, we'd charge for that. We didn't charge for lights, equipment, sets, or stage space. Anything that is here they got for nothing."

The industry, thru its research council, at first hired writers and prepared the scripts for the training films, the scripts subject to official approval. Since December, 1942, this phase of the work has been handled by the signal corps.

Current feature pictures and short subjects, made up into complete film programs [of one long feature and one short, or two medium length features] on 16 mm. sound film, are shown free of charge to service men in every combat area. Shown thru portable projectors, many get to the combat areas long before they reach neighborhood theaters. One, "Tarzan," had its world premiere in Iceland. Generals and privates alike agree in pronouncing this a great and splendid service.

Hollywood also has helped greatly in the making of strategy films. In past years Hollywood camera crews often visited what then were remote corners of the world to get authentic background shots for feature pictures. More than a million feet of 35 mm. film showing coastlines, harbors, and other topographical features of combat areas has been turned over to military and naval intelligence by the industry.

Back in 1928, as an example, a camera crew went to Spanish Morocco to film important landmarks for a feature, "The Bugle Sounds." Footage from it was studied by the office of strategic services in preparation for the North African invasion. Such films as "Head Hunters of New Guinea" and "Moana of the South Seas" have been used for research on the Pacific area, and "The Good Earth," because of its research footage taken in China, by service men en route to China.

In addition, studio research departments have turned over to the government thousands of photographs of towns, cities, roads, beaches, rivers, and other points of military interest which once were used as guides in building studio sets for authentic outdoor scenes. Amateurs and such combination camera men and lecturers as Julien Bryant and Burton Holmes have turned over another million feet of 16 mm. film.

Using as a channel the industry's war activities committee, in which 16,486 theaters are pledged to show approved trailers and short subjects produced by the government or the industry, any one specific phase of the war can be shown to every moviegoer in the United States in three months.

This is an extraordinarily potent psychological weapon. It works like this: The short subject program for 1943 arranged by the now defunct motion picture bureau of the office of war information called for 52 shorts a year. Twenty-six of these, known as the America Speaks series, were produced by the film industry, usually on themes suggested by the OWI. The others, known as Victory films, were made by various government agencies. They covered a variety of subjects from an appeal by a cabinet officer, a British film on Dover, or a soviet short, "All Slavs Unite," to a film on women in defense written by Mrs. Roosevelt with Katharine Hepburn talking or the signal corps' "Prelude to War."

The thought behind this was that every theater in the United States would have one war film each week. Now, fewer than a dozen pictures turned out by Hollywood a year play to more than 12,000 theaters. An audience that large is—in the word with which Hollywood replaced its former superlative, "colossal"—terrific.

Yet every desired war film now plays in at least 12,000 theaters. Specific examples are: "Any Bonds Today," 15,368 bookings; "The Battle of Midway," 13,299; "Your Air Raid Warden," 13,213; "Ring of Steel" [a 10 minute short on the American soldier, Spencer Tracy talking], 13,073; "Winning Your Wings," 13,402. Walt Disney's income tax short, "The New Spirit," played to 11,785 theaters in six weeks, an all-time record.

The Victory films are distributed by the industry without cost to the government. On the America Speaks series the industry recoups its investment.

None of this includes the rather highly publicized work done by the Hollywood victory committee in the bond drive and in entertaining service men here and abroad. Since Pearl Harbor, 1,985 screen personalities have contributed their services to the victory committee's activities. Thirty-nine have gone to combat zones, 118 on camp show tours, 64 on bond selling tours, and 1,007 have made radio appearances or radio transcriptions for the war department to entertain men overseas.

And now, to bring an end to statistics, the film industry normally employs about 18,000 men. By July 1, it had 5,700 in service, a third of whom have been replaced in films. Many of its leading men already have gone to war, and even more important, leading directors. Leading men come a dime a dozen. Fine directors do not.

In the latter category are some of the finest directors of the screen—George Stevens ["The More the Merrier"], William Wyler ["Mrs. Miniver"], John Huston ["The Maltese Falcon"], Frank Capra ["It Happened One Night" and "You Can't Take It with You"], David Miller ["Flying Tigers"], Anatole Litvak ["This Above All"], and Darryl Zanuck. Capra, Miller, and Litvak have just made what is considered one of the finest films of the war, "Conversion and Substitution," a film showing how America's men of science are circumventing our war time loss of strategic raw materials.

Zanuck, top producer and executive at 20th Century-Fox, went into the army as a colonel, made several documentary films [one in Alaska with Huston, one in Tunisia known as "Tunisian Expedition" but dubbed by merry lads in the signal corps "Zanuck's Invasion Army,"] and now is back here. Another executive received a commission, appeared on the streets in uniforms as natty as those of a drum major in a musical comedy, reported to Harrisburg, Pa., and was back a week later, out of uniform. No clarification ensued.

The roll call of leading men in uniforms needs no elaboration here. Gable, Montgomery, Power, Fonda, Stewart, Ladd, Meredith, Douglas [Melvyn]—an interminable list. One, who shall be nameless, tried to get time off from war to come back and star in a new picture. His request was denied.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 3.—Gregory Ratoff is trying to get Xavier Cugat for his next, "The Band Wagon," which Ratoff says will have Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire—which I doubt. Ginger is booked at RKO, and Fred at Metro. Metro's after Cugat to sign up for three more pictures after "Mr. Co-Ed." . . . If Ilona Massey does "School for Brides" for Howard Lang, she'll undoubtedly do it on the screen later. . . . Richard Bonelli sings the title role in "The Waltz King" for Boris Morros. . . . Jeanette MacDonald is off to sing with "Music Under the Stars" symphony as guest soloist in Milwaukee. . . . Lester Cowan and Larry Schwab will star Risë Stevens in their musical "Command to Love." . . . Grace Moore looks stunning. Title of her autobiography will be "You're Only Human Once." She'll spend her stay here in Miriam Hopkins' home. She sings at Hollywood bowl Friday and Saturday.

Bad Guy Turns Good.

George Sanders, who never gets the girl, waited until he could get a lady in "The Lodger." He gets Lady Korda. Barry Byridon, who wrote "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse," is the crime expert on it. . . . Freddie Bartholomew also will be in Moss Hart's radio show. . . . Even actors stopped work to whistle as Orson Welles kissed Rita Hayworth when he came calling on her set. . . . Did you catch Alice Leone Moats' broadcast from Spain? Alice sure has made strides since she came here to supervise her story about a debutante some years back. . . . Frank Sinatra again is trying to buy his contract from Tommy Dorsey. . . . I don't believe Bette Davis will do a re-make of "So Big."

Never Fails.

I phoned Ingrid Bergman that Mary Pickford was too ill to come to the canteen Saturday night; also Alice Faye's baby was sick and she couldn't leave, and I needed a substitute. Ingrid said, "What time do you want me to be there, Hedda?" The bigger they are, the more coöperative they are. Ingrid came, stayed on and on. So did Ann Sheridan, after she'd been a guest at the Masquers club for 250 soldiers from Minter field. Carl Anderle told me it was his 21st birthday. A boy should have something to remember it by. He has. Ann Sheridan kissed him. And then from all over the room boys popped up and said, "I'm just 21 today, too!" . . . At the canteen Red Skelton, Kay Kyser, those wonderful dancers, the Hartmans, and June Havoc put on a swell show. But it's the women who spend hours in the kitchen making sandwiches and coffee who are the real heroines.

No Place to Go.

Mrs. Charlie Chaplin was unhappy when the Mocambo refused to serve her champagne. She came in wearing a long coat, never took it off. Chaplin still keeps trying—almost got his nose broken when photographers snapped a picture of his son dancing with his newest stepmother, Oona, at the Trocadero. Charlie flew into a towering rage, gathered his party together, and stormed out of the place. . . . Mrs. Evelyn McLean, owner of the Hope diamond, stops off at Colorado Springs for marriage of her son to Gloria Hatrick, then, together with Elsa Maxwell, arrives here for two weeks. . . . The Alfred P. Sloans Jr. are doing the town quietly. . . . Surprised to hear Thelma Chrysler Foy was in Reno for the usual reason.

All in the Family.

Ralph Forbes, once married to Ruth Chatterton, is now living with Ruth's mother during his stay here. . . . Columbia is pretty angry with Rose La Rose, of that burlesque house, who calls her co-workers "Uncover Girls." . . . Leigh Jason was brought back to Hollywood by Harry Cohn to do "Restless Lady." It turned out to be a sleeper. Now Leigh's got a long term contract at Columbia. He had been making government shorts at Dayton, O., as a civilian. . . . Paul Muni's Columbia picture will probably be his interpretation of Chopin. . . . Paramount has lost three of its trained newsreel men in the last 60 days. Johnny Lewis lost his life during his first fling over the Ruhr.

Ravinia Again Applauds Szell and Rubinstein

Concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, George Szell, conducting; Artur Rubenstein, pianist. Presented at Ravinia, Tuesday night, Aug. 3, 1943. The program:

"Prayer, 1943" ....Schuman
[First performance in Chicago.]
Symphony No. 97, C major.....Haydn
Concerto for piano, No. 2, C minor...
.......................Rachmaninoff
Mr. Rubinstein.

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Altho the rain spoiled Artur Rubinstein's chance to make Ravinia's attendance gong ring still louder in his third of four appearances with George Szell and the Chicago symphony orchestra, some 2,800 people refused to be daunted by the climate. Having defied a downpour to get to last night's concert, they were rewarded not only by good music, but by weather that improved from the merely misty to the downright delightful.

Apparently, neither bad weather nor the broad challenge of the repertory can halt the magnificence of Mr. Rubinstein's heroic technique. He has gone from Tschaikowsky to Brahms to Rachmaninoff without slackening the seven league stride of his Ravinia success, and last night what the music inevitably lost in instrumental crispness it seemed to gain in tenderness when Ravinia's forest murmurs sang a kind of requiem thru the adagio, in unstressed memory of the tall, stooped, and saturnine Russian who was one of America's idols.

Playing Rachmaninoff's big, fragrant concerto, Mr. Rubinstein realized its romanticism, its brilliance, and its warmth of feeling. He crashed thru its great chords, but they were crashes of rich melody, riding the crest of accompaniment that surged in Slavic splendor. Again the audience refused to leave without an encore, and this time he played two—Prokofieff's March from "The Love for Three Oranges," and De Falla's "Ritual Fire Dance."

Humidity being the horror of stringed instruments, many were the customer bets being placed at the start of the concert as to which of the strings would snap first. The decision was unmistakable because it was a double bass that gave way at the very start of William Schuman's "Prayer, 1943," a work which gets its first Chicago reviews on the composer's 33d birthday. Mr. Schuman insists that his music has no program, and must speak for itself.

This it does, but in rather chaotic fashion that proves little. It is no supplication, as we usually think of a prayer, but rather an insistent expression alternating between statements in the winds and brass and affirmative declarations by the strings, ending in a suddenly tentative decision to let the whole thing rest in the impersonal lap of the Gods. It is not a work that commands response on its first hearing, but it has some amusing, faintly Shostakovich touches, and at times it stirs a mild flick of imaginative response.

As matters turned out, Mr. Szell had a second novelty on his hands, this one Haydn's symphony No. 97, in C major, which seem not to have been heard hereabouts in the 150 odd years of its existence—so the conductor made a speech about it. Even more persuasive was the performance, a brilliant and vivid setting forth of a masterful work strong in line, rich in detail, and flawless in style.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY

Perry.

Thru the years, working every day at her beauty shop, she has watched two generations grow up. "I knew him when he was just a little shaver," or "I knew his mother long before he was born," she will say, recalling some tall khaki clad lad who used to accompany his mother and turn the pages of a picture magazine while mother was being made beautiful.

Thru the years Perry has become a friend of the children and grandchildren, too, of her customers. Most of the boys now are in uniform. Anxiously she awaits the news that comes to their families, and it is doubtful whether heaven hears any more earnest prayers than those of Perry, who has no sons of her own.

Not long ago she inquired about one of her favorites, a boy who, even when he was in college, liked to stop in to see her. They always found much to talk about since the day [when he was such a little boy] that she showed him her Bible. So Perry asked the boy's mother to learn whether the young soldier would like a Bible and — because his was a different creed — what kind?

From an army camp flew back the answer: Yes, he'd like a Bible: one exactly like Perry's. It wasn't easily found, but at last it was bought and mailed. And it was exactly like hers.

In her shop Perry goes on about her work. How many who see her at her tasks know she has been paid so beautiful a compliment?

As the gal, of no matter what age or degree,
Who doesn't call everything "cute"?

Use the What?

See how many of our white collar girls can answer this one:

"Says the boss: 'Take a letter to Smith and Brown. Use the ampersand.'"

"What did he mean?"—The Adposter.

Dis and Data.

Hattie Carnegie can be added to the list of those who came up the hard way; one of seven children, she worked as a cash girl at Macy's when she was 13, was trimming hats at 15, and before she was 20 had opened a shop with the sign "Ladies' Hatter." . . . The white collar now is being glorified in the ads. A picture of a "frilly white collar, with a salute to the woman white collar worker for her devotion to her job and to her country," appears in the July issue of the Office. . . . Are there women caddies around Chicago? Bert Bacharack says there were girl caddies at Cannes in 1939. . . . It is two years since the first 20 Bell Telephone company operators took over the exchange at an army camp. Today there are many such army switchboards — an interesting white collar girl story for after the war.

Mrs. M. H. R., 610 Belden avenue, Chicago—I bought a slab of bacon not long ago and it was so salty we couldn't eat it. So we sliced it, put it in a pan, and parboiled it. Then we poured off the water, fried the bacon, and found it as tasty as any bacon we had ever eaten.

Elinor H., South Bend, Ind.—Now I use only wooden spoons to stir foods in my porcelain enameled saucepans. This certainly keeps the finish in fitter shape.

Mrs. Frank H., Chicago—I learned last year not to store my turnips in the basement of our house. They gave off odors that actually permeated all the rooms. This year we are going to store them in an outdoor storage cellar.

Six South Side Vocalists Pass Festival Test

Morgan Park's singing postman, John R. Leslie, 3576 West 111th street, was adjudged winner of the lyric tenor division last night at an audition of south side singers competing for places in the Chicagoland Music festival. Fifty-nine men and women competed in six divisions in the Shoreland hotel.

Leslie, who is 25 years old, is attached to the Morgan Park branch of the Chicago postoffice. Residents have come to know him by his voice, which he habitually raises as he marches by on his daily house to house route. He said he believed his singing days in Chicago are numbered, however, because he is 1-A in the draft.

William McDaniel, Negro, 746 Oakwood boulevard, won second place, and Raymond G. Orloff, 7010 Prairie avenue, was third.

Eleanor Feichtinger, 20 years old, 7943 South Paulina street, who is studying music at the Chicago Teachers' college, won first honors in the dramatic soprano division in which she competed against 18 contestants. Second place was awarded to Virginia Parker, 6204 Dorchester avenue. Shirley Mae Simmons, 8229 Jeffery avenue, placed third.

The dramatic tenor contest was won by Carl E. Chevedden, 31, of 8409 Vernon avenue, a sanitary engineer employed by the city. His victory represented a comeback from the oblivion of failure in a similar trial three years ago. Second and third places were taken by Ralph J. Lofquist, 10228 Prairie avenue, and Ben Skolnik, 6733 East End avenue.

Herbert Baehr, 26, of 4747 University avenue, a divinity student at the University of Chicago, was adjudged winner of the baritone division. Earl R. Powis, 10034 Prairie avenue, and Clifford J. Sullivan, 1211 East 83d street, finished second and third, respectively.

In the contralto section, Winifred Heckman, 19, of 7818 Crandon avenue, who has been studying voice five years, took first place. Alice Bottema, 7218 Morgan street, and Ruth Reese, Negro, 5158 South Park way, placed second and third.

Mary Jo Brummel, 19, of 4312 Berkeley avenue, won the mezzo soprano contest. Helen L. Robinson, Negro, 22, of 4619 Calumet avenue, and Louise Bernice Shamberg, 16, of 6820 Cornell avenue, took the next two places.

Auditions for south side lyric sopranos, coloratura sopranos, bass baritones, and basses will be held this evening at the Shoreland hotel, concluding the sectional contests. Singers who are to appear in the festival at Soldiers' field on Aug. 21 will be selected at the Cook county finals in the Drake hotel tomorrow evening.

Four Hour Work Day Urged for Students to Ease Labor Shortage

A four hour work day for students as an educational aid as well as a way to relieve the man power shortage was advocated yesterday by Carl M. Horn, chief of occupational information and guidance in Michigan, at the seventh annual guidance and personnel conference sponsored by the Northwestern university school of education.

"Give the students a chance to add to their educational background by working and taking advantage of additional training in industry," he urged. "Industry should adjust itself so that it can use this reservoir of man power which the 15 and 16 year olds can provide."

Other speakers at yesterday's sessions in Scott hall on Northwestern's Evanston campus were Dr. Harry Harmon, director of the University college, Northwestern; Dr. Clifford Erickson, Northwestern school of education professor, and J. Fred Murphy, chief of occupational information and guidance in Indiana.

Music Festival Aids and Army Leaders Confer at Luncheon

Directors of the 14th annual Chicago Music festival, sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., met yesterday at luncheon with army and WAC officers who will direct participation of the services in the show. The army will send three military police bands to Soldiers' field Aug. 21 for the festival and the WAC will send its band and three companies of WACs.

Among army representatives at the meeting were Maj. Harold B. Backman, music officer of the 6th service command; Maj. Earl B. Barkley, who directs the Fort Custer soldiers' chorus; Capt. William H. L. Smythe, WAC recruiting officer; Lt. Fred Dettmar of the 6th sevice command public relations office; Technical Sgt. Horace W. Henderson, director of the 732d military police band, Camp Joliet; Sgt. Hubert Finlay of the 740th M. P. band, Camp Skokie Valley, and Sgt. E. B. Shlimovitz, 739th M. P. band, Mount Vernon, Ill.

The WACs were represented by Capts. Edith M. Davis of headquarters and Ellen F. Leonard, commanding officer of the Fort Sheridan detachment, and Lts. Mary L. Sullivan, Camp Grant; Mildred L. Osby, Fort Custer, and Janet J. McCoy and Paula Amrein of the public relations office.

A feature of the festival will be a tableau showing how WACs relieve soldiers for duty on the fighting fronts. In addition to playing as massed military bands, the military police outfits also will take part in the massed band music.

No Runs, Some Hits, No Errors Is Score for Girl Life Guards

No runs, several hits, and no errors is the score for girl life guards at Wilmette beach since they took over the guard duty on June 19. Some of the male guests who frequent the beach—until they learned what the score was—could not boast with equal pride of "no errors."

"We never have to run from overly friendly visitors, because we carry bamboo poles four feet long with us all the time," Mary Jane Kent, 19 years old, 526 Laurel avenue, Wilmette, who is captain of the corps, said yesterday. "We allow absolutely no funny stuff, and if one of the swimmers tries to get fresh, or won't obey rules, we whack him over the head with a pole. We've had to whack about 15 cadets from Glenview, but they're gradually beginning to catch on."

In Winnetka, girl guards tell a different story, George Caskey, park superintendent, said yesterday. "We have four girls doing life guard duty at the Elder Lane and Lake Front beaches," he said, "and they never have any trouble, or at least none to speak of. If any of the boys try to get smart with the girls—and only a couple of them have—I give them a good heart-to-heart talk and they behave themselves thereafter."

Industry All Out To Build Corsairs

Goodyear, Brewster, and 600 Others Work With Chance Vought Making Navy Fighter

STRATFORD, CONN.—Not the butcher, nor the baker, nor the candlestick maker, but the baby carriage builder and the washing machine manufacturer and the cream separator maker—all are pitching in to help three airplane companies provide America's fighting sons with the Navy's F4U fighter plane, the hard-hitting Vought Corsair.

Two years ago, the Chance Vought Aircraft division of United Aircraft Corporation was just bringing its new Corsair fighter design out of the experimental stage to meet the first orders being placed by the Navy. In light of what has happened since, those first orders were small. With the aid of the few sub-contractors already associated with Vought, it appeared probable that the division could handle the production itself.

Then the program began to grow. Far more extensive facilities were required. This would mean spreading Vought management undesirably thin. Vought sought another solution.

It determined to farm out as much of its work as possible. But regular aircraft subcontractors were jammed up. New sources had to be developed. Today some 600 to 700 subcontractors and vendors, a cross section of American industry, are hard at work supplying parts for the Corsair.

A former manufacturer of baby carriages is building ailerons, a cream separator factory makes engine mounts, a washing machine maker builds wing flaps, a linoleum firm makes tail surfaces and fuselage sections, a can company makes cowlings and tail surfaces.

About 35% of the work on a Vought-built Corsair is done here, 65% elsewhere. It is expected that ultimately it will be 20% here and 80% outside.

Throughout, Vought has maintained a complete manufacturing setup which continues to turn out Corsair parts. Consequently Vought always has a potential alternate source of supply should an emergency arise.

Navy Calls for More Corsairs

The program expanded still further. Even the extensive sub-contracting plans were not sufficient. At the request of the United States Navy, Brewster Aeronautical Corporation, builder of the Buffalo fighter and Buccaneer and Bermuda dive bombers, agreed to build the Corsair fighter which Vought had developed. First engineering drawings were sent to Brewster in September, 1941.

Months went by. Pearl Harbor was a smoking ruin. More Corsairs would be needed than ever before. Existing airplane companies were already over-burdened. Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Inc., had a subsidiary, Goodyear Aircraft Corporation, builder of the famous Goodyear blimps and also supplier of parts to other airplane companies. It was asked to build complete Corsairs as well. First engineering drawings went to Goodyear in February, 1942.

A going airplane concern, Brewster already had its sources of supply. The Corsair was just another airplane to the Brewster production engineers. Close liaison was maintained with Vought but more for the purpose of familiarization with Vought methods and for contact to assure orderly development of the program than to learn how to build an airplane.

Goodyear Starts from Scratch

With Goodyear it was different. A new factory had to be erected, new sources of supplies arranged, workers hired and trained. In general, Goodyear has used the sub-contractors developed by Vought. While the new plant was going up, Vought helped to train the Goodyear engineers and workers. The Corsair was then in the early stages of production with its attendant difficulties but over a period of six months Vought found time to absorb some 1,200 Goodyear people into its production setup for training. In Akron, these Vought-trained Goodyear workers became the nucleus for Goodyear's Corsair division.

Both companies maintain close contact with Vought. Ideas are exchanged. Help is given instantly when shortages develop or trouble arises. And today America is receiving the fruits of this cooperation among normal competitors in the form of fighting Corsairs.

Up to the present the fighting has been done by Corsairs built by Vought. Now the other two companies are coming into production. Goodyear's output is rising, as the factory shakes down into a smoothly running organization. Brewster is still concentrating on its dive bomber program but the first Corsairs, designed by Vought, built by Brewster, have joined the Navy. The schedule calls for its production of Corsairs to mount as the bomber contracts taper off.

Study Corsair in Combat

That, briefly, is the story of how the Navy is being supplied with the Zero-killing Corsair. But that does not tell the entire story of Chance Vought's contribution to the war effort. Wherever the Corsair is in action, there are Vought representatives watching its performance in the ultimate test of combat, cooperating with Navy maintenance crews, seeking flaws, seeking new ways to improve the airplane.

Back home at Stratford, the same engineering genius which put a tight-fitting cowl about a 2,000-hp. Pratt & Whitney engine, fitted a huge Hamilton Standard propeller to it, and around them designed the Corsair, is translating combat lessons into design improvements and working up new ideas of its own. Still other engineering groups at Vought are drawing upon a quarter century of experience to create new designs aimed to make even the sleek Corsair as obsolete as yesterday's models are today.

Jap Leaders Warn of Dark Days Ahead

Pressure Begins to Hurt, As U. S. Army, Navy, Marine Fliers Take Mounting Toll on Ever-Widening Fronts

WASHINGTON—High Japanese officials are warning Japan of difficult times ahead. Premier Hideki Tojo declares numerous difficulties must be overcome. A Japanese Air Force officer states that the Southwest Pacific situation is becoming "increasingly dark" as a result of "fierce and tragic air battles."

Aerial combat reports selected at random show why. The pressure is on, as U. S. Army, Navy and Marine pilots slug the enemy from all sides.

Coming presumably from the Aleutians, the Army's big Consolidated Liberators struck the first blow of the war at the strong Japanese naval and air base on Paramushiru Island. In the Southwest Pacific, Liberators made a round trip of 2,400 miles to smash at Surabaya, leading port and commercial center of Java.

A Marine Corps fighter squadron completed the most recent of several tours of duty in the Solomons. During those tours, it downed 86 Japs, lost but two of its pilots.

9 Jap Ships, 49 Planes Destroyed

The greatest coordinated Army-Navy-Marine aerial attack came when 192 U. S. planes swarmed over the Jap base at Kahili. Nine Jap ships were sunk. Boeing Flying Fortresses, Consolidated Liberators, Grumman Avenger torpedo planes, Douglas Dauntless dive bombers were protected by Marines flying Vought Corsairs, sailors flying Grumman Wildcats and soldiers in Lockheed Lightnings.

Five American planes were lost—three fighters, one dive bomber, one torpedo plane. But, in addition to the nine surface vessels, 49 Japanese planes were destroyed. Of these, the Navy's big Vought Corsairs got 36, Leif Erickson reported for the Associated Press.

Major Gregory Weissenberger, whose Corsair squadron bagged 11 of the Jap planes, had high praise for the bomber pilots. "Those bomber boys," he said, "always say we fighters are great stuff, protecting them. Brother, they've got guts. With Zeros all around them, they go right down to the target without swerving. When we fighters get into trouble, we run. They can't."

Calls Corsair Best Fighter

Equal praise for the fighter pilots came, Mr. Erickson reported, from Lieutenant Howard Paine, torpedo plane pilot. "The fighters did a wonderful job. The F4U (Navy Corsair) is the best damned fighter plane in the world. One took two Zeros off my tail."

Backs Truck; Straightens Blade

Joseph J. Ferrara

SOMEWHERE IN NORTH AFRICA—Repair work in North Africa calls for imagination and plenty of improvisation, according to Joseph J. Ferrara, Hamilton Standard Propellers service man here.

He told of traveling to a marsh to salvage a wrecked plane. "We took the propeller off, used a gas drum as a bench. To straighten a blade we backed a truck over the bent portion . . . a wooden pattern was made to check it. Then the plane was towed to an open field and the patched up propeller flew it back to a depot for complete repairs," he said.

STRATFORD, CONN.—Unstinting tribute to the "men who keep 'em flying" from the air fields of the Southwest Pacific was paid by C. J. McCarthy, vice-president of the United Aircraft Corporation.

Mr. McCarthy had just returned from a 24,000-mile air inspection trip through the fighting areas to observe the combat performance of the Navy's new Corsair fighter.

Some of the Marine mechanics, who worked under the near-primitive conditions at Guadalcanal, received their training at the Chance Vought plant here, Mr. McCarthy reported. "One machine shop was a tent equipped with an all-purpose saw, three lathes and a grinder. With that the boys kept most of the planes in the air three to six hours a day," he said.

He said those conditions no longer prevail on Guadalcanal but added that with every advance, repair units must move up too, and mechanics must be ready to work with almost nothing until supplies catch up.

How's Your Air I.Q.?

Q. What is the recent combat record of U. S. Army fliers?

A. In the first six months of 1943, at a cost of 846 American planes, 3,515 enemy planes were downed definitely, with 1,187 more probably destroyed and 1,260 damaged, according to General Henry H. Arnold, Chief of U. S. Army Air Forces. In addition 121 Axis ships were sunk, 74 probably sunk and 318 hit.

Q. When was a helicopter first successfully flown in this country?

A. September 14, 1939, with Igor I. Sikorsky at the controls at Stratford, Conn., in the backyard of the airplane plant of United Aircraft Corporation.

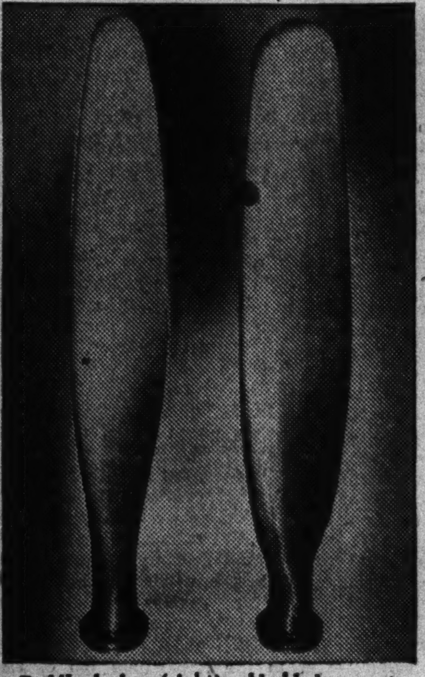
Q. Where is the world's highest commercial airport?

A. In La Paz, Bolivia, 13,400 feet above sea level in the midst of the Andes, served by Pan American-Grace Airways. On this route, Panagra uses Douglas DC-3's with Pratt & Whitney engines turning Hamilton Standard propellers.

Q. What is the highest altitude ever reached by man?

A. 72,394 feet by Lieutenant Colonel A. W. Stevens and Brigadier General Orville Anderson in 1935 in a free balloon.

FORTRESS GETS PADDLES



Paddle design (right) adds blade area to absorb increased engine power on B-17

Fortress Ups Performance With Paddle Propeller

Hamilton Standard Plays Part In High Altitude Bombing

SEATTLE, WASH.—A change in the shape of the propeller blades helped make possible high level precision bombing by Boeing's Flying Fortress.

Concentrated Axis anti-aircraft fire had climbed up to meet early B-17's. The Boeing Aircraft Company set out to develop a Fortress that would fly still higher.

First they "slicked up" the airplane itself. Then, cooperating with engine and Army technicians, they improved high altitude engine performance through refinements in supercharging. This called for greater blade area on the propellers to absorb the added horsepower in the rarified atmosphere. If not remedied, this condition was critical enough to make the added engine power useless.

Since Fortress design will not give adequate clearance for a larger diameter propeller, Hamilton Standard engineers had to find another way to get the extra blade area. A wider paddle propeller was the answer.

The new blade has given the vaunted Fortress outstandingly successful performance at extreme altitudes, and has made the plane more dreaded than ever to America's enemies. The paddle blade is being used to advantage on other planes, notably the Consolidated Liberator.

Former Silk Weaving Mill Now Fashioning Propellers

DARLINGTON, R. I.—Idle for eighteen years, the world's largest silk weaving shed has opened its doors again.

This time it will make propellers, not delicate silken fabrics. The former home of the Royal Weaving Company has become another production unit of the Hamilton Standard Propellers division of United Aircraft Corporation.

Conversion of the idle mill into a propeller factory carries out Hamilton Standard's policy of utilizing existing facilities rather than have the taxpayer provide gleaming new factories to handle the wartime need for its products. Two other former textile mills, located at Westerly, R. I., and Norwich, Conn., already are at work building propellers.

In addition, Remington Rand, Frigidaire and Nash-Kelvinator have been licensed to build Hamilton Standard propellers. The Hamilton Standard home plant is now concentrating more and more upon new and advanced propeller models to insure that propeller development in this country keeps far ahead of the Axis.

Machinery, much of it production equipment from East Hartford, is now being steadily moved into Darlington.

Hamilton Standard Propellers' latest satellite plant began operation the middle of last month when a handful of the many hundreds of workers who will soon be located there began grinding propeller blades.

Army Bombs Rome's Military Targets With Precision Learned at Training Fields

America's Pilots, Navigators, Bombardiers Employ Accurate Technique Acquired In Months of Arduous Practice as Aviation Cadets

FORT WORTH, TEXAS—When Allied bombs fell for the first time on Rome, U. S. Army Air Forces were chosen for the task. Fortresses, Liberators, Mitchells, and Marauders followed each other over the city and every bomb fell within the target areas.

This "pickle barrel" accuracy resulted from the intensive work of the Army Air Forces Training Command based here under Major General Barton K. Yount.

The raid proved again how well the AAFTC has discharged its responsibilities as defined by General Yount:

"The raw material coming to this command is from the start superior to the manpower available to the air forces of our enemies.

"The tools of our trade, in the form of planes and equipment, are available in great quantities and high quality.

"We have ample space and ideal climates in which to work.

"With this ideal setup our responsibility and duty is to give our young men the best training in the world to the end that the United States will have the largest and most powerful air force in existence, able to seek out and kill the enemy wherever he may seek combat or wherever he may hide."

Bombardiers Go Through the Mill

Flying recruits first go to college from six weeks to five months, then to a pre-flight school for nine weeks. The recruits then go to classification centers. After exhaustive physical and psychological tests, they are selected as bombardiers, pilots or navigators. Tests are now so accurate that examiners can predict closely the number of candidates out of each hundred who will win wings.

Men chosen for bombardier schools spend eighteen weeks with the bombsights. They work problems in mathematics, aerodynamics, physics and navigation until their reaction time is trigger fast. In final test missions, embryonic bombardiers have only seconds to set sights on a straight run. Those who pass have demonstrated uncanny accuracy.

Equally important are navigators. After months of training they can guide their planes unerringly through unfamiliar skies, to hit their objective on the nose, at the scheduled minute.

Over a Year Needed to Make a Pilot

Pilots spend over a year learning their jobs, cooperating with bombardiers and navigators so that speed, direction and altitude will be perfect during the bomb run.

Pilot cadets log a minimum of 130 hours of flying time in primary and basic schools and become proficient in navigation, radio work, weather interpretation, sky discipline.

When pilots finish basic school they are reclassified into single engine and multi-engine pilots and sent to advanced school. Here the fighter pilot gets nearly 100 hours more flying time. He continues study of navigation, learns the tricks of combat, spends hours in formation flying, cross-country missions and target practice.

They Learn Planes Inside Out

Bomber cadet pilots at advanced school learn to handle multi-engined planes, learn to find their way despite storms or strange terrain, and practice fixed gunnery, formation flying, and radio.

But their training is not finished. Next they go to a transition school.

They learn the plane they are to fly in combat inside out. They study emergency procedures—how best to fly a Consolidated Liberator on only two engines or a Martin Marauder on only one engine—how to handle a ship with a partially destroyed rudder, aileron or wing—how to land in the water or make belly landings when the wheels have been shot away.

No enemy fighters were met over Rome. But every bomber was prepared to defend itself with accurate fire, the result of a rigid six-weeks gunnery course which every bomber crew member must pass.

Douglas Airliner Stars In Two New War Roles

Hits Sicily with Paratroops; Spans Atlantic with Glider

ADVANCED AIR BASE IN TUNISIA—Two epics of the air were written within a week by that airline veteran, the Douglas DC-3. In Sicily it led the invasion with loads of paratroopers hours before seaborne fighters smashed the coast. For the British it made aviation history towing a loaded glider for the first time across the Atlantic.

Spearheading the Sicilian invasion, the Douglas transports dropped load after load of paratroopers and supplies behind enemy nerve centers—power plants, rail concentrations, and air fields.

The Geronimo, one of the unarmed and unarmored Douglas transports, took a beating worse than average. An Axis shell smashed a four by six foot hole in the side, tore off the door and killed one trooper. Another hit carried away part of the left stabilizer.

"The shock nearly spun the controls out of my hands," the pilot said. His co-pilot reported that they had only half a plane left. Somehow that "half" kept flying; the Geronimo dropped its troops and got home safely.

A flying colonel said after the action: "Give them half a chance and they will always bring you back."

Meanwhile another Douglas towed the first glider across the Atlantic. Twenty-eight hours after leaving Montreal, the glider floated to earth with a ton and a half of vaccines, radio and engine parts.

The Douglas transports were driven by Pratt & Whitney Twin Wasp engines and Hamilton Standard Hydromatic propellers.

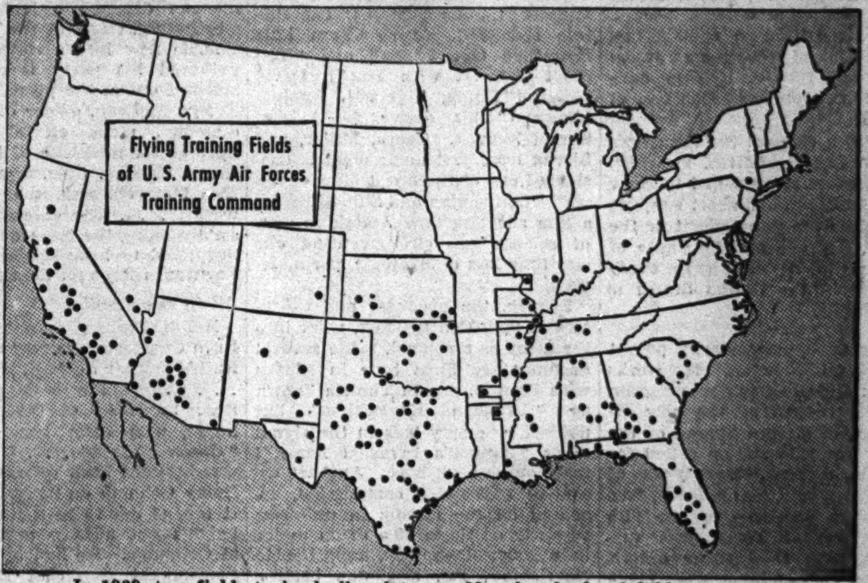
ARMY SETS SAFETY RECORDS AT AIR TRAINING FIELDS



In 1939, two fields trained all cadets . . . Now hundreds of fields are needed

In 1939 the Army had only two air training fields — Kelly and Randolph — with a yearly output of about 500 pilots. Now the whole southern half of the United States is dotted with fields to supply pilots and crews for the swarms of new combat planes taking to the air each month.

Despite this tremendous expansion and the faster, hotter planes the boys fly, a comparison between the ten pre-war years and 1942 shows a significant decrease in the rate of Army Air Forces airplane accidents per 1,000 flying hours.

This record reflects the meticulous care which marks every phase of the program of the AAFTC. Improved training methods have been standardized through central instructors schools. Safety officers check at every point.

The record also reflects the dependability of the equipment and the skill of maintenance crews. At one advanced single-engine school, in operation for two years, cadets flying North American AT-6's powered by Pratt & Whitney engines and using Hamilton Standard propellers have yet to report an engine or propeller failure.

A recent analysis disclosed that more than three-quarters of the training accidents were caused by personnel failures. Materiel failures accounted for less than one-fifth, miscellaneous (such as weather) and undetermined causes were responsible for the rest.

NAVY GOODYEAR BLIMPS ROLL UP PERFECT RECORD ESCORTING CONVOYS

AKRON, O.—Thousands of Allied ships have sailed safely through sub-infested waters under the protection of Goodyear-built blimps. Not one blimp-convoyed ship has been lost, the U. S. Navy revealed last month when it honored these K-ships as "able guardians of shipping, both on convoy protection and anti-submarine patrol."

Beginning the war with only seven K-ships, the Navy has ordered 200 more from Goodyear, many of which are already in service. They are powered by 600-hp. Pratt & Whitney Wasp engines, turning Hamilton Standard propellers.

The new blimps carry depth bombs and machine guns, and "ingenious means have been perfected for spotting subs, and cooperating with surface units," the Navy said.

There are twelve Goodyear K-ship squadrons functioning now in the Atlantic, Pacific and the Gulf of Mexico.

CUBS SEND LEE TO PHILS FOR LIVINGSTON

North Siders Obtain Young Catcher.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

(Picture on page 23.)

Bill Lee, a Cub pitching star and favorite personality since the start of the 1934 season, was traded to the Philadelphia Phillies yesterday in exchange for Catcher Mickey Livingston. The deal was announced at about the time it was decided Wrigley field was not in playing shape for the final of the Phillies-Cubs series and postponed until the Phillies return in September.

Mickey Livingston.

Lee accompanied the Phillies to Pittsburgh and is slated to work against the Pirates there tonight. Livingston suffered an injury to his right hand in the first inning of the second game of the double header in Wrigley field Sunday after having driven in the two second inning runs which beat Claude Passeau in the first game.

President William D. Cox of the Phillies came to Chicago from St. Louis ahead of the Phillies last Friday to bid for Lee's services. At the time of THE TRIBUNE's account of the transaction last Saturday morning Livingston's name had not been mentioned publicly, tho it was known the Cubs were hot after a catcher because of Clyde McCullough's 1-A status in the draft. Livingston, who is 26 years old, is classified 3-A and is the father of two children.

Livingston Now Hitting .248.

The new Cub catcher was born in Newberry S. C., weighs 180 pounds and is 6 feet 1 inch tall. He has been with the Phillies two years prior to this season. He was drafted by the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1940 and handed on to the Phillies in the deal that sent Kirby Higbe to the Flatbushers. He has appeared in 82 games for the rejuvenated Phils this year and is hitting .248.

It was necessary for both the Cubs and the Phillies to get waivers before the deal could be effected. Disposal of Lee was said to be the forerunner of another transaction involving the Cub pitching staff, but no details were made available pending actual closing of the transfer. the American association.

Lee will go down in the sports archives as one of the all-time great Cub stars. The Cubs bought him from Columbus at the end of the 1933 season for a reported $40,000, after he had won 21 victories in the Amercan association.

Won 20 in 1935.

Bill did not immediately hit his stride. In 1934 he won 13 and lost 14. But he was a big factor in the winning of the National league pennant in 1935 when he won 20 and lost 6, with an earned run average of 2.96.

In 1936 Lee won 18 and lost 11 and tapered off to 14 and 15 in 1937. Bill came back with a bang in the Cubs' last pennant year, 1938, when he won 22 while losing 9, with an earned run average of 2.66. In 1939 Lee won 19 while losing 15. He was in ill health in 1940 and 1941 but an operation late in 1941 restored him and with last year's mediocre team he won 13 and lost 13, working in 220 innings.

This year Lee was pursued by bad luck and had won only three while losing seven. He is the type of pitcher who needs and likes lots of work, and Passeau, Bithorn, Wyse, and several others going well for the revived Cubs, he was not getting a regular turn.

Lee is 33, 8½ years younger than his new pitching boss, Freddy Fitzsimmons.

The Cubs will relax today but tomorrow Hi Bithorn will go against the Cincinnati Reds in a try for his sixth straight, his 14th of the season.

Lewis Upsets Mathisen in Amateur Golf

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Finch Lewis, a 30 year old blond whose slender frame will presently be encased in a soldier's uniform, yesterday practiced sharpshooting of another kind to lead a bit of a revolution in the 39th annual city Amateur Golf tournament at Jackson park. Finch's markmanship took the form of a 69, one under par, with which he brought down no less than Harold Mathisen of Woodridge, four time winner of the old title, including last year. The match score was 2 and 1, and Lewis played out the eighteenth in par four for his medal of 69.

Lewis Triumph Highlight.

The unexpected Lewis triumph was the highlight of a day which saw not only Mathisen, but a few other members of the old guard eliminated. Bill Anderson of Longwood brought off another upset when he dropped a 50 foot putt on the last green for the par 70 that defeated Police Sgt. Frank McNamara, a 1942 semi-finalist in the tournament, 1 up.

Harry Wils, Lincoln park veteran, who formerly held the Midwest Amateur crown, drew Jack McMaster, the Downers Grove milkman, who had tied for the medal on Monday, and went away a 3 and 2 loser.

Chuck Evans Wins.

While Mathisen, McNamara, and Wils were being ushered to hasty exits a couple of other campaigners were moving along. One was Chick Evans, former National Open and Amateur champion from Edgewater. The 53 year old Chick, who won the City amateur three times in his early 20s and went to the 1942 final against Mathisen, had the easiest road of all in taking a 5 and 4 match from young Jerry McGinnis of the home club. Meanwhile, Bob Dougherty, the Harrison Tech football coach who won the Midwest amateur a couple of weeks ago, and Ed Kletcke of Navajo fields, 1941 winner, were having a deal more bother in winning their first round matches. Dougherty, who will meet Evans in this morning's second round, had to go almost the whole route to take a 2 and 1 struggle from John Bodevin of the Builders' Tee club. Kletcke was forced to the same 17th green before he could oust Ed Mansfield of the home club by 2 and 1.

Alex Zgorka, the Burnham Woods steel worker who shared the qualifying honors with McMaster, off of a fine 68, kept going with the most decisive conquests of the day, a 9 and 7 rout of Al Davis of Midlothian in which Alex was out in 33, one under par, and seven up at the turn. The other favorite, Hymie Judelson of Old Orchard, the 1936 champion, and big Earl Gocke of Big Run, a star in the 1942 All-American Amateur, continued to the second round with easy 4 and 3 victories in which each scored a 73.

Hold 16 Matches Today.

Today's single round of sixteen matches, beginning at 9 o'clock, will reduce the field to sixteen. Two eighteen hole matches will be played tomorrow, with Friday's semi-finals and Saturday's championship match being set for 36 holes.

The card for the Lewis-Mathisen match follows:

Par out	444	443	434—34
Lewis out	444	454	423—34
Mathisen out	354	444	434—35

Lewis leads, 1 up.

Par in	444	355	43
Lewis in	433	355	44
Mathisen in	444	354	44

Lewis wins, 2 and 1.

REDSKIN COACH THINKS HIGHLY OF WEE WILLIE

Calls Wilkin Best Pro Tackle.

BY EDWARD PRELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 3.—Wee Willie Wilkin was leaning against a goal post, arms folded across his mammoth chest. He was a picture of magnificent indolence. From the other end of the field came Sam Baugh's high pitched voice, "Wilkin, you ain't moved in 10 minutes." "I'm holding up the goal posts," Wee Willie yelled back at Samuel, who's usually too busy to check up on his Washington Redskin team mates.

Wee Willie is 6 feet 5 inches tall and is listed at 269 pounds, tho it is said he never has allowed any one to peek over his shoulder while he was on the scales. The figure, then, may be slightly conservative.

Wilkin, starting his sixth season with the Redskins, who will be seen on Aug. 25 in the College All-Star game in Evanston, is the best tackle in the National Football league. This is on the word of Turk Edwards, Redskin line coach, and himself a gigantic tackle of other years on Redskin teams. Turk's eyes positively light up when he gets on the subject of Wee Willie Wilkin, the pride of Grass Valley, Cal.

Doesn't Need Finesse.

"He's so big and stout he doesn't need to use any finesse," said Turk. "He just overpowers the other guys. Maybe you'd like to know about Willie's first game with the Redskins. I remember it well, for he he was in there that day against the Detroit Lions, because on the Sunday before, the Giants' 'busted my collar bone. Well, on every play, Willie would look over to me and I'd wave him into position. He was the greenest football player I'd ever seen in the big leagues.

"Detroit started a punt and their full back, Ace Gutowsky, was supposed to see Wee Willie was kept in his place. Willie wouldn't cooperate one bit. He picked up the 205 pound full back and tossed him right back into the path of the kicker. While Ace was in the air the ball hit him where he sits down, bounced away and we recovered the ball. He's been doing strong man stuff like that ever since."

Turk continued with his eloquent tribute. Wee Willie moves down fast under punts. Wee Willie is an excellent fellow at kicking off. Wee Willie can punt the ball farther than Baugh, tho off Sam's performance in the 1942 championship game, the Chicago Bears, who were there, won't believe this.

Rescued from Boxing.

Wilkin played a little football at St. Mary's. George Preston Marshall, owner of the Redskins, heard about Wee Willie and when the team came out to the coast in the winter of 1937 the big kid was given a tryout.

The Redskins moved up their training tempo this morning, with dummy scrimmage, which means two lines faced each other, with the rivals only parrying each other as the plays were run off. This afternoon they dressed for the photographers. They will start barging into the tackling dummy tomorrow.

It appeared today Andy Farkas, the Redskins' stubborn holdout, is about to surrender, but even if this happens, Coach Dutch Bergman is doubtful Andy will be of much use to the team against the College All Stars, since he is somewhat of a slow starter. Some of Andy's Washington admirers are said to be back of the big full back's campaign for more money. It is reported he has been shocked by the indifference of his employers, who feel they have made a most generous offer.

NBA TO REQUIRE TITLE DEFENSES EVERY 3 MONTHS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3 (AP).—The National Boxing association announced today that for the duration of the war it would require fight champions not in the services to defend their titles at least once every three months against logical contenders.

N. B. A. heretofore has required a championship defense every six months. The new rule, association officials said, "is intended to increase interest in boxing."

HARMAN SAYS SEAHAWK CARD IS UNAFFECTED

Iowa City, Ia., Aug. 3 (AP).—Lt. Comdr. Harvey Harman, athletic director of the navy preflight school here, said today he expected the Seahawks' 1943 football schedule would be unaffected by a new navy order prohibiting navy athletic teams from going outside specified districts for competition.

Harman, who returned to the city for the first time since the order was made public Sunday, issued this statement:

"So far we have not received any directive or official copy of the regulations regarding the new rule. All we know is what we have read in the newspapers. On the basis of that information it would appear that the Seahawk football schedule would be unaffected for 1943."

CORWIN CLATT TO REPORT AT N. U. SATURDAY

Ebli, Huber Accept; Squad Reaches 59.

Volunteers Wanted

COLLEGE and high school musicians who wish to participate in the All-Star band should make their availability known to Ray Dvorak, whose address is University of Wisconsin Bands, Madison, Wis.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Corwin Clatt, Notre Dame's 205 pound full back who crashed thru enemy lines last fall for an average of five yards a smash, has joined the All-Star football squad for the game Aug. 25 with the Washington Redskins. Clatt will report Saturday to Head Coach Harry Stuhldreher at Northwestern university.

Two other Notre Dame men, William Huber and Ray Ebli, ends, also accepted invitations yesterday to participate in the 10th annual game promoted by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. The squad now numbers 59.

Acquisition of Clatt gives the 1943 All-Stars the finest group of full backs in the history of the game with the champions of the National Football league. Clatt will open competition Saturday against such full backs as Roy McKay of Texas, Pat Harder of Wisconsin, Steve Filipowicz of Fordham, and Bill Zapalac of Texas A. & M., for the starting assignment against the Redskins.

Best Driving Back.

Opponents of Notre Dame last fall were unanimous in naming Clatt as the best driving back they met. Cornie was rated as outstanding in the Irish camp despite the fact he was a sophomore. He has two more seasons which must wait, however, until aftetr the war. He now is in the army and is stationed at Camp Grant.

Clatt is a splendid defensive player. When he was not carrying the ball, his devastating blocking opened up the opponents' defenses for others to gain. Cornie also qualified as a 60 minute player because of his exceptional endurance. In his freshman year at Notre Dame the former East Peoria, Ill., star, was rated a step too slow. Clatt worked at sprints for a year and last season no one accused him of slowness.

82 Yard Touchdown Run.

The Great Lakes Bluejackets certainly learned something of Clatt's speed. At the end of the first half of their game with the Irish last December in Soldiers' field, the sailors led, 13 to 0. On the first play after the kickoff Clatt ran 82 yards for a touchdown. Two minutes later Creighton Miller, Notre Dame's right half back, ran 68 yards to score and the game ended in a 13 to 13 tie. Thus, the All-Stars will have the men who accomplished these touchdowns, for Miller previously had accepted an invitation to join the college squad.

Bill Huber, altho a sophomore last season, was regarded as one of the finest left end prospects. He registered for the draft last spring and also is at Camp Grant. Huber's home is in Tuscola, Ill., where he was captain of the 1940 football team which successfully defended its conference championship.

Ebli Strengthens Ends.

Acquisition of Ebli gives additional strength to the group of All-Star ends. Ebli played in last year's All-Star game. He is 23 years old, weighs 200 pounds, and is 6 feet 2 inches tall. His home is in Ironwood, Mich., where he attended St. Ambrose High school. In the 1940 game with Southern California Ebli caught a 45 yard pass by Dippy Evans to spark Notre Dame's 10 to 6 victory.

PUT IN TO-RUN ON TURF TODAY IN FLOSSMOOR

Take Wing Also Entered in $5,000 Race.

Flossmoor Field

EIGHT horses were named in the overnight entries for today's $5,000 Flossmoor handicap, a gallop of a mile and a sixteenth on the grass course at Washington Park. The field, in order of post position, follows:

	Wt.	Jockey.	Pr. Odds.
Air Master	107	G. Burns	7-1
Valdina Way	100	No boy	25-1
Samborambon	109	No boy	30-1
Blue Pennant	112	O. Grohs	15-1
Put In	117	J. Haritos	7-2
Martian	102	N. Jemas	12-1
Take Wing	118	No boy	3-1
Beautiful II.	108	No boy	3-1

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The grass course performers will go at it again today in the third of the series of four stakes which will determine the championship among these specialists during the coördinated Arlington-Washington Park meetings.

George Stemple's Put In will enter this afternoon's $5,000 Flossmoore handicap with 117 pounds on his back and the prestige he acquired in winning the first two of these stakes—the $5,000 Rolling Lawn and the $7,500 Grassland during the Arlington Park session.

In the former event he had the assistance of a decision which disqualified Clyde Troutt's Take Wing, but in his second effort he scored entirely on his own. In those races he carried 108 and 110 pounds.

Only Head Margin.

Take Wing, which made a rough run to an American record of 1:44 for the mile and a sixteenth on the occasion of his disqualification, will try to be a bit more gentle this afternoon. He will carry 118 instead of the 116 which he toted when he set the above mentioned mark for the same route which he'll travel today. His margin over Put In was only a head in the record breaking effort.

The two top weighted horses will have quite a few lightly burdened rivals running at them—notably Beautiful II. With 108 pounds, this horse will get considerable backing inasmuch as he likes the turf very well. Air Master gets in at 107. The others include Valdina Way, Samborambon, Blue Pennant, and Martian.

Alsab Impressive.

Alsab continued his preparation for his 1943 debut in Saturday's $10,000 Chicago handicap by breezing six furlongs yesterday in 1:17 over a muddy track. The clockers considered his half mile in :48 3-5 quite impressive under the track conditions which prevailed.

John Marsch's Occupation, Woolford farm's Signator, and Eddie Anderson's Burnt Cork, all of which are scheduled to oppose Alsab on Saturday, also were on the track for workouts yesterday.

Georgie Drum, the 9 to 2 second choice in the betting, won the Phar Lap purse, main event on yesterday's program. He sloshed thru the mire to finish this mile run a length and a half in advance of a 15 to 1 shot, Pirate. The 5 to 2 favorite, Valdina Groom, was third, six lengths further back, after getting away very badly and going wide in the stretch. The prices on the winner were $11.20, $6, and $3.40.

CHICAGO CARDS GET NAUGHTON, DE PAUL END

Clem Naughton, an end who was one of De Paul university's outstanding athletes a few years back, and Guards Walter Lenczyk and Dick Clement, all Chicagoans, have been signed by the Chicago Cardinals and will report to the Cardinal training camp in Waukesha, Wis., Aug. 20, Owner Charles Bidwill announced yesterday.

Lenczyk, former St. Joseph's [Indiana] college star, is a 190 pounder who is 5 feet 10 inches tall, and Clement, ex-Creighton athlete, weighs 180 and is also 5 feet 10 inches tall. Clement last season played with the Austin Bears while Lenczyk, who left St. Joseph's a year ago, has been playing softball to keep in condition.

Naughton was an all-round athlete at De Paul. In addition to his ability as a football player he was a member of Demons basketball teams prior to his graduation in 1939. Clem is 6 feet in height and weighs 200 pounds.

NOVA, SAVOLD TO GET PHYSICAL CHECKUP TODAY

Each Works Out for Bout Next Monday.

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Chairman Sheldon Clark of the Illinois athletic commission has ordered Dr. Edward J. Buchan, commission physician, to conduct a medical examination of Lee Savold and Lou Nova in the Ringside loop gymnasium this afternoon. The examination appears to be unnecessary since the men probably never were in better condition than yesterday when they continued sparring drills for their 10 round bout in Wrigley field next Monday.

Savold went three rounds yesterday with Nate Bolden, while Nova sparred two rounds each with Lindy Elliott and Pvt. Vince Calzaretto.

The rivals will not box again until tomorrow, each confining today's activities to road work in the morning and the physical examination this afternoon.

Chairman Clark is of the opinion that Nova is in better form than when stopped by Champion Joe Louis. Lou weighed 203 before yesterday's drill. He will scale 200 pounds for the impending match, Trainer Ray Arcel said last night.

Funeral services for Mrs. Katherine M. Keough, sister of Inspector Harold Ryan of the state athletic board, will be held this morning in Resurrection church, Leamington avenue and Jackson boulevard. . . . Burial will be in Calvary cemetery. . . . Phil Collins, veteran referee of the Golden Gloves tournaments, will officiate at an amateur show this evening in Columbus park. . . . Harry Dublinsky, member of the Veteran Boxers' association of Illinois, has been given his medical discharge from his army unit at Fort Sill, Okla.

Chicago Net Entries Lose in National

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 3 [Special].—Altho seeded favorites captured their matches in the second round of singles play in the Nation Juniors and Boys tennis tournament today, the weather man forced postponement of much of the day's scheduled play.

The postponement wasn't soon enough, however, to save two Chicagoland competitors from defeat. John Wenrich, Chicago, was beaten by Oliver Roddey, Charlotte, N. C., 6-0, 6-1, and Keston Deimling, River Forest, lost to his fellow Illinoisan Charles Schaaf, Highland Park, 8-6, 6-0, both in the boys' division.

Three doubles teams were seeded in each classification with Howe Atwater and Jerry Evert, Chicago, drawing No. 3 in the juniors branch of play. Bob Falkenburg, Hollwood, and Jim Brink, Seattle, are seeded No. 1 in the juniors.

Tigers Beat Yankees, 4-0; Lose, 12 to 4

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—For one half of a double header today, the Yankees couldn't get a man past first base. Then they made an extra base parade out of it the rest of the way and split the double header with the Detroit Tigers.

Virgil [Fire] Trucks and little Lefty Roy Henshaw, who took over when Trucks pulled an arm muscle in the sixth inning, combined on a fancy three hitter to blank the Yanks, 4 to 0, in the opener. In the second game the Yankees collected 16 hits, including two homers by Charley Keller, and coasted in with a 12 to 4 decision. Scores:

Argument with Umpire Costs Sewell $50 Fine

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 3 (AP).—National League President Ford C. Frick today fined Pitcher Rip Sewell of the Pirates $50 for failing to leave the dugout immediately when ordered to do so by Umpire Lou Jorda during last night's Boston-Pittsburgh game. Sewell again was ordered from the Pirate bench today, even before the game got under way, evidently for protesting too loudly about the fine.

WHITE SOX OPEN 4 GAME SERIES IN DETROIT FRIDAY

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 3 [Special].—The White Sox took off from here for Detroit this evening, annoyed at themselves for dropping their final to the Athletics last night but comforted after a fashion by the knowledge that the eastern jaunt as a whole was profitable. They won 11 while losing 7, but will keep tongue in cheek until the trip is completed with the four scheduled against the Tigers.

Curtright May Be Ready.

Manager Jim Dykes hopes to have his No. 1 combination functioning in Detroit starting next Friday afternoon and that should help. Guy Curtright, who went home for rest after a beaning episode in Washington last Wednesday night is expected to take over his left field job against the Tigers. As the athlete is a member of the Big Six, what with his .319 average, his presence is important.

Hitting isn't the only reason Curtright's help is desirable. During his absence Ralph Hodgin has been in the outfield instead of third base and the latter position has been none too strong under the care of either Tony Cuccinello, now injured, or Jim Grant. With Curtright available Hodgin can return to the hot corner and that not only will tighten the defense but give the enemy three dangerous hitters in a row to fret about. One is Luke Appling with his .331, another Hodgin with his 341, and lastly, Curtright.

Appling Leads Batters.

It has been a long time since the Sox have done much individual leading in league figures but at the moment they are pacing three departments. Appling has a 10 point edge in batting, Hodgin not being in the competition because he hasn't batted 250 times. Wally Moses, who stole three bases from his former Athletic mates last night has a first place total of 33. Orval Grove, who'll work against the Tigers Friday, tops the pitching parade with 10 victories against one loss, the latter still being under protest.

CARDINALS BEAT DODGERS, 7 TO 4; 15TH FOR COOPER

St. Louis Is Outhit by Brooklyn, 10 to 6.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 3 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals, chasing Max Macon out of the box with five first inning runs, coasted to a 7 to 4 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers tonight before a near capacity crowd of 29,638. Big Mort Cooper, the Cardinals' ace pitcher, gained his 15th triumph of the season.

The victory gave the Cardinals a clean sweep of the four game series.

Cooper fanned six, including two pinch hitters, Frenchy Bordagary and Albie Glossop.

Walker, Cooper, and Owen, chased for fighting in the first game of Sunday's double header, shook hands when Owen came to the plate in the second inning. Owen fanned.

Brooklyn Manager Leo Durocher was banished by Umpire Al Barlick in the fourth inning, apparently for riding the umpires. Score:

GIANTS BEAT REDS, 5-3.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 3 (AP).—The New York Giants wound up their most dismal road trip in years with a victory today, pounding two pitchers for 13 hits to whip the Reds, 5 to 3.

The longest errorless run by a pitcher in big league history came to an end in the third inning when Elmer Riddle, fielding Harry Feldman's bunt and trying for a force of Billy Jurges at second, threw wide past Shortstop Eddie Miller and was charged with his first error since beginning his major league career in 1939. His string of 101 games without an error surpasses the previous big league record of 88 made by Ted Lyons of the Chicago White Sox from Aug. 11, 1934, to June 12, 1938. Score:

NEW RADIO CHAIN OWNER TO SELL STOCK TO PUBLIC

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—Edward J. Noble, manufacturer and former undersecretary of commerce, who signed an agreement to purchase the Blue radio network last week for $8,000,000, said today that he hoped eventually to distribute wide public holdings in the radio chain. At present, Noble said, he had no associates in the ownership.

Pending approval of the exchange of ownership by the federal communications commission, Noble said that network operations would continue as usual. He previously announced that all officers and personnel of the Blue network would be retained.

"I plan to broaden not only the scope of public service offered by the network itself," Noble said, "but I hope eventually to distribute wide public holdings in the company."

Noble added that he hoped to distribute holdings in the network to affiliated stations in the chain.

LAKE MICHIGAN GIVES UP CHUTE OF LOST FLYER

Madison, Wis., Aug. 3 [Special].—Maj. Harold Patterson, public relations officer at Truax field, disclosed tonight that United States coast guardsmen have found a parachute identified as belonging to Lt. Col. Deward Hulse Jr. on the west side of Lake Michigan. Col. Hulse, director of radio mechanics training at the army radio school here, has been missing since last Monday, when he took off in a basic trainer plane for Selfridge field, Mich.

Coast guardsmen spotted the parachute bearing Col. Hulse's name, Maj. Patterson said, 20 miles off shore between Milwaukee and Racine. It is believed the army flyer's plane crashed into Lake Michigan. An intensive four state search has been conducted for Col. Hulse, who was last contacted by radio shortly after clearing Janesville.

Col. Hulse, 29 years old, attended Highland Park [Chicago] High school and was graduated from West Point in 1936. He came to Madison from Scott field, Ill., and resided here with his wife and son.

ONLY FOUR OPA PROFESSORS TO BE HIT BY BAN

No 'Sweep-Out' Among Capital Theorists.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—Only four of the several dozen professors now employed in the capital by the office of price administration will be discharged under the recent congressional restriction on university theorists in price policy posts, it was disclosed today.

Chester Bowles, new OPA general manager, made the disclosure in a pep talk to boost morale of OPA employes sagging under increasing criticism of the agency's policies.

Discussing the restriction, Bowles said that it will not require the "sweeping out of all the professors from OPA."

The new OPA manager said he and Price Chief Prentiss M. Brown have met with Controller Gen. Lindsay Warren on the significance of the congressional rule, which bars any person engaged in directing price programs from OPA after Aug. 16 unless he has had experience in business, industry, or commerce.

Hits Two Capital Posts.

As a result, he said, it was determined that the posts of chief price deputy and price division heads are the only ones in the capital affected by the professor rule. Also affected, he said, are the jobs of nine regional administrators and 105 area directors outside the capital. Most of the OPA's professors are stationed in the capital, however.

Of the seven jobs in Washington to which Bowles and Brown are applying the no-professor rule, four are held by former professors, one by a business man, and two are vacant.

The four expected to be ousted are Donald Wallace, deputy price chief, former Harvard university professor; Clair Wilcox, industrial materials price division chief, formerly an economics professor at Swarthmore college; R. B. Heflebower, food price division director, previously dean of the school of commerce at Washington State college, and Ben W. Lewis, head of the industrial manufacturing price division, former Oberlin professor.

The posts of division chiefs on textile prices and services and consumer durable goods prices are vacant, while the fuel price division is headed by Sumner T. Pike, a business man.

Leaves Several Theorists.

By interpreting the no-professor rule as applying only to division heads, OPA leaves on the pay roll several theorists who head key price branches, such as meats and fats, dairy products, and drugs and chemicals. Also unaffected are professor-economists in charge of rationing, who were not dealt with by the congressional rule.

An OPA spokesman said he thought all nine regional heads have had business experience, but that some of the 105 area directors would be forced to leave because of their exclusively professorial backgrounds.

Bowles told the staff he has at least three business men in mind whom he expects to bring to OPA, but he did not identify them.

It was learned that he is considering James F. Brownlee, now with the war food administration, as chief price deputy to replace Wallace.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with queries.]

NAVY WARRANT OFFICERS.

Requisitions are open again in the navy for warrant carpenters and warrant machinists. The principal requisite for a warrant officer commission in the navy is specialization in the field plus supervisory experience such as a foreman or superintendent. For warrant carpenters, the navy wants men who have had considerable experience as carpenters in wooden hull boat construction or, lacking such experience, they should be expert cabinet makers, shipwrights, patternmakers, shipfitters, or metalsmiths. They must be between 28 and 45 years of age.

The warrant machinists should have had experience as foremen or superintendents in shops or plants where diesel, gasoline, or steam engines are made or repaired. Foremen or superintendents of repair machine shops, boiler inspectors, and material inspectors also might be able to qualify. Candidates must be between the ages of 28 and 44. Formal education is not of major importance in either of these requisitions, but the candidate should have demonstrated leadership ability. Apply at the Office of Naval Procurement, Board of Trade building, Chicago.

W. E. Y. writes: "A friend told me he saw something in your column a long time ago about the government paying the premiums on the insurance policies of a man going into service. How does one do this? I've got $20,000 worth of insurance on which I've paid the premiums for over 10 years, and I should hate to have it lapse."

ANSWER: The government, thru the Veterans' administration, will take over the payment of premiums on civilian insurance, but the upper limit is $10,000 face value, provided such insurance does not contain a "war clause" [disclaimer of liability of the company if the person enters military service]. Application may be made thru the insurance company or by letter to the Veterans' administration, Washington, D. C., or by obtaining and filing form 380 at the nearest Veterans' Facility.

O. I. R. writes: "A friend in the navy said the government publishes a booklet of advice and information for the men in service and their dependents. Do you know where to get it and what is the charge?"

ANSWER: The title is "Personal Affairs of Military Personnel and Aid for Their Dependents," available for 10 cents from the government printing office, Washington, D. C. Things change so fast that it is out of date before it is published, and the booklet fails to give information on matters which trouble most people. Our "Advice to Yanks" series probably is more helpful and may be had by sending us a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

PRIMARY BATTLE IN KENTUCKY IS DEMOCRAT ROW

G. O. P. Gets Ammunition for Election Race.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 3.—Kentucky Republicans say they have ringside seats at a battle royal between Democrats at next Saturday's state primaries that is furnishing the G. O. P. with a good line of political ammunition for the November election. With only a few contests the Republicans are not taking the stump but instead are building up party machinery, while three Democratic candidates for the governorship nomination are tearing into each other hammer and tongs.

They are J. Lyter Donaldson, former state commissioner of highways; Ben Kilgore, who was secretary of the Kentucky farm bureau federation for 12 years, and Lt. Gov. Rhodes K. Meyers.

Charges that the corrupt practices act was violated in the collection of campaign funds in the election four years ago, have been an explosive phase in the Democratic campaigning. D. C. Moore, who resigned a month ago as assistant director of the division of motor transportation, declared in his letter of resignation that he collected $22,000 from truck and bus operators for the campaign funds of 1939 when Gov. Keen Johnson was elected.

Puts Blame on Two.

Moore said he did this on request of Johnson and Donaldson, then campaign chairman for Gov. Johnson. He declared Donaldson authorized him to say the load limit for trucks would be raised by the legislature. He said this had not been done, that he had again been asked to get campaign contributions, but that he declined to do so and was resigning. Moore is supporting Lt. Gov. Myers.

Immediate denials came from Gov. Johnson and Donaldson. The Louisville newspapers, raising the question of Moore's political motives, called for documentary proof.

Thereupon Moore produced five canceled checks totaling $2,258, purported to have been contributed by truckers to the 1939 funds. Two of them bore the indorsement of Donaldson, one with a signature and one with his initials. Donaldson did not deny the indorsement. Facsimilies of the checks were printed in the newspapers. Meanwhile Sherman Goodpaster, chief of the insurance division, had admitted receiving between $4,000 and $5,000 from Moore for the campaign.

The corrupt practices act provides that no industry regulated by the state shall contribute to the campaign fund of a candidate for elective office. The Louisville Times said that altho the public does not know whether $22,000 was the amount contributed, Moore had submitted enough evidence to prove his case except that he has not proved that a promise of legislation was made.

In recent days, the campaigning has become super-heated. Gov. Johnson a few days ago in a speech termed Kilgore, a "political adventurer" and a "phony farmer," and assailed Lt. Gov. Myers. Kilgore, who has a substantial following among the farmers has been accused of asking for the veto of the state rural electrification bill, but has produced evidence that instead he asked for its passage. He has worked for the farm electrification program, which now finds 60,000 Kentucky farms with electricity as against 10,000 in 1937, Kilgore says.

Lt. Gov. Myers charges a 2 per cent slush fund is being collected. In a Greenville speech he said Donaldson and Gov. Johnson "are compelling state employes to contribute 2 per cent of their salaries for the campaign fund, when employes are already underpaid."

British Clothing Ration to Remain Unchanged

LONDON, Aug. 3 (AP).—The British clothing ration will remain unchanged for the five month period beginning Sept. 1, Hugh Dalton, president of the board of trade, announced today.

HARLEM QUIET, BUT 4,000 POLICE PATROL DISTRICT

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—Life in Harlem appeared near normal today after the rioting and vandalism that took five lives, injured 261, and caused the arrest of 504 Sunday night and Monday.

The heavily populated Negro district, however, continued under guard of 4,000 police as the merchants reopened their stores and the population came out of their homes.

Supplies of milk, bread, and vegetables were moved into the area, with normal supplies expected by nightfall. Altho liquor sales continued to be banned and the war time dim-out regulations remained lifted, police extended the 10:30 p. m. curfew until 11:30 p. m.

Traffic, except for emergency vehicles and food trucks, still was detoured from the area.

Second Suspect Seized in South Side Burglaries

A series of south side burglaries was believed ended last night by police with the arrest of Chester Nawrocki, 25 years old, who gave his address as 4310 South Mozart street. Louis Gagner, 20, of 3846 South Washtenaw avenue, arrested July 29 at the scene of a filling station robbery at 64th street and Western avenue, confessed burglarizing three filling stations, a lunchroom, and a grocery store and implicated Nawrocki, police said.

YOUNG PAROLEE GETS 199 YEARS AS GIRL'S KILLER

Defense Declines to Make Plea for Leniency.

Mount Vernon, Ill., Aug. 3 (AP).—Robert Vanatta, 18 years old, was sentenced today to 199 years in prison for the murder of Miss Norma Geraldine Bradford, 21, a Mount Vernon waitress.

Circuit Judge W. Joe Hill imposed sentence after defense counsel, appointed by the court, refused to make a plea for leniency because "any judgment the court found would be acceptable to the boy and his attorneys."

State's Atty. George W. Howard had demanded the 199-year term as "the only sentence which will keep him confined the remainder of his life, punish him adequately, and protect society."

Vanatta, however, made a plea to the court, saying: "Make it as light as possible. It never will happen again." Vanatta was on parole from the Sheridan branch of the Illinois Training School for Boys at the time of the slaying.

Miss Bradford was clubbed and shot to death near her home the night of July 11. Arrested several hours later, Vanatta confessed and said that he had shot her from ambush in the mistaken belief she was Mrs. Frances Vanatta, his stepmother.

After discovering his mistake, he said, he fired three more shots into her body "to put her out of her misery."

CAFE OPERATORS DENY SMASHING OPA PRICE LID

Chicago restaurant operators yesterday denied the charge that they were evading the office of price administration request that prices be stabilized at the April 4-10 level. Prices have not been raised, they said, nor has the quality of their food and the size of their servings been cut.

Robert C. Travis, vice president of the CIO Illinois State Industrial Union council, had charged Monday that prices in restaurants were excessive and that restaurants were evading the ceilings by cuts in quantity and quality. He also said prices should be rolled back to the September, 1942, level.

"We are abiding by the OPA request to the letter," said one restaurateur. "There have been no price increases since the April 4-10 period." Others corroborated his statement.

Restaurateurs said a roll-back to the September, 1942, level would be impracticable because of increases in labor and food costs since that date.

FORMER MOVIES OWNER FOUND DEAD IN HIS CAR

Meyer Samuel Marks, 48 years old, once part owner of a chain of Chicago motion picture theaters, was found asphyxiated from carbon monoxide gas last night in his automobile parked in a lot at the foot of East Monroe street. Police said he apparently committed suicide by inhaling fumes from a tube connected to the exhaust pipe of the car, while he sat at the wheel with windows of the car caulked with cotton to prevent a leak.

Marks, who lived at 257 East Delaware place, was a widower. Surviving are a son, Julian, an army flyer, and a daughter, Paulette. Marks and his brother, Louis L. Marks, owned the Marbro, Granada, and Broadway Strand theaters until 1928 when they sold them to Paramount Publix corporation.

GLIDER CRASH IS BLAMED ON BODY DEFECTS

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 3 (AP).—Sen. Bennett C. Clark [D., Mo.] said tonight he had been informed the glider crash in which 10 prominent men died at St. Louis Sunday was caused by a structural defect in the ship's fuselage where the right wing strut fastened.

Clark, chairman of the special senate committee for investigating civilian aviation crashes, said the report came from Lt. Carl Harper, a committee investigator.

5 MORE GAS DEALERS PENALIZED BY OPA IN CHECKUP ON COUPONS

Five more Chicago area gasoline retailers were ordered closed yesterday by W. M. McFarland, regional hearing commissioner for the office of price administration, to close their businesses for short periods because of irregularities in their ration coupon accounts. Similar penalties were imposed on four stations Monday.

McFarland said that most of the violations were caused by gasoline dealers advancing ration coupon credit to truck operators until the end of the month, contrary to OPA rules.

Those penalized yesterday were: P. L. Johnston, 3757 North Ashland avenue, suspended for 8 days; Harry Levy, 1700 Milwaukee avenue, 3 days; Robert G. Stonehocker, 956 North Cicero avenue, 3 days; John A. Ciszek, 255 West Garfield boulevard, 2 days, and Louis B. Nieland, 6055 Northwest highway, 3 days. All the suspensions become effective Aug. 8.

Edward F. Stegen, regional rationing executive, yesterday reported virtual completion of distribution of No. 3 ration books. Stegen said 34,999 books could not be delivered because the applicants had moved and 3,973 applications were illegible. Civilians who have not received their No. 3 book should apply at their nearest local rationing board.

ILLINOIS BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Gail Compton

Aug. 3, 1943.

TO keep the corn borer company, another unwelcome pest has shown up on the Wheaton farm—the chinch bug. Fortunately, the weather has been unfavorable for the growth of the bugs, so they are few in number. Their presence is indicated, however, by a few stalks of corn that are bent and broken, killed by the sucking insect.

Altho the bugs are doing little damage at the farm, they are capable of devastating entire areas. In 1934, the chinch bug did 40 million dollars damage to corn, wheat, and oats in Illinois alone. For this reason, the men are keeping an eye on the tiny bugs to see that they do not multiply too fast.

The chinch bug, in its adult stage, is about one sixth of an inch long. It is black with white markings and has wings with which it can fly as far as 10 miles in a day. The pests migrate three times a year. In spring, they leave their winter quarters and go to the fields, where they feed and lay eggs. In the summer, they move from the fields of small grains to corn fields, and in the fall return to winter quarters.

Legume Plants Spared.

The chinch bug is more or less choosey about its food. Fortunately, it will not feed on any members of the legume family. Thus the clover and alfalfa fields are free of the pest. This means less crops to guard. The bug delights, however, in sucking the sap from plants belonging to the grass family. This includes all small grains as well as corn, broomcorn, sorghum, millet, and wild and cultivated grasses.

Of the small grains, the bug likes barley best and barley fields will be heavily infested while nearby oat fields will suffer little harm. During April, May, and June the bug spends its days in the grain fields. Then, when the corn is sprouting, it transfers its attentions. A cluster of bugs swarming over a corn stalk can chew it off in a short time.

The chinch bug.

The long heavy rains of spring have helped to keep chinch bug numbers down. The rain beats the young bugs down into the ground and mires them in so they die. Also, dampness and high humidity are favorable for the development of white fungus disease that destroys chinch bugs.

Avoid Fire Treatment.

In controling chinch bugs, winter burning of fields and fence rows is not advised. At most, this will account for only 50 per cent of the wintering bugs and the fire may do more harm than good.

Crop rotation to prevent the bugs from having a steady food supply is one recommended method of dealing with the pests. A rotation of corn, soy beans, wheat or oats, and clover will suffer as little loss as any series of crops

A creosote barrier between the fields of small grain and the corn fields is another good way to prevent spread of the bug. During its early life, it does not have wings and must travel by leg. Poison barriers or strips of chemically treated paper have proved helpful. Spraying or dusting can be done on the outer rows of corn, using half an ounce of 40 per cent nicotine sulphate in one gallon of water in which an ounce of strong laundry soap has been dissolved. Some varieties of corn are chinch bug resistant to a certain extent, and it is wise to use such strains for planting.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

A VISIT to one of Chicago's largest war garden projects, at 67th street and California avenue, proves that residents of the metropolitan area are materially aiding in the food production program. The project covers an entire city block, with most of the individual plots 50 feet square.

Despite the fact that the area was flooded during May, delaying the start of the planting season, almost all of the plots are under intense cultivation. Interest has remained high, as proved by the fact that most of the gardens are free of weeds.

The most common errors made by the novice gardeners in these plots, according to project leaders, are these: In their zeal to produce as much as possible from their small plots, gardeners planted their rows too close together; many planted carrots, beets, and lettuce rows as close as 12 inches, thus eliminating the chance to cultivate the top soil and permitting weeds between such rows to go unmolested. The second most common error was that of planting relatively unimportant vegetables, such as squash, cucumbers, and melons, which require too much space to be practical in small gardens.

WOODEN CARGO PLANE BUILDING ENDED BY ARMY

Two Plants Shifted to Metal Ships.

Washington, D. C. Aug. 3 (AP).—The army's metal-saving experiment in construction of an all wood transport plane was closed out today with the cancellation of two large contracts for production of the Curtiss C-76 Caravan. Few of the planes were built, it was learned.

Air forces officials would say only that "it is expected that up to approximately 15, of which some have been test flown, will be accepted and used for service test purposes for this type of plane."

The contracts had been placed with the Curtiss-Wright company plant at Louisville, Ky., and the Higgins company, New Orleans, both of which now will produce the Curtiss C-46 Commando, an all metal transport designed to carry paratroops, light artillery, or freight.

Shift is Effective at Once.

The war department announcement of the substitution dealt only with the Higgins contract, implying that it was effective immediately, but Curtiss-Wright also announced conversion to Commandos.

G. W. Vaughan, president of Curtiss-Wright, said all employes of the Louisville plant would be kept at their present positions and thousands more would be required.

Higgins said in New Orleans that the war department had awarded him an "equal" contract for the C-46 Curtiss Commando ships and "we will employ more people under the new contract which involves bigger ships."

The army said experience with experimental models had demonstrated that the Caravan was both more costly to build and less efficient than metal airplanes.

Requirement Are Changed.

It was designed to operate from small and unimproved landing fields, carrying a maximum of 4,500 pounds of cargo at medium ranges. Last year, when the manufacturing plans were made, the army expected to need large numbers of such aircraft. Because of the shortage of strategic metals the added requirement was imposed that the plane be built of wood and other nonstrategic materials.

Since then, however, the need has proved to be for long range types of greater capacity and the army has found itself, even in the combat zones, with landing fields adequate for operation of faster planes. Furthermore, said the cancellation order:

"Aluminum production has been greatly increased and should be sufficient to meet requirements for the all-metal type of plane. On the other hand, there has developed an actual shortage of the kinds of woods best adapted for such wood plane construction."

The amount involved in the Higgins and Curtiss-Wright cost-plus-fixed-fee contracts was not disclosed by the army, but informed persons elsewhere placed the total at nearly 400 million dollars.

MORE MEXICAN GOODS SHOWN IN GIFT MARKET

Exhibitors at the giftware, china, and pottery market in the Merchandise Mart are showing more Mexican goods than in the past, officials of the mart said yesterday. Several American suppliers were reported to have made arrangements with Mexican producers of silverware, jewelry, lamp bases, jade bric-a-brac and other items for special stylings more suitable to the United States market than the ordinary Mexican products.

Some difficulties have been encountered. Mexican producers were said to lack promptness in meeting promised schedules, and a lack of crates and boxes in Mexico has complicated shipping. Breakages were reported to be a problem.

Domestic manufacturers of gift items have not experimented with new products of untested marketability, mart officials said. With many materials, including wiring and sockets for lamps, hard to get, the manufacturers are not running the risk of putting materials into items that might not sell.

Fuel Dealers Told by WMC to Trim Hauls

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—The war man power commission ruled today that coal and wood dealers suffering from labor shortages must revise their delivery practices to meet certain standards in order to get assistance from the United States employment service in recruiting new workers.

The action followed similar orders for laundries and restaurants, and the same technique soon will be extended to other trades, WMC officials said.

New standards for coal and wood dealers prohibit deliveries in lots of less than one ton of coal or one cord of wood except in emergencies or when customers lack facilities to receive deliveries of that size.

5 Days' Notice Required.

The ruling requires that customers must give retailers at least five days' notice before delivery is expected, to help assure efficient routing of trucks, and requires that they must be loaded to capacity whenever possible. The pooling of facilities among dealers and interchange of orders, wherever feasible, also is included in the standards.

Meanwhile, WMC officials met for the second day with regional directors from thruout the country to draft changes in the labor stabilization orders which blanket the country.

Labor Curbs Charged.

Complaints have been made to the WMC that its job freezing edicts in some cases have hampered the movement of workers from labor surplus areas into labor shortage areas because in most instances workers have to go thru the machinery of obtaining release certificates from WMC offices. Officials said plans to simplify this transfer procedure are being studied.

The WMC also has submitted to the regional officials its pending order which will permit job transfers for higher pay by employes who are receiving less than the "going wage rate" in the community for their present work.

HOG PRICE RANGE IS BROADEST IN NEARLY 2 YEARS

The range of hog prices in the Chicago stock yards yesterday was the widest in almost two years as pressure increased on prices of heavy weights. The lightest stock sold strong to 10 cents higher, but heavies ran steady to 10 cents lower.

A 5 cent higher top, $14.55 a 100 pounds, was paid for selected 225 pound young hogs, the highest price since June 1.

Buyers paid an average of $13.70 for the total hog supply, including sows, which held steady with Monday's prices, but 85 cents below the extreme top for light butchers. This was the widest spread between the top and average since September, 1941.

Unevenness developed in the market for beef animals. Most good to choice steers, yearlings and heifers brought steady to strong prices, while others were weaker. Sheep and lambs sold steady to strong. Top lambs reached $15.10.

WHEAT FUTURES RISE AS MILLS, DISTILLERS BUY

Wheat futures advanced yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade on buying attributed to mills and distillers. The close was ⅝ to ½ cent a bushel higher, after hedging sales trimmed early gains of 1 cent.

Oats and rye rallied from an early dip, oats finishing unchanged to ⅛ cent higher and rye closing up ¼ to ⅜ cent.

The Commodity Credit corporation was reported to have broadened its program of obtaining cash wheat at terminal markets at the loan price or less. Government buying in the northwest has been under way for more than a week, with 1 million bushels purchased. More than 500,000 bushels of hard winter wheat were said to have been acquired in the west and southwest to increase supplies available for sale as feed.

MUNICIPAL AIRPORT'S USE GAINS 65 PCT. IN FIRST SEVEN MONTHS

There were 65 per cent more airplane landings and takeoffs at the Municipal airport in the first seven months of 1943 than in the corresponding 1942 period, Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, announced yesterday. Altho arrivals and departures of scheduled airline planes declined 19.8 per cent as a result of wartime curtailment, the use of the field by other planes, primarily military aircraft, rose 211.9 per cent.

Hewitt said there were 52,937 landings and takeoffs in the seven months by military and other planes not operating on regular schedules, compared with 16,967 in the corresponding 1942 period. Landings and departures by scheduled planes totaled 23,252 in the first seven months this year, compared with 29,002 in the 1942 period, and 31,844 in these seven months of the peak year, 1941.

While use of the field by scheduled planes declined 19.8 per cent passengers carried declined only 5.7 per cent, from an all time high of 384,162 in the first seven months of 1942 to 362,214 in the corresponding period this year.

War Spending in July Drops Half a Billion

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3 (AP).—Lending emphasis to recent critical comments on production trends, the treasury disclosed today that actual war spending during July was half a billion dollars under that of June, thus marking the first break in the previously rising curve of all-out spending for war.

The department's daily statement for the first month of the new fiscal year showed war activity expenditures of $6,431,596,616 as against $7,469,266,674 during June. An accompanying explanatory statement, however, said that about half of the billion-dollar drop represented a technical bookkeeping adjustment.

Tax Receipts Hit Record.

On the brighter side, the treasury reported that income tax receipts were the highest on record for any month that did not include a quarterly payment date, and this despite the fact that only "the first trickle" of money—$19,378,000—was collected under the new pay-as-you-go tax law. It added that effects of the monthly old 20 per cent withholding levy will become "strikingly apparent" within the next few days when employers deposit the withheld amounts in government depositories.

Total July income tax receipts were $1,254,934,000 — nearly five times the $273,057,000 for July, 1942 —and swelled aggregate July revenue to $2,007,423,000, contrasted to the $747,009,000 collected in the same month a year ago.

Deficit Over 5 Billion.

Expenditures for both war and nonwar activities were $7,112,459,000, leaving a deficit of $5,105,035,000 for the month. The national debt rose to $145,315,863,000, contrasted with the $81,717,628,000 debt on the same date a year ago.

The government's outlay was the smallest since February, when total spending was listed at $6,118,692,000, of which $5,769,865,000 went for war purposes.

MORE STEAKS, CHOPS IN PROSPECT; OUTPUT GAINS, WMB REPORTS

The prospect of "somewhat more" steaks and pork chops for civilians was held out by the war meat board yesterday in its report of meat production last week in federally inspected plants. The board, meeting in Chicago, said estimated total output was 325 million pounds, an increase of 6 million over the preceding week and 49 million, or 18 per cent, over the corresponding 1942 period.

Beef production totaled 111 million pounds, a gain of 4 million over the week before, but 18 million below a year ago. Pork output was 186 million pounds, a rise of 56 per cent over 1942.

The board reported that movement of stocker and feeder cattle out of principal receiving points to feed lots during the four weeks ended July 30 was 30,823 head, a decrease of 24.2 per cent from the corresponding 1942 period.

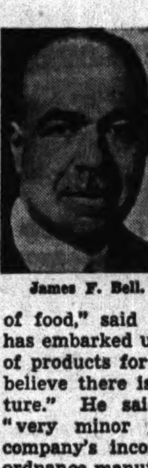
General Mills Starts Making Navy Material

Combined Profit Up

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—Combined net earnings of 340 industrial companies in the first half of the year were $616,935,000, a rise of 13.7 per cent from the total for the first half of 1942, the National City bank said today. The total was 22 per cent below the first half of 1941. On the aggregate net worth the companies averaged 8.4 per cent return, compared with 7.6 per cent in 1942.

General Mills, Inc., Minneapolis, one of the nation's largest cereal and food processors, is engaged in the manufacture of high precision instruments for the navy, James F. Bell, chairman, disclosed yesterday, in his annual report to stockholders.



James F. Bell.

"While the major portion of General Mills remains in the field of food," said Bell, "the company has embarked upon a diversification of products for which the directors believe there is an encouraging future." He said, however, that a "very minor proportion" of the company's income is derived from ordnance manufacture.

Profit Rises to $6.40 a Share.

Consolidated earnings in the fiscal year ended May 31 were $5,365,945, equal to $6.40 a common share, against $5,135,111, or $6.06 a share in the preceding fiscal year. Federal and dominion income and excess profits taxes rose to $9,517,785 from $3,298,000.

Sales, both in volume and dollars, were the highest in the company's history, said Bell, and demand for products has been greater than the "ability to obtain either materials or facilities to produce them."

Socony-Vacuum Oil company estimated that consolidated earnings for the first half of 1943 were approximately 15 million dollars, compared with adjusted net profit of 15½ millions in the corresponding 1942 period. Figures for both half years include no equity in earnings of Standard-Vacuum Oil company of which Socony has a 50 per cent interest and which "did not pay a dividend in 1942 and is not expected to pay one in 1943."

TRADING IN LARD RESUMED AFTER 8 MONTHS' LAPSE

The resumption of trading in lard futures yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade suspended since last Nov. 24, was considered an indication of trade belief that substantial amounts will be available for the next few months.

A Chicago broker purchased 100,000 pounds for September delivery and an equal amount for October at the ceiling price of $13.80 a 100 pounds. Deferred months were offered at prices 5 to 10 cents below the ceiling but there were no takers.

Until recently, government lard requirements were so heavy that civilian market supplies were below demand. The government this week withdrew its order requiring packers to set aside 50 per cent of lard output for federal use, and large quantities came into the market.

Packers were reported yesterday to have offered large amounts to the government, but most of the offers were turned down and the packers asked to reoffer at less than ceiling prices.

STOCK PRICES REBOUND AFTER HEAVY LOSSES

Pivotal Issues Rise 1 to 3 Points.

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—Better support for prominent issues brought a rebound in prices on the stock exchange today after erratic movements in the first two hours of trade. Closing quotations were up fractions to about 3 points.

Brokers described the recovery as normal after the slump of more than a week, the first severe setback experienced by the market in a fifteen month general rise.

Reports that informed quarters in London and elsewhere no longer hoped for an immediate peace with Italy helped to efface some ideas that the end of the European war may be "just around the corner." Such beliefs, arising from the Fascist break-up, touched off the heavy selling, but analysis showed that the so-called "peace" stocks went down even faster than some of the "war" shares.

A. T. & T. Gets Back 1⅝.

American Telephone, down more than 4 yesterday, came back 1⅝. Standard Oil [New Jersey], up 2½, and Santa Fe, up 2, just about canceled their Monday losses. Johns-Manville rose 3⅛, and Pepsi-Cola 2. Advances ran from fractions to a point for United States Steel, Bethlehem, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, Western Union, and Southern Railway.

The Associated Press 60 stock average snapped back 0.7 to 49.2, after dropping nearly 4½ points in the preceding seven trading sessions.

Transactions totaled 1,203,830 shares, compared with 1,345,210 yesterday.

BOND PRICES RECOVER.

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—Bond prices recovered today to erase most of yesterday's losses. Widest changes occurred among the rails, with several medium priced issues heavily traded at rising prices.

Industrials and utilities were generally steady. United States government loans firmed, and foreign loans averaged a little higher. Sales of $10,582,000 compared with $10,847,000 yesterday.

CHICAGO STOCKS DIP.

Prices were slightly lower in quiet trading on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Chicago corporation, the volume leader, rose ⅛ point to 4⅞ on a turnover of 6,000 shares. Of the 103 issues traded, 34 closed higher, 51 declined, and 18 were unchanged.

Merger Sought

BY CHARLES GOTTHART.

Consolidation of Central and South West Utilities company and the American Public Service company thru issuance of a single class of stock in exchange for outstanding issues with large dividend accumulations was proposed yesterday.

An amended plan filed with the securities and exchange commission at Philadelphia, after several years' litigation over the validity of the "death sentence" provision of the holding company act, represented another step in a long range program for revamping the Middle West corporation, of which the other companies are subsidiaries.

Under the plan, American Public Service would be absorbed and the continuing company would be named Central and South West corporation. The merger would become effective upon approval by holders of two-thirds of the companies' outstanding stock.

Would Keep All Properties.

The merged corporation would issue 3,655,951 shares of $10 par value stock, of which 50,000 shares would be sold to Middle West at par to provide cash for carrying out the consolidation. All properties of both companies would be retained.

For each share of American 7 per cent preferred stock, the holder would receive 11 shares of the merged corporation and $24.59 in cash to satisfy unpaid dividends. Central's $7 prior lien stock would also receive 11 shares plus $22.20 cash and its $6 prior lien would receive 9.429 shares plus $19.03 to cover dividends.

Central's $7 preferred stock would receive 7⅛ shares of the consolidated company, but no cash payment. In the other instances, the holders were given the option of accepting a proportionate amount of additional stock instead of cash for their accumulated dividends.

For each 100 shares of Central's common stock, holders would be given 2¾ shares of the merged firm. For each four shares of American's common not owned by Central, the holder would receive 1⅛ new shares.

Original Plan Rejected.

The plan was filed in compliance with the commission's order of June 4, 1942, for corporate simplification under the holding company act. Termination of either Central or American was ordered.

An original plan called for consolidation thru issuance of two classes of stock, but the SEC refused permission for this and was upheld in the courts. The amended plan was filed with the proviso that the companies reserved the right to ask United States Supreme court review of the lower court ruling.

Middle West owns substantial percentages of the merging companies' stocks. Purcell L. Smith, Middle West president, early this year disclosed plans for breaking up the system and distributing to shareholders about 60 per cent of the assets represented by holdings in underlying properties.

The 40 per cent remaining will comprise holdings in stock of the Central Illinois Public Service company, Kentucky Utilities company, and Public Service Company of Indiana.

Proposes New Units

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—A plan for the breakup of the North American company, billion dollar public utility holding company, was announced today by its president, Edward L. Shea, to meet the "death sentence" provision of the public utility holding company act.

Shea said the plan would enable North American to divest itself of the major part of its utility investment "by a method which contemplates the retirement of the senior securities of the company and the eventual distribution of its principal investments among holders of its common stock."

Creates 4 Holding Companies.

The company has arranged for a $34,881,500 bank loan at 2 per cent interest to retire its outstanding debentures.

The plan provides for creation of four regional holding companies as follows:

Union Regional company, to hold the common stock of Union Electric company of Missouri; Ohio Regional company, to hold the common stock of Cleveland Electric Illuminating company; Wisconsin Michigan Regional company, to hold common stock of Wisconsin Electric Power company and part of North American's present holdings of Pacific Gas & Electric company common stock; North American Regional company, to hold common stock of Washington [D. C.] Railway and Electric company and part of the common stock of the Pacific Gas and Electric company.

Liquidating Company Planned.

A fifth company, to be known as the Liquidating company, would hold North American's interest in the North American Light and Power company and other holdings in miscellaneous nonutility concerns, including West Kentucky Coal company and North American's New York office building. This liquidating company would be owned jointly by the four regional holding companies.

The plan has been adopted by the North American board of directors and will be filed with the securities and exchange commission tomorrow.

For 60 days following SEC approval of the plan, Shea announced, holders of North American common stock could obtain their proportionate share of underlying stocks of North American's subsidiaries by surrendering their stock certificates and paying their proportionate share of cash necessary to retire the indebtedness and preferred stock outstanding and ranking ahead of North American common.

Each Would Own a System.

After 60 days North American's assets would be divided among the four regional holding companies which would assume the obligations under the bank loan agreement and issue their shares of preferred and common stock to stockholders of North American.

"Each of the four regional holding companies would own a single integrated public utility system," said Shea. "Eventually, upon retirement of its indebtedness and preferred stock, each regional holding company would be dissolved and its remaining assets would be distributed among its own common stockholders."

UNION SESSION TODAY PREPARED TO VOTE STRIKE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3 (AP).—Officers of 15 railroad unions, representing more than a million nonoperating employes, will meet tomorrow prepared to authorize a strike ballot a step which may mean government operation of the railroads for the duration of the war. Angered because Fred M. Vinson, stabilization director, set aside an emergency board recommendation for an 8 cent wage increase, the union leaders are ready to poll the employes on the question of a strike.

It was learned, however, that conversations looking to a settlement were resumed today by union spokesmen, government officials, and representatives of the carriers. Further conferences are scheduled later in the week.

ONLY 5 NEW CAR DEALERS GIVE UP IN THREE MONTHS

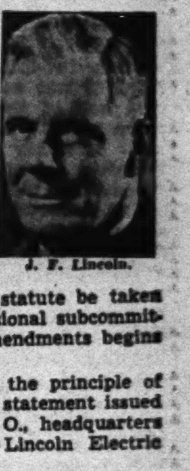
The number of new auto agencies in Cook county decreased only five from April 1 to July 1, altho new car sales are virtually nonexistent, the Chicago Automobile Trade association reported yesterday. The 399 dealers in business the first of last month compared with 426 a year earlier.

Paul B. Smithson, president of the association, said dealers, able to sell only a few new cars under rationing, were relying upon used cars and service.

PRICE CUTTING HELD PENALTY ON EFFICIENCY

Lincoln Likens It to Piece-Rate Trims.

J. F. Lincoln, president of a manufacturing company known for its system of sharing profits with employes and its record of high efficiency in production, charged yesterday that war contract renegotiation penalizes efficient operation. He proposed that action to exempt certain types of contracts from the renegotiation statute be taken when the congressional subcommittee hearing on amendments begins in September.



J. F. Lincoln.

Lincoln assailed the principle of renegotiation in a statement issued at the Cleveland, O., headquarters of his company — Lincoln Electric company.

He declared that renegotiation "is a $2 name for a very old and much used policy" which he said was called piecework wage cutting when manufacturers applied the principle to workers.

Biggest Management Mistake.

Industry's experience with the principle "has been very long and very costly," Lincoln said, after asserting that the government is doing the same thing to industry that many companies have done to their employes under the piecework system.

"Piecework wage cutting has done more to reduce efficiency of production than any other mistake that management has ever made," he said. "The pieceworker originally received a contract at so much a piece. At first he went ahead on the idea that he would get that much for all the pieces he made.

"However, as soon as his skill increased his earnings beyond a certain point, management cut the price. Labor took the obvious course and limited output so that in 99.9 per cent of all factories of the United States limitation of output is a philosophy, disobedience to which results in a cracked head for a man who breaks the established limited production."

Employes Average $5,000 a Year.

In connection with renegotiation, Lincoln said:

"Manufacturers of standard commercial products, whose long established costs have been determined by competition, and whose prices have been frozen by the office of price administration, must be exempt from renegotiation unless efficient operation is to be penalized and wasteful high cost manufacturing rewarded."

The Lincoln company recently reported that the average of annual earnings of its workers from 1929 thru 1941 was nearly $5,000, and that under its incentive pay and profit sharing system the company gets 50 per cent to several hundred per cent more production per man than other companies making welding equipment.

WPB WILL MOVE 'FROZEN' METAL FOR HOME GOODS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3 (AP).—Some 5,000 tons of brass and copper are available for household ware, clocks, and similar "permitted civilian goods," the war production board announced today. The materials have been "frozen" in inventories, WPB's consumers durable goods division said, and transfer to manufacturers will be made thru the Copper Recovery corporation.

A spokesman explained the action does not represent an increase in allotment of scarce materials to civilians, but means that production of certain civilian goods in limited quantities will be a fact instead of a theory.

Charles T. Brose Heads WPB Printing Section

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3 (AP).—The war production board announced today the appointment of Charles T. Brose of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., as chief of the commercial printing section of the printing and publishing division. Brose has been associated with the Western Printing and Lithographing company of Racine, Wis., for 30 years and vice president in charge of the Poughkeepsie plant since 1933.

GEN. SOMERVELL WARNS OF LAG IN OUTPUT FOR WAR

Three-Fifths of Year's Goal to Go.

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, chief of the army service forces, said today that army procurement had fallen behind schedule to the extent of approximately 300 million dollars in the last three months.

Gen. Somervell said that May production figures were five per cent below forecast, June showed no improvement, and preliminary figures for the first 20 days of July indicated that month would be "decidedly worse" than June.

"Only two-fifths of our program for 1943 was accomplished in the first half of the year and three-fifths remains for completion," he said. "Monthly schedules must be increased thruout the year if our procurement plan is to be attained."

Gen. Somervell's disclosures came as he and Charles E. Wilson, executive vice chairman of the war production board, discussed present and future war production needs at a meeting of the Commerce and Industry association of New York.

Many Contributory Factors.

Many factors, Gen. Somervell said were contributing to the difficulty in meeting production schedules. He listed shifts in production and sharp cutbacks in specific types of munitions and the man power shortage as outstanding causes.

"I cannot promise that the day of cutbacks has passed," he said. "War is not static. Operations in Europe will require different equipment from operations in North Africa."

While the army realizes the problems in production arising from shortage of man power in various industrial areas, Gen. Somervell told the meeting, "you must not look to the army to release men to solve this problem."

"Today our military position thruout the world may be rightfully regarded with optimism," he said. "We must not let this optimism in any way abate our effort at home.

Must Exploit Victories.

"Supplies and materials must be made available at an accelerated rate to permit the full exploitation of each victory to bring about the earliest possible conclusion of the war. A failure to exploit victory means delay and loss of life. Transportation and supplies must not occasion such delay."

An atmosphere of anticipated victory makes it all the more imperative for industry to concentrate on the "hard realities" of increased war production, Wilson declared, adding that over confidence and over optimism were the real enemies "insidiously working from within to undermine our power."

Production schedules are tied in with the schedules for military action overseas, and the production plan is not separate from military strategy, Wilson said.

"If as a manufacturer," he added, "you are scheduled to produce a certain quantity of war material by a certain date, you have undertaken a specific military obligation."

I. C. LEASED LINE.

Please explain the status of Illinois Central "leased line" stock. —B. J.

Answer: The stock is outstanding in the amount of $9,989,700 and is secured by a corresponding par value of capital stock of the Chicago, St. Louis, and New Orleans railroad, held by the Illinois Central.

Dividends of 4 per cent a year on the leased line stock are guaranteed by the Illinois Central, which operates the road. In case of a default in dividends for 60 days, holders of the leased line stock are entitled to receive the pledged stock. So long as the Illinois Central wishes to keep the Chicago, St. Louis, and New Orleans mileage as part of its system, the dividends on the leased line stock are a fixed obligation, ranking ahead of Illinois Central preferred and common stock.

VOTE ON STRIKE IN TWO ALLIS PLANTS TODAY

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 3 (AP).—The nation's first secret strike ballot under the Smith-Connally anti-strike law will be taken tomorrow at two war plants of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company.

Production and maintenance workers will be asked to vote yes or no on the question: "Do you wish to permit an interruption of war production in war time as a result of this dispute?"

The vote is intended to dispose of a long controversy between district 50 of the United Mine Workers and the CIO of the United Mine Workers and the CIO United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers of America.

The national labor relations board authorized the election after district 50 officials served notice July 2 that 1,200 members it claims would strike in 30 days unless the collective bargaining dispute were settled.

Court Studies Legal Fees for 32 S. State Building

Applications by 13 lawyers for $135,483 of fees in the reorganization of the 32 South State Building corporation were taken under advisement yesterday by Federal Judge William H. Holly. G. G. Roberson, attorney representing the securities and exchange commission, objected that some of the fees asked were unreasonable. The fees sought exceed 15 per cent of the $853,000 of first mortgage bonds held by 1,500 investors. Roberson said the total fee would have to be reduced to $65,000.

Pinched for Cash
$20 FOR 30 DAYS COSTS ONLY 60c
The common-sense solution to any money shortage is a short-term loan. It allows a "breathing spell" in which to adjust expenses to fit income. Right now, for instance, living costs are up and it is becoming increasingly difficult to make ends meet. A loan from Commonwealth will "tide you over" until you get adjusted to these new war-time conditions. Monthly rate 3% on balances of $150 or less, and 2½% on that part of the unpaid balance over $150.
